STEEL TRUST HEADS FACE CRIMINAL TRIAL

Evidence Gathered by Bureau of Corporations Now Available for Prosecution.

FREIGHT RATES AN ISSUE

Chairman Stanley Draws Attention to Charges Over Lines Owned by Steel Corporation—Gary in Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—It was learned to-day that the Administration has been keeping close watch on the doings of the United States Steel Corporation for a long time with a view to possible prosecution of that concern for violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust act, and that such prosecution is practically certain within the next few months unless there is a readjustment of the practices of the Steel Trust in conformity with the Supreme Court decision in the case of the Tobacco Trust.

It may be said now that in case such prosecution is undertaken there will probably be an effort to indict certain Steel Corporation officials criminally, and they will be tried individually before juries.

The decision of the Supreme Court in the tobacco case has furnished much food for thought to Administration officials charged with the enforcement of the anti-trust act. The very striking similarity between the line of reasoning followed by Chief Justice White in that opinion and the reasoning of President Taft in his special message to Congress of Jan. 7, 1910, in which he discussed the anti-trust act and the Administration scheme for Federal incorporation, has attracted much attention at Washington.

When the Standard Oil decision came down there was a disposition to call attention to some expressions of the President in that message as showing that he did not agree with the Chief Justice in what the court had to say about a "reasonable" construction of the Sherman law. But a careful reading of all the President had to say in that message shows clearly that he is in entire accord with the line taken by the court in the recent decisions, and that there is no conflict at all between them on the use of the word "reasonable."

Urged by Taft.

What the President was aiming at was the effort of certain corporation men to have written into the law an amendment embodying the word "reasonable" that should clear all those who contented themselves with taking what they termed a "reasonable" profit out of their combinations. The President then condemned just as strongly as the court now does the practices which the Administration has always held to be at the bottom of violations of the anti-trust law. These are best described in the following paragraph from that message. The President says:

> Through all our consideration of this grave question, however, we must insist that the suppression of competition, the controlling of prices, and the monopoly or attempt to monopolize in inter-State commerce and business are not only unlawful, but contrary to the public good and that they must be restrained and punished until ended.

This paragraph gives a practical catalogue of the corporation doings which the President often describes as "vicious practices." In another part of that message he said:

> It is the duty and the purpose of the Executive to direct an investigation by the Department of Justice, through the Grand Jury or otherwise, into the history, organization, and purposes of all the industrial companies with respect to which there is any reasonable ground for suspicion that they have been organized for a purpose and are conducting business on a plan which is in violation of the anti-trust law.

Ever since that message was sent to Congress, more than a year ago, the Department of Justice has been conducting that kind of an investigation into the doings of the Steel Corporation. There is ground for saying now that the department believes it has found a condition quite as bad in certain respects as that disclosed in the trial of the Tobacco case.

Leads to Criminal Trials.

This evidence, it is believed, relates to the "vicious practices" already described. The Administration holds that these practices evidence an intent to restrain trade and to effect a monopoly, and thus they show a purpose to violate the anti-trust law. It will be the effort of the contemplated prosecution to prove such an intent on the part of the guiding head of the Steel Corporation. That means, of course, criminal prosecution.

From what can be learned now it is apparent that the Administration does not intend to base its proposed action upon the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company by the Steel Corporation. That may have been one of the violations of the anti-trust law, but it was made under circumstances such that the Steel Trust is not likely to be called to account for it. The prosecutions will be confined to other acts of the corporation which fall within the condemned lines.

It is not likely that the hearings now going on before the Select Committee of the House investigating the Steel Trust under the Stanley resolution will develop much material of service to the Department of Justice in its contemplated action. There is reason for believing that the department already has evidence obtained by its own agents which goes quite as far as any likely to be brought out by Mr. Stanley. But certain things that have come out before the committee show lines which the Government prosecution may follow.

Facts on Which to Base Action.

It has been testified by Mr. Gates and admitted by Judge Gary that the American Steel and Wire Company, when it became a subsidiary concern of the Steel Corporation, did nearly 80 per cent. of the business in its line in this country. There was similar testimony as to others of the Steel Trust subsidiary concerns. Nothing has appeared to show that these concerns have not continued to hold this large percentage of the business in their lines, and that is always a suspicious circumstance when violations of the Sherman law are under consideration.

It is not anticipated that the contemplated prosecutions will be undertaken immediately. On the contrary, the Department of Justice is likely to go its own way regardless of the Stanley investigation. It requires a great deal of time to complete the thorough preparation of such a case, and Mr. Wickersham does not usually move hastily in such matters.

Mr. Clayton of Alabama, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, to-day introduced resolutions asking the President if criminal prosecutions had been made against the Steel Trust or the American Tobacco Company, or if none had been made, whether or not it was his purpose to institute such prosecutions in the future. The resolutions were referred to the Judiciary Committee, and will be favorably reported.

Within about ten days the investigation by the Bureau of Corporations into the organization and conduct of the United States Steel Corporation will be placed on the desk of President Taft. The hast-

JOHNS ASSAULTS ROBT. HOE.

Husband of the Woman Who Is Suing the Estate Meets Him at his Door.

Arthur Johns, husband of Mrs. Margaret Johnson Brown Johns, who is suing the Hoe estate for $230,000 in the Supreme Court, was before Magistrate Herrman in the Night Court last night charged with disorderly conduct. It was alleged that he had assaulted Robert Hoe, son of the late printing press manufacturer, as he was about to enter his home, at 113 East Fifty-fifth Street, earlier in the evening, and Johns did not deny the charge.

"Robert Hoe has been abusing the name of my wife and has caused the executors of the will to make scandalous accusations against her," he exclaimed. "When I saw him to-night I decided I would thrash him."

Mr. Hoe, it developed, was returning from his office and had started up the steps of his house, when Johns, who had arrived on the scene a few minutes before in a taxicab with a companion, struck him in the face. Hoe escaped and ran into his house. Policeman Schoenhalt ran up and arrested Johns.

When Mr. Hoe appeared in court he was accompanied by his counsel, Edward G. Pringle. He bore no marks of the encounter. He wanted to press a charge of assault, but finally agreed to make it disorderly conduct.

Mr. Pringle, who is also counsel for the Hoe estate in the suits brought by Mrs. Johns, told Magistrate Herrman that to his knowledge Robert Hoe, Jr., had nothing to do with the action of the executors and was not responsible for anything that had come out at the trials in the Supreme Court.

"Mrs. Johns is suing for $230,000, and there are three actions now pending," he said. "This man's attack is simply a case of spite, and he is using this means to make newspaper capital in connection with his wife's suits."

The Magistrate put Johns under a $500 bond to keep the peace.

MURDER IN CENTRAL PARK?

Police Dig in Boys' Cave After Dirk and Other Things Are Found.

Capt. Carson and a squad of policemen of the Arsenal Station in Central Park spent more than two hours yesterday afternoon digging in a cave between two big rocks on the shore of the Fifty-ninth Street lake, about a block north of Sixth Avenue. At nightfall the Captain and his men had found no signs of a murder committed there, which was what they had been looking for, but they said that with daylight to-day they would be back at their digging.

The extraordinary energy of the police was occasioned by the find of several small boys some weeks ago of a bloodstained dirk, part of a man's sleeve, and a towel buried in the dirt at the entrance of the cave. The boys found the articles while playing in the grass, but said nothing about it to their parents until yesterday, when the father of 13-year-old William J. Clark of 139 West Sixty-second Street saw him polishing the dirk. When he heard the story the father sent the boy to the police.

Capt. Carson thinks that some one was murdered in the cave.

REJECTS $6,500 JOB.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., June 6.—Thomas Morrison, one of Pittsburg's young Carnegie millionaires, has rejected Gov. Tener's tender of the post of City Commissioner, to work with nine other business men and manufacturers in governing Pittsburg.

"I can't accept the place," said Mr. Morrison. "I don't need the money and I have not the time."

The salary is $6,500 a year. Every man appointed to the commission is wealthy, three being millionaires. Until a successor is named to take the place offered Mr. Morrison the commission cannot organize, so that Pittsburg is without any form of government save the administrative.

Other appointees have not yet accepted, preferring to "consider the matter," but all are expected to be present when the reformed council meets. Mayor Magee declares that Gov. Tener's appointments represent the best that can be obtained in the city. Mr. Morrison's refusal to accept the place probably will cause the naming of another steel millionaire, as every phase of Pittsburg's important industries is to be represented on the commission. It is said that the aim is to appoint practical men who will be better able to legislate than the old City Councils which came to an end through the graft scandals.

HEROISM IN A LIGHTHOUSE.

Keeper Dead, Light Out of Order, Children Turn It All Night.

PARIS, June 6.—The attention of the French Government has been called to a dramatic incident demonstrating the faithfulness to duty of the family in charge of the Kerdonis Lighthouse on the southeast point of Belle Ile-en-Mer, a windswept spot on the coast of Brittany.

Matelot, the keeper of the light, while cleaning the revolving lamp, was stricken with illness. He continued his work until he was carried by his wife in a dying condition to his bed. The woman was unable to abandon her post or her four young children in order to seek help.

As dusk came on she mounted the tower to light the lamp and returned just in time to hear her husband's dying words. One of the children discovered that the light was not turning, and the women, realizing the danger of disaster to mariners, who might mistake Kerdonis for some fixed light, worked vainly for an hour to repair the mechanism.

Finally she set the two eldest children, aged respectively, seven and ten, to work, and throughout the night, with a fierce storm raging, they turned the heavy lamp with their puny strength.

CRAM CONFIRMED; HARSHLY ASSAILED

Shopworn Office Hunter and Ally in Ice Trust Price Conspiracy, Declares Newcomb.

DIX SUBSERVIENT, HE SAYS

Dominated by Tammany and Makes His Appointments by Political Deals—Vote 26 to 20.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 6.—After listening to a scathing denunciation by Senator Newcomb of Gov. Dix and J. Sergeant Cram, the Governor's appointee to the Public Service Commission of New York City, the Senate to-night confirmed the appointment by a vote of 26 to 20. Every Democrat, with the exception of Senator Cronin of Kings, voted in the affirmative. Senator Duhomel, Independence League member, also voted against confirmation.

Senator Newcomb did not mince words. He attacked the appointment of Mr. Cram in unmeasured terms and assailed the Governor as a man who had sat at the foot of the Tammany throne in abject submission. Mr. Newcomb denounced Mr. Cram as a "time-worn, shop-worn office hunter, offered to many and accepted by few," and as an ally in the conspiracy during the Van Wyck régime to foist the Ice Trust on the people of New York.

"Morse was sent to jail," exclaimed Senator Newcomb. "Van Wyck was driven from public life; Cram was made a Public Service Commissioner by Gov. Dix."

Earlier in the day Senator Newcomb had been instrumental in calling a caucus of the Republican Senators, at which the members of the minority decided to stand together in opposition to Mr. Cram. Senator Newcomb said he had taken this action in the interest of his constituents in New York, who would be subjected to severe hardship in case Mr. Cram was confirmed.

Mr. Newcomb more than intimated that he thought the Governor's action might be the result of influences exercised to the end that a settlement of the subway problem in New York might be deferred, leaving the Interborough alone in the field for a time longer

"Yankee Doodle Cram."

"I propose to point out to-night," said Senator Newcomb, who got the floor as soon as the question of Mr. Cram's nomination came before the Senate, "how the Governor has fallen down abjectly at the foot of the Tamany throne, how he has used Supreme Court seats in his efforts to drive bargains with the Tammany boss, and how he now proposes to prostitute the Public Service Commision by the appointment of 'Yankee Doodle Cram.'

"To find an opportunity to place Mr. Cram in this position the Governor has found it necessary to endanger the transit settlement in New York City, in which the welfare and comfort of the people as well as questions of public decency are involved, questions more vital than any that come under the Governor's authority.

"I appeal most earnestly to the Senators representing outlying districts, the Senators from the Bronx, from Queens, and from Kings, to consider whether the nomination of Mr. Cram may not be one of those apparently small and unimportant events which for so long a time have delayed needed subway construction in New York City. It seems very odd that at the very moment when the McAneny committee is ready to report a plan which in all probability would have the support of a majority on both the Board of Estimate and the Public Service Commission, Gov. Dix should find it necessary to depose Commissioner Bassett, the one man who was best fitted by his experience to take charge of the drafting of contracts and who had complete familiarity with the preceding negotiations.

"It seems odd that the Governor at such a critical time should find it necessary to depose Bassett. For whom? For Cram, the man who, while member of the Van Wyck dock board, prevented the independent ice companies from getting a foot on any of the city's docks and thus aided and abetted the conspiracy to foster the Ice Trust, which was such a public scandal.

"Was it the need of some experienced man, some man in a peculiar way fitted to grapple with a difficult situation, that prompted the Governor? In that case the Governor, by appointing Cram, has differed with every Democrat in recent years who has taken an independent and decent stand in public office. Gov. Hill appointed Cram Quarantine Commissioner. The Senate failed to confirm him. Mayor Hewitt was asked to make him Police Commissioner. THE TIMES, in giving an account of this, says 'It is hardly necessary to say Mr. Cram was not appointed.' He was appointed Dock Commissioner under Mayor Grant and subsequently under the Van Wyck administration of unspeakable memory."

Attacks Cram's Record.

Senator Newcomb declared that Mr. Cram's record as a Dock Commissioner certainly did not show him to be a fit man for the place to which Gov. Dix had appointed him. He referred to the court proceedings over certain dock leases made at a ridiculously low sum to dummies for Tammany eLader Murphy's contracting firm. Mr. Murphy was Treasurer of the Dock Board.

"These leases were attacked in court, and in the course of the proceedings it was shown that in the two months that passed between a certain meeting of the Dock Board and the unexpected victory of the Low ticket the minutes of the Doak Board, of which Mr. Cram was President, had been juggled and important changes made to cover up certain transactions. In this connection I would like to say that records will show Mr. Cram, who had gone abroad, remained in Europe while the affairs of the Dock Board during his régime was being coindancted by District Attorneyney Perome.

After reading from recent TIMES editorials opposing the confirmation of Mr. Cram, Senator Newcomb wenton:

"You have the power to confirm him here to-night, and I have no illusions on the question of what action you will take. But I will remind you that there is one power that is greater than ignorance and brute force, and that is public opinion, and it is to that power the appeal is made in what I have just read.

"The Governor has been deserted by those who supported him because they thought him a man of independent mind and who were not long in discovering their mistake. That was the reason why Thomas M. Osborne left him, and in due process of time the very last remnant of that element in his administration will sever relations with him—shocked, humiliated, disgraced by the course the Gov-

H. S. BOUTELL'S SON ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Jumps from Stairway in West Side Y. M. C. A. with Rope Around His Neck.

CUT DOWN JUST IN TIME

Says Wife Had Left Him and His Babies Were Dead—Father Now Minister to Switzerland.

A young man who described himself as Leonard J. Boutell, a son of ex-Congressman Henry Sherman Boutell of Illinois, now Minister to Switzerland, attempted suicide last night in the West Side Young Men's Christian Association, in West Fifty-seventh Street. After tying a rope around his neck he jumped from the staircase leading from the lobby to the barber's shop. He was cut down just in time to save his life.

Boutell said afterward that he regretted that his rescuers had been so prompt, as family troubles had driven him to despair and he wished to die. He was arrested, and is now a prisoner at the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station, charged with attempted suicide.

Boutell appeared at the West Side Y. M. C. A. early last evening. He did not register, but sat around in the lobby, wrote several letters at one of the desks, and appeared very much depressed. One of the letters was to his wife. It is the custom at the West Side Y. M. C. A. to lock up for the night at 10 P. M. The employes were preparing to close about 9:50 o'clock when Boutell left the lobby and started downstairs. On the stairway is a large window, the lower part of which is raised and lowered by means of two stout window cords. One of these was hanging loose.

Seizing the loose end, Boutell tied it in a slip knot around his neck and jumped off the steps. One of those in the lobby who had noticed Boutell start downstairs was Medrick Johnson of 545 West 144th Street. He had noticed, too, that Boutell had seemed depressed, but thought nothing of the matter until one of the Young Men's Christian Association employes who works in the basement burst open the door leading to the barber shop and yelled that a man was hanging above the stairway.

Johnson and several others hastened down and one of the men got out a pocket knife and cut the rope. Blood was on Boutell's lips, and at first it was thought he was dead. He was dragged upstairs to the lobby, and his arms were worked up and down to create artificial respiration. In a few minutes the young man recovered his breath. Before the police arrived he told this story:

"I was driven to this by desperation. My wife, whom I loved dearly, ran away with another man not long ago, leaving me with our two children, babies. One of the babies died three weeks ago and the other a week ago. Both died because they wanted their mother. Our home was in Florida. The man who ran off with my wife was a boarder in our home. He was my friend, I thought, but he proved my worst enemy.

"My father is ex-Congressman Boutell of Illinois. I have not seen him for several years, however. I left home to seek my fortune as an electrician in Florida several years ago. Since the death of my babies there is nothing more to live for. My heart is broken, and I want to die. I wrote to my wife to-night, telling her what her elopement has brought upon me."

Flower Hospital was notified directly after Boutell's attempt to end his life. But when the ambulance arrived Dr. Knapp decided that the young man's condition was not serious enough to warrant his being removed to the hospital. Policeman Mooney was called in and took Boutell to the station house. He will be arraigned to-day in the West Side Court.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Leonard Boutell, son of ex-Congressman Boutell, has not been in Chcago for some time. Friends of the father say they do not know of his whereabouts or any domestic difficulties.

GOODWIN STARTS SUIT.

Actor Seeks to Recover Trust Fund from Edna Goodrich.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 6.—Nat Goodwin, the actor, who has been married five times, to-day filed a suit against the last Mrs. Goodwin (Edna Goodrich) to recover $250,000 which he turned over to her in a pre-nuptian agreement. His suit is directed against Mrs. Edna Goodrich-Goodwin and the trustee of the property, T. H. Dudley, who took charge of the trust at the time the deed was drawn just prior to Goodwin's marriage to Miss Goodrich.

According to the papers in the suit, the deed was made when Goodwin was still legally married to Jessie McDermott Goodwin, and on that ground is invalid. Goodwin further states that he never consented to the subscription and acknowledgement to the trustees and never thought that Dudley should have been allowed to hold the property until the death of either party.

"The property," said Goodwin to-night at the Alexandria Hotel, "consists of cash and $120,000 in stocks and bonds. Then there is the Lafayette apartment house in San Francisco, half a dozen valuable lots in Ocean Park and Santa Monoca, and some lots in this city."

Asked whether the suit indicated that he had another wedding in view, the actor shook his head vehemently.

"Why, man," he said, "you would have me an Americanized Henry VIII. Why can't you let a fellow alone."

The suit will come up for trial soon.

HOW TERRITORY IS SPLIT

Present Subway to Complete Its H and Possibly Get Brooklyn Loop—Broadway for the B. R. T.

Developments yesterday in the subway situation confirmed from many sources the statements printed in the morning's papers that the report of the McAneny Committee will recommend to the Board of Estimate the rejection of the subway offer of the Interborough on its present terms, but will suggest terms upon which a division of territory may be made between the Interborough and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. The terms underlying the offer of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, with the exception of one or two minor points not agreed upon in the conferences, will be declared satisfactory to the city.

The procedure which the McAneny report will suggest to the Board of Estimate, on this basis, will be the adoption of a resolution giving the Interborough a definite, limited time to accept the parts of the general subway plan assigned to it on terms set forth by the city, while the city would be proceeding to the acceptance of the balance of the plan as included in the B. R. T. offer.

If the Interborough declined to meet those terms, then, according to the agreement of the McAneny Committee and the Public Service Commission, the city would turn to the complete proposal of the Brooklyn company on the theory that the basis underlying it was satisfactory to the city, and that the more favorable terms must be taken as compensating for the failure to make possible the so-called "logical extensions" in the Interborough's proposal.

As to the time in which the Interborough would be allowed to accept or reject the city's terms, the chances are that the allowance will not be more than one week from the date on which the Board of Estimate may adopt the McAneny report. The expectation, therefore, is that by two weeks from to-morrow the final decision will be reached.

The McAneny report will go to the Estimate Board at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning direct from the printer's all-night labor; it will be urged for final adoption at the meeting one week from to-morrow, and the Interborough and Brooklyn Rapid Transit will have until the meeting of the Board of Estimate on June 22 to deliver their final answers to the city.

There was a large and varied discussion all day yesterday of the probable combinations of new subway routes under the conferrees' agreement. From sources in the joint conference friendly to the Interborough came suggestions giving the Interborough a very extensive entry into the best part of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit's territory in Brooklyn with a loop composed of a line out Flatbush Avenue and Eastern Parkway and back over either Lafayette Avenue or the suggested Eastern District subway to Fourteenth Street, Manhattan.

Probable Division of Routes.

As to the particular routes or combinations of routes which the committee will assign to the one company or the other, provided the Interborough accepts the city's terms, it may be declared positively that no word has come from members of either the McAneny committee or the Public Service Commission who are in a position to make such an announcement authoritatively. Certain things regarding the division of routes, however, are considered self-evident by those who have been following subway matters, and among the city's conferrees yesterday there was no disposition to deny that the division, if made on the city's terms, would embrace among others the following features:

> The construction of the so-called "logical extensions" of the Interborough's "H," giving a west side line down Seventh Avenue to the Battery and an east side up Lexington Avenue, with the two extensions in the Bronx.
>
> The construction of the B. R. T.'s Broadway loop line from a connection with a new East River tunnel in lower Manhattan up Broadway and Seventh Avenue to Fifty-ninth Street and across the Queensboro Bridge to extensions in that borough to Astoria and to Woodside and Corona.
> The construction of an elevated loop in Queens from the Queensboro Bridge Plaza back into Broadway, Williamsburg, to connect with the present elevated lines of the B. R. T.
> The construction of a new B. R. T. tunnel under the East River and under Pineapple Street, Brooklyn, to the general subway junction at Atlantic Avenue and a subway out Flatbush Avenue to connect the B. R. T.'s Brighton Beach extension with the main stem of the system leading into Manhattan.
>
> The operation of the Centre Street loop extended so as to connect with the Broadway subway at both ends and with the new tunnel, in connection with the use of the Williamsburg, Manhattan, and Brooklyn Bridges by the B. R. T.
>
> The construction of the third tracks on the Second, Third, and Ninth Avenue elevated roads of the Interborough in Manhattan.
>
> The operation of the Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, subway by the B. R. T. in connection with probable elevated extensions to Coney Island over routes approximating those of the present South Brooklyn lines of that company; the construction of an extension from the terminus of the Fourth Avenue subway at Fortieth Street, Brooklyn, to Bay Ridge and the future construction of a tunnel to Richmond, all these lines going to the Brooklyn company for operation.
>

Points Still in Doubt.

This layout leaves as debatable ground the old Lafayette Avenue link of the Triborough subway plans and the Eastern District subway which the Interborough has proposed to connect with Lafayette Avenue and lead back into Manhattan by a tunnel under the East River at Fourteenth Street. The disposition of these lines, and whether or not the Interborough would get a foothold in Flatbush Avenue through some joint operating arrangement on a six-track subway, which that thoroughfare will accommodate, were about the only points in the plan of division concerning which there seemed much doubt last evening.

On the basis above outlined the B. R. T. would invest its money in the construction of the Queens elevated lines, in the connections with the Fourth Avenue subway and in the extensions of its other elevated lines in Brooklyn, unless the city should decide to build the original extensions of the Fourth Avenue subway in place of having the B. R. T. elevate its South Brooklyn lines. In this case the B. R. T. would invest, approximately, $12,000,000 in the construction of the Broadway loop in Manhattan. The remaining construction of that loop, the new tunnel under the East River, and the subway out Flatbush Avenue would be city construction and the B. R. T. with its own capital would equip the entire system for operation.

If the terms of the existing Interborough offer regarding the division of the cost of new construction were accepted by the city, the Interborough and the city would share the construction cost of the extensions of the "H" in Manhattan, the

LIFE RENEWED AFTER MONTHS

Prof. Pictet Freezes Fish and Revives Them After Three Months.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, June 6.—Extraordinary experiments showing the possibility of suspending life for an indefinite period have been carried out by Prof. Raoul Pictet of this city.

In one case he took some live goldfish, froze them in water to 20 degrees centigrade below zero, and then after three months gradually warmed the blocks of ice and brought back the fish to life.

In an interview in La Suisse Prof. Pictet says he carried out his experiments in order to see whether the phenomena of life could be made to disappear and then be restored, and that the most convincing results had been obtained with fresh-water fish.

Frogs, he added, could bear freezing up to 28 degrees below zero, snails had borne from 110 to 120 degrees, and a dog had been seen to go through a whole hour at a temperature of 110 degrees below freezing point without dying.

These experiments have convinced Prof. Pictet that life is being brought within the number of nature's constant forces.

Dr. Simon Flexner, head of the Rockefeller Institute, was informed last night of Prof. Pictet's experiments and was asked what benefit to medical science might be expected from them. He replied: "I have not the slightest idea."

Dr. Flexner said that, whatever might be done with fish, he had never heard of a case in which a human being whose death by freezing had been established by proper tests had been restored to life.

Aged Diplomat Able to Sit Up in Bed at Short Intervals.

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., June 6.—John Bigelow, the venerable author and diplomat, who has been ill at his country home here since last Wednesday, passed a restful night, and to-day was able to sit up in bed at short intervals. It was said at his home, The Squirrels, that this is no sudden attack, but rather a gradual dissolution due to old age. Dr. Bigelow is in his ninety-fourth year.

Four of his six children are with him—John and Poultney Bigelow, Mrs. Anna Harding, and Miss Grace Bigelow.

KILLED BY BOY PIRATES.

Owner of Schooner That Had Been Seized by German Youths Is Slain.

CUXHAVEN, June 6.—Two seventeen-year-old youths, who had prepared careful plans for an expedition of piracy, seized a fishing schooner here to-day. They were armed with rifles and plentifully supplied with ammunition, and when the owner of the vessel attempted to recover his boat they shot him dead.

Several other vessels in the harbor attempted to capture the schooner, but they were stood off by the "pirates" until the arrival of a force of police in a Government steamer, when the youths were overpowered.

Prof. Johns Causes Arrest of Three Freshmen at Yale Commencement.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 6.—Three Sheffield Scientific School freshmen were arrested to-night on the charge of injuring property. They are Herbert Lang of New Haven, George P. Orlady of Hunton, Penn., and J. F. McIlhenny of Port Washington, L. I.

Prof. Carl Oscar Johns of the Chemistry Department accuses them of calling him up by telephone and telling him that they had a small opinion of him. He also accuses them of painting black inscriptions on his sidewalk expressing the same idea. They were released under bonds of $200.

ROOSEVELT TO AID TAFT IN 1912 FIGHT?

President Is So Assured by a Friend Formerly Connected with Both Administrations.

THEY MEET IN BALTIMORE

And Have a Cordial Ten-Minute Interview—Ex-President Is Invited to White House on Friday.

THE COLONEL SAYS HE HASN'T SAID SO.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who arrived on the 12:50 o'clock train from Baltimore this morning, was informed at the Pennsylvania Station by a Times reporter of the report that a mutual friend of Col. Roosevelt and President Taft had given the latter assurance that the Colonel would not be a candidate for the Presidency in the next election, but would leave Mr. Taft a free field. The Colonel refused to comment on the statement other than to say with a smile:

"You know I never give interviews." Then he added: "But any statement purporting to come from me to the effect you have just mentioned is an unqualified falsehood."

And, closing his jaws with a snap just before opening them again with a smile, he jumped into a taxicab and drove away.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—President Taft in his candidacy for the Presidential nomination in 1912 will receive the unqualified indorsement of former President Theodore Roosevelt, which will be given as cordially as it was prior to the campaign of 1908. This is the best political news Mr. Taft has received in many months, and it comes to him in a manner that leaves no doubt as to its authenticity.

The information that Col. Roosevelt under no circumstances will allow his own name to be presented to the Republican National Convention was conveyed to the White House several days ago, but it did not become known until to-night. That Col. Roosevelt feels that the Taft Administration should be continued was brought out partly as the result of a cordial greeting between the two at Cardinal Gibbons's Jubilee in Baltimore to-day. Whether the Roosevelt approval of Mr. Taft's candidacy will go far enough to take the former President into the campaign as an active stump speaker is problematical, but that the force of his personality will be with the President is assured. This fact is not expected to prove pleasing to Republicans who have made no secret of their desire to bring Col. Roosevelt forward as a formidable rival for the 1912 nomination.

Many of these Republicans, no doubt, will refuse to abandon hope until Col. Roosevelt himself, in a quoted statement, announces his position and thus breaks the silence concerning the administration which he has maintained since landing in New York on his return from Africa.

The information that Col. Roosevelt would be found aligned with the President, rather than against him, was brought directly to Mr. Taft from Mr. Roosevelt by a mutual friend high in official life, who was connected with both the Roosevelt and Taft administrations in a capacity that enabled him to gain and retain not only the confidence, but the personal friendship of both men.

The meeting at Baltimore between the President and Mr. Roosevelt was only incidental to the celebration of the Cardinal's jubilee, but it was a contact that awakened the political interest of the Senators and Congressmen and others in official life who saw the two men together. They met first in the reception room in the Fifth Regiment Armory, where the jubilee celebration was held.

They talked together there for ten minutes. They shook hands with old friends; they chatted, laughed, and behaved just as they used to do when Mr. Roosevelt was in the White House and Mr. Taft was Secretary of War. They carried the spirit of friendship up to the platform, and, sitting side by side, they conversed in undertones through much of the afternoon.

Mr. Roosevelt was glad also to see Uncle Joe Cannon; he shook hands heartily with Vice President Sherman; he expressed the greatest pleasure at seeing Senator Penrose, and of course, Senators Root and Lodge, both old friends, came in for the old-time affectionate greetings. Altogether the scene resembled a Republican love feast.

Mr. Roosevelt reached Baltimore before the President, and was waiting for him at the armory.

"Hello, Mr. President," said he, in the high-pitched voice that Washington used to know so well. "I'm glad to see you. I want to inquire about Mrs. Taft."

"Hello, Theodore," replied the President. "How are you?" "Where's Archie?" inquired the Colonel a moment later, looking around for Major Butt, who was his personal aid in his White House days, and now aid to the President.

After he had spoken to Senator Root, been introduced to Secretary Hilles, and said some nice things about everybody in the party, he was taken aside by the President. The two men were together about ten minutes, beyond ear range of any other persons. Afterward it was said that they "talked about Mrs. Taft's health." The President invited the Colonel to come to Washington on June 9 to be his guest in the White House at his silver wedding anniversary. Mr. Roosevelt said he would try to manage it. When the score or more Senators and Congressmen entered the reception room the conference was over. Although some of the men in the crowd were never classed as his friends in the old days, he was ready for them all.

"If I go forward to greet them," he said to one of the party, "they'll say I'm forward, and if I don't they'll say I'm sulky."

So he went forward, and he was not sulky by any means. For Chief Justice White Mr. Roosevelt had an especially cordial word. It was the first time he had seen the Chief Justice since his elevation to that position. Afterward they talked in low tones on the platform. As he had to return to New York from Baltimore, Mr. Roosevelt declined an invitation to be the President's guest here to-night. The President arrived in Washington at 7 o'clock.

After the meeting broke up both men walked over to congratulate Cardinal Gibbons. After he had shaken the prelate's hand, the President put out his hand to the Colonel.

"Good-bye, Theodore," said he. Then he leaned forward on Mr. Roosevelt's shoulder and whispered something. They both laughed and the meeting was over.

PASS HIGHWAY BILL AFTER BITTER FIGHT

CHARGE OF BAD FAITH MADE

Brackett Accuses Democrats of Breaking Agreement—Legislates Present Commission Out of Office.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 6.—After a debate which for bitterness and length eclipsed anything heard in the legislative halls this session the Senate to-day passed the Murtaugh bill providing for the abolition of the present State Highway Commission. This bill has been termed variously a "Dix reform" and a "patronage grab with Executive sanction."

The bill was passed by little more than a bare majority. The vote stood 27 to 19. Twenty-six votes are required to pass a bill in the Senate.

While the bill is a measure which, ostensibly framed to bring about economy and efficiency in the good roads work, will vastly benefit the many contractors who affiliate with Tammany Hall for purely practical reasons. The Tammany members kept severely in the background during the debate, leaving it to the up-State Democrats in the Senate to bear the brunt of the battle for a "reform" which has aroused much opposition in the rural districts where a majority of the lovers of good roads dwell.

From the time the debate began the opponents of the bill denounced it as a patronage grab. They accused the Democrats of bad faith, and in support of this charge pointed to the fact that the legislative committee which controls the State Highway Commission the Murtaugh bill would abolish had it in its power to create a single-headed commission with a Republican in charge, but in keeping with an agreement voluntarily entered into with the Democratic members of the commission, consented to give the Democrats one out of the three members. Gov. Hughes, during whose régime the highway legislation was passed, went so far as to demand that the passage of the bill be deferred until after the State election in 1908 had determined which party should have a majority in the commission, though the legislation had been framed the year before.

Senator Thomas F. Grady, one of the Democrats on the legislative committee which framed the legislation in question, had already come out in opposition to the implied breach of faith. He remained away from the session to-day.

Roosevelt Only Insurgent.

Tammany Hall showed its absolute domination of the Senate majority to-day. Only one Democratic Senator, Franklin D. Roosevelt of insurgent fame, had the courage to vote against a measure which has been so universally denounced.

"My constituents will not permit me to take any share in the blame for the passage of this bill," said he in the course of the debate. "Even if they would, I would not let them. You will never catch me voting for such a patchwork, crazy quilt scheme as this. Let those who have stirred this nasty pudding bear the consequence. It is not difficult to see that even the introducer of this foolish bill is not proud of it when he claims parentage. I do not blame him, and I will add that he is a courageous man to admit it at all, considering the suspicious comments surrounding its birth."

Senators Burd and Loomis of Buffalo, who had been expected to vote against the bill, were won over by their democratic colleagues, and to this fact alone is due the passage of the bill.

The bill would substitute for the present commission of three members, one of whom is a Democrat, a State Superintendent of Highways to be appointed by the Governor with the consent of the Senate, but removable by the Governor at pleasure, with an advisory board, composed of the State Engineer and the State Superintendent of Public Works, the former an elective official, the latter official appointed by the Governor, and removable at his pleasure.

In the matter of appointments of Deputies and in the awarding of contracts as well as the framing of specifications, the two latter officials would have the veto power over everything the Superintendent of Highways had planned.

For six hours the debate continued and the bitterness of the speeches caused more confusion and disorder than have been seen in the Senate in several years. In the heat of the argument Senator Brackett, leader of the Republican minority, charged the Democrats with breaking an agreement made by leaders of both sides when the present highway law was framed in 1908.

"Senator Sullivan failed to keep a political agreement; something he does not do in private life!" Senator Brackett shouted.

This brought the Bowery Senator to his feet to demand an explanation. Senator Brackett explained that the agreement reached by the leaders of the majority and the minority as a result of which the appointment of a minority member was permitted and the appointment of all the Commissioners was deferred until after a State election to see who would have the appointing power.

Sullivan Then in Congress.

"I never heard of such an agreement," Senator Sullivan said. "What right had you fellows to make such an agreement, anyway? Who were you? I'm responsible only to the people of the Twelfth."

Senator Frawley who was a member of the special Highway Committee and a party to the arrangement confirmed the statement of Senator Brackett as to an agreement.

"You never told me," said Senator Sullivan, "I heard of it for the first time to-day."

"The reason you were not told was that you were in Congress at the time," Senator Frawley remarked.

"If I was not a member of the Senate it is all right," Senator Sullican replied, apparently much relieved. "But what fools and dubs our Democrats must have been to make an agreement with the Republicans and expect Hughes to make good."

Senator Frawley defended the Democratic Senators of 1908, saying they made the best bargain they could.

Senator Brackett grew bitter when Senator Burd of Buffalo indicated that he would vote for the Murtaugh bill.

"I am amazed at Senator Burd," Senator Brackett said. "He is a Methodist brother, and if he has ever read the discipline of the Church he must believe in keeping his word."

"What does the Senator mean?" asked the Buffalo member.

"I mean that both parties gave their solemn word that they would not disturb this law," Senator Brackett answered.

"I made no such agreement," Senator Burd explained.

"It is the act of a sneak," Senator Brackett retorted, "when a man profiting by the act of his agent later denies responsibility for the agent's act."

Later Senator Brackett referred to the Democrats who were supporting the Governor's bill as "snakes," and, responding in kind, Senator Frawley alluded to the Republicans as "hyenas."

"Under the brute force of a caucus," Senator Brackett continued, "the Democrats are determined to push this bill through. The black perfidy of it is that they are disregarding all agreements and ignoring promises. The Highways Department should not be brought under the influence of temporizing politics. There should be minority representation on the commission to see that scandalous practices and politics are not brought in. This bill is a grab for patronage."

In the Bill's Defense.

The defense of the bill was undertaken by Senator Murtaugh of Elmira and Senator Ferris of Oneida. The latter read from statistical reports and contracts to show that the present commission had been extravagant. He charged that the cost of engineering in the Highway Department was much higher than in railroad and municipal work.

Senator Murtaugh said that changes in specifications on certain roads after bids were opened showed that the present commission was incompetent and inefficient. He also declared that it was a matter of common gossip that contractors had raised a fund to finance a campaign up the State to manufacture sentiment in favor of the present commission. He said that certain facts in connection with contracts showed that favoritism was responsible for the interest of the contractors.

The present members of the State Highway Commission are S. Percy Hooker of Leroy and Thomas Warren Allen of New York, Republicans, and Robert Earl of Herkimer, Democrat.

RIDICULES THE GOVERNOR.

Is Rattled About Like a Pea in a Barrell, Says Assemblyman Murray.

ALBANY, June 6.—"When the present Governor of the State doesn't fill one corner of the chair he occupies, and is rattled about like a pea in a barrel by a boss it's high time to put an end to the so-called representative government," declared Assemblyman Murray to-day in a speech in which he advocated the Lareau bill giving Buffalo a commission form of government and providing for the initiative and referendum and recall of municipal officers. He predicted that within two years the initiative and referendum clauses would be written in the platforms of both leading parties. So did Mr. Lareau.

The Buffalo representatives favored the measure, while men from New York and other sections of the State declared that the initiative and referendum and recall proposals dealt a severe blow to representative Government. Mr. Cuvillier declared that the bill, if passed, would put the Legislature on record as favoring Socialism.

By a vote of 71 to 53 the Assembly sustained the adverse report of the Rules Committee.

NEW TRIAL IN BROKERS' CASE.

Higher Court Sustains Editor Who Lost $112,712 in Speculation.

ALBANY, June 6.—The Court of Appeals to-day granted a new trial in the case of William B. Keller, the editor of a trade journal, who brought suit against Charles D. Halsey and others, stock brokers, charging them with wrongfully selling stock that they were carrying for him on margin, causing a loss of $112,712. The plaintiff had been dealing with the defendants and had sustained losses in the market.

In October, 1904, he alleges, the defendants induced him to purchase stocks valued at $228,000, promising to carry it for him "for a long pull" on a margin of 1 per cent. The market sagged and the plaintiff alleges he was sold out against his protest. Halsey alleged that before the stock was sold he had asked Keller for margins.

The trial term directed a verdict for the defendants, and it was affirmed by the Appellate Division. The Court of Appeals reverses the lower courts, holding that there was corroborative evidence in support of the plaintiff's claim and that the question should have been submitted to the jury.

MAY SHELVE INCOME TAX.

Assembly Committee Having It in Hand Probably Won't Report It.

ALBANY, June 6.—Assemblyman Murray of New York, Republican, served notice in the Assembly to-day that if the Judiciary Committee did not report the Wagner resolution ratifying the proposed income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution on or before June 14 he would move to discharge the committee from further consideration of the measure.

When he had finished Majority Leader Smith rose and said the speech of Mr. Murray would look good on the record and was all right for gallery purposes, but that he need not worry, for if the resolution were not reported he himself would move the discharge of the committee.

"And if the majority leader doesn't do it the Speaker will," chimed in Speaker Frisbie.

"It looks as if it were going to be done," murmured Minority Leader Merritt.

Gov. Dix made it clear to-day that unless the Assembly acts on the resolution he will call an extraordinary session to consider the matter.

FOR OSBORNE'S SUCCESSOR.

Delegation of Assemblymen Urge F. A. Willard as Forest Commissioner.

ALBANY, June 6.—A delegation of Assemblymen called on Gov. Dix to-day and urged him, in the event of the passage of the State Conservation bill, to appoint Francis A. Willard as State Conservation Commissioner. Mr. Willard is Secretary of the State Forest, Fish and Game Commission, and is also Secretary of the Democratic League.

James W. Fleming of Troy is also a candidate for the place from which Thomas Mott Osborne of Auburn recently resigned.

RULES ON INTERBORO'S TAXES

Power House Machinery Exempt, but Not the Buildings, Says Court.

ALBANY, June 6.—An important question of taxation was settled in a decision of the Court of Appeals to-day, involving the taxes levied against the Interborough Rapid Transit Company of New York for 1905 and 1906.

The court holds that the machinery and apparatus in the power houses of the company are exempt from taxation as real property, while the power houses themselves are taxable.

The case is remitted to the Special Term for modification as indicated in the opinion of the court.

BOY FUGITIVE SWAM LITTLE HELL GATE

CAUGHT AFTER LONG CHASE

Then Tells the Police About It—"You'd Never Get Me If I Could Reach the River," He Says.

A thrilling tale of escape from the House of Refuge, on Randall's Island, and of swimming through Little Hell Gate, past watching guards and police searchlights that swept the surface of the stream, was told to the East 104th Street police by seventeen-year-old Alexander Siegel last night when Detectives Mancini and Lennon took him there after they had captured him in an exciting chase over roofs and through scuttles from 104th Street and Madison Avenue to 106th Street and Park Avenue.

The detectives, who had been watching Siegel's home at 234 East 103d Street ever since he escaped from the island, saw him at 104th Street and Madison Avenue, but Siegel saw them, too, and recognizing them as the men who had arrested him for burglary in January, darted north to 105th Street and into a dark hallway there. The detectives followed and chased him to the roof. There they saw him cut across adjoining roofs toward Park Avenue and dart down a scuttle of a house there before they could gain on him.

Down the stairs of that house the chase continued and out along Park Avenue and 106th Street, till he neared the East River, where they finally overtook him, badly winded.

"If I'd have reached the water you'd have had to swim some," he panted as they seized him. And after they listened to his tale in the station they believed him.

"I was sick of the place," said the boy, referring to the House of Refuge to which he had been committed for violating his parole, after his release on the burglary charge, "and I made up my mind to leave. About midnight on May 20, when all the lights were out, I tied the bed clothes together into a rope. One end I fastened to the bed posts, the other I let down from my window on the fourth floor to the grain ladder on the second.

"It was easy after that. I crawled over the south end of the island, keeping in the dark where the guards couldn't see me. Then I took off my shoes, threw them overboard, and jumped into the water. Almost at once I was whirled around and around. I lost my breath, but there isn't a better swimmer around the docks than me, and pretty soon I got past Randall's Island, then Ward's Island, and into the East River.

"Pretty soon I saw a tug coming close with scows behind it. I swam close with underhand strokes so they wouldn't hear me, and I managed to catch hold of the end scow. That took me through Little Hell Gate, and pretty soon I could see the end of the Street Cleaning Dock at 103d Street, and knew the scows were going to put in there. I was nearly frozen when we reached the dump, so I left the scow and struck out for the dock. Just as I was going to climb up it I saw a cop standing near. I could see the police flashlights sweeping the river, too; and I wasn't going to take any chances. So I swam out again and floated down the river. But I was almost all in then.

"I reached the College Point Ferry Dock, at Ninety-ninth Street, but I was blowing hard. As I was climbing up a police launch crept along, and they threw one of those searchlights on me. But after the flash they must have missed me, and I go safely aboard the dock. Then I ran home, and by the time I got there, you bet, my clothes were dry. That was 8 o'clock in the morning.

"The next day I got a job as wagon boy, and I've been working ever since."

"Oh, I saw you fellows watching the house all right," he added, turning to the detectives who had arrested him. "But you were easy. I didn't enter the house so that you could notice it, but always went in by another house, at 104th Street and Second Avenue, and climbed over the roofs to my home. It was easy. You guys never would have caught me if I hadn't been off my guard to-night."

He will be sent back to the House of Refuge to-day.

A SHAKESPEARE TO LECTURE.

Collateral Descendant of the Poet Will Attend Baptist Conference.

Among the passengers arriving from Bremen yesterday on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. was John Henry Shakespeare, who says he is a lineal descendant of the grandfather of William Shakespeare, the poet. He is Secretary for the European section of the Baptist Alliance, which will hold its conference at Philadelphia on June 19.

During his stay here Mr. Shakespeare will lecture at Harvard University. He was accompanied by Mrs. Russell James, who says that she is a suffragist, but not a militant suffragette.

Mrs. James will deliver a series of lectures in this country on "Woman's Work in English Churches."

MAY CONVICT HIS MOTHER.

Eight-Year-Old Son of Mrs. Crauso Witness at Her Trial for Murder.

Special to The New York Times.

KINGSTON, N. Y., June 6.—Mrs. Vincenza Crauso is on trial before Judge Cantine and a jury in the Ulster County Court here, with the prospect that her young son will take the stand and testify against her. He already has testified against his mother's alleged accomplice, who was convicted of murder in the second degree at the last term of the court, and sentenced by Judge Cantine to not less than twenty years' imprisonment in Dannemora Prison.

The settlement on the banks of the Hudson River, near Saugerties, known as Porterville, was the scene last August of a brutal murder. The victim was four-year-old Petruchio Fabiano. His body, covered with a fresh newspaper, was found in an outhouse on the Crauso premises. Investigation seemed to fix the crime upon Mrs. Crauso and Pietro Ortale, known as Big Pete, and when the latter was tried on a murder charge last March, the eight-year-old son of Mrs. Crauso took the stand and told of having seen the fatal blow delivered to the little boy by Big Pete, who boarded with his parents. Then Big Pete and his mother had carefully hidden the body in their own home, he said, until the little boy died.

Former County Judge John G. Van Etten, who is defending Mrs. Crauso, tried to show to-day by the prosecution's witnesses that ample opportunity was afforded for giving the little boy's body to the waves of the river without fear of detection had the crime been committed upon the Crauso premises, and that a boy's skull would show more signs of a blow than those discovered by the doctors.

SUFFRAGIST PLAY PUT ON.

Mrs. Whitmore's Maiden Effort Is Presented in Clinton Hall.

Mrs. Edith M. Whitmore's play, "The Suffragette Mother," was presented last night by the Wage Earners' Dramatic Club of the lower east side at Clinton Hall, in Clinton Street. The author, who personally directed the play and coached the performers, says it is "a comedy, not an argument." The play is her maiden effort.

The villain in it is a politician, whom the noble suffragette mother sees through. There is a mild villainess, of course, an anti-suffragist, Aunt Maria, who doesn't believe in dishes being washed in stationary tubs, won't look at a vacuum cleaner when it is cleaning, says that all feminine virtues are bound up in a dish mop and a real old-fashioned broom. Incidentally she is looking for a fourth husband. There are noble suffragette daughters and a father and son who get converted to suffrage so easily that it is hardly exciting, and all the other antis in the play come around in the same way.

The only anti who would not be converted on sight was Bridget O'Flaherty, maid of all work in the suffragette mother's household. Bridget had had experience in politics. Miss Bertha Richpan, a settlement worker, gave Bridget's accent with great eloquence, and it is probable that as a noble and devoted soul she was converted in the end. But it being the first night of the play things did not go speedily, and the first of three acts was only finished at 10 o'clock, and it was not possible to wait until all the antis had been gathered in.

HITS AT BUSINESS AGENCIES.

Bill Opposed by Merchants Is Favorably Reported by Senate Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 6.—In the absence of Chairman Baye, the Senate Judiciary Committee to-day reported favorably Senator Stilwell's bill which aims a serious blow at mercantile agencies. At the hearing before the committee the only persons speaking in its favor were the introducer and Charles H. Unversagt, who said he was a promoter and operator of mining enterprises. He admitted that he had a grievance against mercantile agencies.

The bill is opposed by merchants and other business men, who rely on the agencies for information of value in conducting their business. Under the provisions of the measure an agency would be prohibited from giving any confidential or verbal information concerning the personal rating of a firm or individual. It provides that all reports must be in writing and on the letterheads of the agency issuing them, and must be signed by a responsible official of the agency. It is also provided that reports must be made to anybody requesting them and willing to pay the fee. It is said by legislative leaders that the bill will not pass.

The Senate Judiciary Committee to-day also reported favorably Senator Stilwell's bill reducing from 10 cents to 5 cents the fare on the Fifth Avenue stage lines.

PASS DEATH AVENUE BILL.

Measure Favored by Gaynor and N. Y. Central Goes Through Assembly.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 6.—The Walker bill, providing for the removal of the New York Central's tracks in Eleventh Avenue, was passed in the Assembly to-day, by a vote of 88 to 44.

This is the bill favored by Mayor Gaynor. It has also the approval of the railroad company, and provides for a plan by which the city and the company may come to an agreement on the basis of mutual concessions, the city giving a roadway of sixty feet from the line to Beach Street, in exchange for the company taking its track from the surface.

It is unlike the McManus-Boylan bill, which has already been passed, in that it provides for no summary removal of the tracks in case the company should fail to come to an agreement with the city prior to Oct. 1.

ernor has pursued in turning over to those in the party who have not the confidence of the people, the drafting of his bills, offices, anything they ask for."

Go to Cram's Defense.

Referring to the subway negotiations, Senator Griffin said the proposed arrangements with the railroad companies was one of the most outrageous steals in the history of the city.

"They are about to turn over all the new subways to certain interests," he said.

"Whom do you mean by 'they'?" Senator Newcomb asked.

"I would rather not say," was the reply.

Senator Griffin said that the arrangement would be stopped by the appointment of Mr. Cram.

Senator Saxe commended the appointments of Gov. Dix in general, and the appointment of Mr. Cram in particular.

Senator Travis attacked the appointment of Mr. Cram on the ground that a Brooklyn man should be named. He said it was the policy of Gov. Hughes to select three men from Manhattan and two from Brooklyn. The appointment of Mr. Cram, Senator Travis said, would leave Brooklyn with only one representative on the committee.

Senator Wagner, majority leader, replied to Senator Newcomb. Senator Wagner accused him of spending much of his time in New York trying to obtain the Chairmanship of the New York County Republican Committee, and charged him with "creeping to the telephone to get votes."

Senator Wagner defended Tammany Leader Murphy, who he said had never been dishonorable in support of any man on the Democratic ticket.

Under the pledge of the caucus held during the day all of the Republicans present voted against the confirmation of Mr. Cram. They were joined by Senator Cronin, Democrat, of Brooklyn, who took Senator Travis's view of the Cram appointment. Senator O'Brien of Brooklyn did not vote at first, but on the call of absentees he voted in favor of confirmation, making the twenty-sixth vote in favor of Mr. Cram. Senator Duhamel, Independence League, voted against confirmation, and Senator Roosevelt, insurgent, voted in favor of it. The votes in opposition numbered twenty, so that twenty-one, or a majority of those [illegible]

THE REV. J. P. PETERS FLAYS THE CHURCH

"ROBBER BARONS" ITS ALLY

And Its Cry Always "Money, money"—Clergymen Resent His Remarks and Leave Meeting.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., June 6.—The Rev. John P. Peters, rector of St. Michael's Episcopal Church, New York City, criticised in strong terms to-day the attitude of the Christian Church on the degradation of women, child labor, Sunday observance, and other present-day issues. The occasion was an address made before the Spring meeting of the Convocation of Western Massachusetts in Trinity Church. Dr. Peters's views were so offensive to a number of the clerical delegates that before he had concluded his address they left the building with disapproval on their countenances.

Mr. Peters said in part:

"The Christian Church is out of sympathy with the masses. The Christian Church is made plastic by a social system which damns the soul of men and women. The outcries of the Christian Church against the desecration of the Sabbath are confined to unimportant details. The Christian Church is allied with unmoral interests and with the robber barons. The cry of the Christian Church is forever, 'Money, money!'

"The Christian Church is negatively opposed to the best in labor unionism. The Christian Church closes its eyes to immorality and prostitution. The activity of the Anti-Saloon League is pernicious. The seven-day saloon is not half so dangerous as the six-day factory. The seven-day saloon is not half so dangerous as the six-day department store. Political America is degenerate. Questions of child labor and prostitution are as important as the demand of home and foreign missions.

"Why is it necessary for married woman to work? Because the husband does not earn enough to support her and their children. Union men complain rightly that the church is not concerned with this question. The church does not protest against their immoral exploitation.

"At one time the church was the protector of the poor and the oppressed. Its monasteries were asylums against the robber barons. To-day enormous fortunes are being amassed with the aid of the law and in spite of it. Our mines are being exploited. Our transportation facilities are being exploited. Our forests are being stolen. All our productive facilities are passing into the hands of a few persons, steadily waxing more influential and dangerous. Bloated fortunes and immense power are aggregating themselves into the hands of the minority. And the church is their champion. It is no longer the protector of the poor and the oppressed! Its asylums are no longer closed to the robber barons."

In reply to a question, Dr. Peters said that the Roman Catholic Church of the metropolis is no more allied with Tammany than is the Episcopal Church, and that whenever he heard Richard Croker say he was going to do something, Croker always did it.

Edwin Gould Lumps Assessments.

WHITE PLAINS, June 6.—Supreme Court Justice Tompkins signed to-day an order permitting Edwin Gould to pay in a lump sum the drainage assessments against 131 acres owned by him in the Town of Greenburgh. He made this applications because he did not want to pay the assessments once a year for twenty years as directed by law. The action was not opposed by Supervisor Charles D. Millard, although he had refused to accept the money. The assessment against Mr. Gould's property amounted to $6,892.31.

DENIES RATE CUTTING.

Pennsylvania Railroad Company Answers Suit Before Commerce Board.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Carelessness in freight car numbers and a general denial of discrimination in rates was the defense entered here to-day by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in the suit instituted against it before the Inter-State Commerce Commission, in which it is charged that the company favored the Keystone Elevator Company in rates on shipments of grain.

The suit was begun by local interests, and it is alleged that grain billed from the West to the Keystone Company at export rates was not exported, but was shipped to points along the South Atlantic Coast. The export rate on grain is lower than domestic rates.

The elevator company is controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, but is leased to L. F. Miller & Sons, grain brokers, of this city. A member of this firm was recently acquitted in Savannah of the charge of discrimination.

The hearing in this city is being held by Commissioner Lane of the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

ILLEGAL CHICAGO WEDDINGS.

Thousands Married by Justice Without Right—Peddler's Predicament.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Municipal Judge Stewart to-day held that thousands of weddings of the immediate past were illegal and void because they had been performed by a Justice of the Peace from outside the city limits, in an office in Chicago. This Justice of the Peace was recently ousted from the County Building.

The Judge volunteered an opinion from the bench that the Justice of the Peace had no legal right to marry any one in Chicago, being a Justice from outside of Chicago and because Justices were abolished in the city in 1905.

At the same time Philip Fishmin was telling Judge Cooper how he was married without knowing it. He wanted the marriage dissolved. He said he inquired of a clerk in the County Clerk's office for a peddler's license. With him was a young woman. A slip of paper was handed him, he said, and they were taken to Justice Stacey's office. He told the court he thought he was swearing to something on the permit when he and the girl said the customary "I do." Later he found he had a wife.

TO TRY PASTOR FOR HERESY.

Dr. John H. Dietrich of Pittsburg Summoned Before the Classis.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., June 6.—Heresy charges will be presented against the Rev. Dr. John H. Dietrich, pastor of St. Mark's Memorial Reformed Church, the wealthiest society of that denomination in Pittsburg. A committee of the classis to-day set July 10 as the time for his trial. It is more than fifty years since a similar case has come up in the denomination.

Dr. Dietrich has professed to represent the newer ideas of progress and advancement in church and scriptural doctrine. He has said that he does not believe there ever was a fall of man. His utterances from the pulpit and in the press are the basis for the heresy charges that have been brought from time to time but never pressed by the classis.

Dr. Dietrich says he will stand by his utterances made from time to time. He was at the church when the committee having his case in charge held a meeting to-day.

URGES UPLIFT OF SALOONS.

Liquor Dealers' President Seeks to Build Up Sentiment for License.

CHICAGO, June 6.—The sixteenth annual meeting of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association opened here to-day. President Morris F. Westheimer of Cincinnati, in his opening address said:

"We must not try to stem the current of nation-wide investigation and discussion. On the contrary, we should, by every reasonable and honorable way aid in these efforts.

"We must educate the American public to the great evils that statutory prohibition creates, so as to build up sentiment for license, regulation, and control, and we must be able and prepared to defend our calling before the greatest of all tribunals—the bar of American public opinion."

Bronx lines, and the Lafayette Avenue subway in Brooklyn. The Eastern District subway would depend on a subsequent agreement unless the city saw fit to construct that itself.

Interborough Not in Yielding Mood.

Yesterday there came from the Interborough offices various expressions of emphatic dissent from any proposed division of territory on any terms whatever. Added to the repetition by General Attorney James L. Quackenbush of the Interborough at the City Club on Monday night, of the company's demand that no other company should be allowed in Broadway, Manhattan, there was a corresponding assertion from President Theodore P. Shonts to a delegation of real estate men from the Bronx who visited him in the interest of the Interborough offer.

A high official of the Interborough declared informally that the construction of the lines embraced in the so-called compromise would mean bankruptcy for the Interborough and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit, and declared that the total cost of construction and equipment would aggregate $400,000,000, requiring yearly interest of $24,000,000, as against aggregate gross receipts of $34,000,000 on the lines of the Interborough and the Brooklyn Union elevated system to-day. This estimate was based upon an allowance of $250,000,000 for the Interborough's construction and equipment and of $150,000,000 for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit construction and equipment.

In addition to the Broadway ultimatum, however, it appeared certain last night that the Interborough would be asked to yield important concessions in the operating basis which it has suggested for the lines it proposes to add to its present system. The primary objection which the city officials have entertained to these lines, and which, it is learned, they still entertained after the committee of Interborough Directors said their final word a few weeks ago, is that in attempting to segregate their receipts on the extensions and to determine operating expenses on a car mileage basis the net earnings on the extensions would be starced in favor of those on the existing lines, and the chance of the city making its capital investment self-supporting by earning its interest on such investment would be correspondingly reduced.

The Interborough heretofore has been asked to modify the car mileage basis of determining expenses on the extensions by taking as a basis the average cost of carrying a passenger over the entire system. It has declined to yield on this point in all of the conferences held up to this time. The attitude of the company's officials yesterday was taken as indicating that this unwillingness still continues.

All Day Working on Report.

President McAneny remained at his house all day working on his report. Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission joined him in the evening, and the prospect last night was that the report would be finished some time this evening, would be read at a meeting of all of the city's subway conferrees at the Bar Association, and would be sent to the printer at midnight, or later, with a strict injunction to have it ready for presentation to the Board of Estimate at 11 o'clock to-morrow.

There were various conferences yesterday in Wall Street of financial interests friendly to the Interborough, and such reports as came out of these sessions indicated that the chief reliance of the friends of that company at the present time, lay in one of the two following possibilities of the situation:

Either that the recommendations of the McAneny report regarding modifications of the Interborough's offer would be sufficiently indefinite to enable the Interborough to avoid making a categorical answer, and hence give the company a chance to submit counter proposals, which would open the whole question up anew; or else,

That Mr. McAneny, in the hope of getting the Interborough to come in under the compromise, and of holding together the Public Service Commission and the members of his committee, some of whom had been known to sympathize with the Interborough prior to Monday, night's agreement, should be so yielding in the terms of proposed modification of the Interborough's plan as to alienate the votes of President Mitchel and Controller Prendergast in the Board of Estimate.

It was pointed out that if by yielding more to the Interborough than the Controller and Mr. Mitchel thought they could stand for, the six votes of those two officials were turned against the McAneny report, it would be possible for Mayor Gaynor, if he chose to do so, with his three votes, to insure the rejection of the report, and throw the problem back where it would have to be negotiated over again. Such a result, in the opinion of interests friendly to the Interborough, would be preferable to a compromise which greatly limited the scope or the terms of the Interborough's present offer, and would particularly be preferred over any solution that allowed the Brooklyn company access to Broadway.

Various public officials came out in interviews yesterday discussing the turn subway matters had taken. Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission said he was much gratified with the agreement, and felt as if a hundred ton weight had been removed from his shoulders. Borough President Steers of Brooklyn, who the day before had been quoted as attacking Col. Williams, President of the B. R. T., and saying that he considered the Interborough offer and the Brooklyn company's offer about on a par so far as Brooklyn was concerned, explained in a signed interview yesterday that this did not affect his earlier statement that he preffered the B. R. T.; that in the main, Monday's published interview was correct, although there were various mistakes in it, and that he would vote for the report of the McAneny committee, whichever way it went, unless, in his opinion, something else seemed better for Brooklyn.

Borough President Gresser of Queens gave out an interview of somewhat like strain.

"I have never at any time or at any place," he said, "stated which way I was to vote or which corporation I would support. I am on record, and will remain so for one proposition, namely, that I will not support any measure which does not at least provide for the immediate and rightful demands of Queens, and I am free to say that the representations in behalf of extensions to Astoria, Woodside, Corona and Jamaica have seemed to me just, and no more than a [illegible] ening of the report is the result of directions issued by the President himself to Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel. It is reported that the information gathered by the bureau will be turned over to the House committee which is now conducting the Steeel Trust inquiry.

It was this report which Judge E. H. Gary said, in testifying before the Stanley committee a few days ago, cost the Steel Corporation hundreds of thousands of dollars. It will represent the result of several years' probing by corporation experts of the Government.

Chairman Stanley's Statement.

The alleged activity of the Administration since the House committee instituted its inquiry to-day drew from Chairman Stanley a statement, in which he said:

"Senator Culberson, myself, and others who have studied this question have long harbored the suspicion that somewhere in the archives of the Government there was evidence that would throw a flood of light upon the acts and doings of the United States Steel Corporation. The Judiciary Committee of the Senate made the most strenuous efforts to ascertain these facts at a time when the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company by the Steel Corporation could hardly have been consummated. I regret that 'reasons of state' then existed which prevented the giving of this information to the people of the United States.

"One year ago I was advised by Representative Parker of New Jersey, then Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, that neither the President nor the Attorney General favored a resolution of inquiry into the United States Steel Corporation. When the resolution to have the Department of Justice advise Congress as to the very conditions into which we are now inquiring was favorably reported, the Attorney General, with the advice and approval of the President, so I am informed, flatly refused to furnish this information on the ground that it was not compatible with public policy. It was well known that this resolution, although heartily approved by the people and the press, was, over my repeated protests, pigeonholed in the Rules Committee during the last Congress.

Not Saved by Bigness.

"I am delighted to know that whatever those 'reasons of state' were, they no longer exist and Congress will at last be furnished with the information which has so long been refused; that the Department of Justice and the Bureau of Corporations will take us into their confidence, and that the courts of justice are at last ready to deal with the United States Steel Corporation as with similar and infinitely smaller concerns.

"I am neither a prophet nor a son of a prophet, but I have an abiding faith that the Department of Justice will discover some violations of laws other than the Anti-Trust act, if they will read the hearings already had by this committee. I respectfully invite their attention to the freight charges over the lines owned by the United States Steel Corporation running to the lake from the Mesaba and other ore ranges of the Superior district.

"I also invite the attention of the department to the terminal charges and other agreements between the United States Steel Corporation and other common carriers."

Judge Elbert H. Gary, the head of the United States Steel Corporation, arrived in Washington to-night from New York for the purpose of resuming his appearance before the select committee of the House of Representatives that is investigating the Steel Trust.

Judge Gary hopes to conclude his testimony before the committee to-morrow.

When asked if he had observed the dispatches in the afternoon papers stating that the Department of Justice was making preparations to begin prosecutions of individuals in the Steel Trust, he replied that he had, but that he did not wish to say anything in regard to the matter.

Judge Gary is accompanied by Mr. J. P. Gayle, a former Vice President of the Steel Corporation, who will also testify before the House Committee this week following Judge Gary.

FOR SUGAR INVESTIGATION.

House Appropriates $25,000 for an Inquiry—Hearings Continue.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The House of Representatives to-day authorized $25,000 for the investigation of the American Sugar Refining Company, directed an investigation into alleged inadequacy of the taxation assessments in the District of Columbia, turned over to the Judiciary Committee the question of a change in the exaradition laws, and discussed many other subjects in a full day's session.

Two hours were spent in a contest between committees for the custody of a $6,000,000 appropriation affecting certain mail routes. The Appropriations Committee finally won, with the aid of House leaders, taking the bill away from the Post Office Committee. The House tabled the Berger resolution for a committee to investigate the taking of the alleged Los Angeles dynamiters out of the jurisdiction of Indiana, but it turned over to the Judiciary Committee all testimony taken in the matter and left it to that committee to determine wheher changes ought to be made in the extradition laws.

The House adjourned until to-morrow when it will take up the bill for a revision of the wool tariff.

Investigation of the Government's course in the sugar customs frauds cases in New York will be resumed by the House Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice next Saturday, when Henry A. Wise, United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, Felix Frankfurter, his assistant, and Ernest Baldwin, former Assistant District Attorney, will appear as witnesses.

In addition to the sugar frauds, the committee intends to investigate the Government's proceedings against the bull cotton pool two years ago.

WHAT SCIENCE DID FOR COAL SHOVELING

An Efficiency Expert Describes His Methods to Labor and Answers a Few Queries.

OUTPUT INCREASED TENFOLD

He Admits Wages Did Not, but Points Out That the Resultant Cheapening of Product Helps Labor.

Frederick W. Taylor, a Philadelphia industrial efficiency expert, told a large audience of working men and women at the Labor Temple, Second Avenue and Fourteenth Street, last night of a new way of preventing strikes. At the same time he severely criticised the labor unions for the stand, he said, they were taking against greater industrial efficiency. After the lecture he underwent a hot fire of questions from the audience designed to show that laboring men had all to lose by increasing their efficiency and at the same time the world's output of manufactured goods.

Mr. Taylor's plan, he explained, results in the scientific selection of the best men for any particular work to be done, and after that the scientific development of those men until each can do the largest amount of that work in the most skillful manner in the shortest period. His plan involves incidentally the obliteration, as far as possible, of the line between managers and workers, because he holds that the best results can be obtained when managers work with the workers. He went on to assert that he had never known of a strike where this was the case, and that his long observation, both as expert and worker, had convinced him that in ninety-nine out of every one hundred cases industrial inefficiency was more due to poor management than to poor labor.

The lecturer gave an account of how at the Bethlehem steel plant the coal shovelers had been taught even so elemental a matter of scientific shoveling. Two men, able, industrious, and already fair shovelers, were selected. They were told that they would be discharged if they loafed or if they raced, and would receive double wages if they kept as near an even pace as possible. They were also told that a man with a stop-watch and a pad would be put over them to report everything they did. They agreed and went to work.

First, they worked with large shovelfuls, say about forty pounds each, keeping that up for several days. Then the size of the shovelfuls was gradually decreased until each was less than 18 pounds. It was found that the greatest amount of coal could be shoveled by the men if they took 21 pounds in their shovels each time. Upon this conclusion shovels were made to hold just 21 pounds of coal.

It was discovered further that a certain swing of the body against the shovel to fill it, and a drop upon it to pry it out of the pile were helpful, saving strength by doing with the body's weight what unskilled men did with the muscles. So the men were induced to adopt that method. It was nearly always found that when a man was falling behind the others he was dropping back into the unscientific method. It was found also that in this manner more shoveling was done with fewer men than before, and these men got better wages, the men unfit to do shoveling being assigned to other work to which they were better suited.

Mr. Taylor also illustrated the working of his plan by describing its effect in a factory for the making of balls for bicycle wheels. The factory employed 121 girls, who for ten and one-half hours a day did nothing but see that the balls were perfect. He induced them, without cutting their pay, to do the same work in ten hours, then in nine and a half hours, and finally in eight. By weeding out the girls unsuited to the work and scientifically training the others, it was found later that thirty-six girls could do more work in eight hours than the 121 in ten hours and a half. The other eighty-five were discharged, he said, and promptly got more suitable work elsewhere. He thought this could usually be done except in dull times.

When the time for questions came one man asked:

"Don't you think laboring men would be fools to increase the output, a thing from which they are already suffering?"

To this Mr. Taylor replied:

"On the viewpoint regarding that question the whole matter of efficiency stands or falls. If an increased output is going to hurt the laboring man, then efficiency will be against him."

Asked about the relations between capital and labor under the efficiency scheme, Mr. Taylor repeated his assertion that he had never known of a strike under it.

"You said," called out one questioner, "that the output from the factories of Manchester, England, increased tenfold with fewer men under the new plan. Did their wages increase tenfold also?" Mr. Taylor said they did not, but that the world had been made richer, and the men could get the products of their labor cheaper than before.

PACKAGE OF CASH FOUND.

Merchant Who Advertised Loss in the Times Recovers Part of Property.

John David, a clothing merchant at Broadway and Thirty-second Street, sent a messenger to the Harriman National Bank last Saturday with a package, wrapped in manila paper, containing $1,600 in currency and the firm's bankbook. The messenger took a Sixth Avenue car, and when he got out at Forty-third Street he missed the package. He informed his employer, who immediately advertised his loss in THE TIMES Lost column.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. David informed THE TIMES that a few hours previously he had been called on the telephone by the manager of a Sixth Avenue hotel, who told him that his porter, in cleaning the washroom, had come upon a secreted package answering the advertised description of Mr. David's property and containing most of the missing money. The owner went to the hotel and identified the property.

Mr. David would not tell where the money had been found or the name of the porter who had found it. Neither would he say how much of the money had been returned.

15,000 JOIN IN PRAISE AT GIBBONS JUBILEE

Cardinal Hears High Tributes from Taft, Roosevelt, and Others at Great Baltimore Gathering.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS PRIMATE

At Non-Sectarian Celebration His Public Service Is Viewed as Linking Church and State.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 6.—James, Cardinal Gibbons, for the first time in years —one of the very few in the twenty-five years he has been the only Prince of the Catholic Church in the United States—missed his usual afternoon stroll in the streets of Baltimore, where he listened to banker and beggar and took to heart the troubles of "his people."

Instead, the Cardinal, seated on the temporary stage in the Fifth Regiment Armory, listened to President Taft, Vice President Sherman, former President Roosevelt, Ambassador Bryce of Great Britain, Speaker Clark, Senator Root of New York, Gov. Crothers of Maryland, former Speaker Cannon, and Mayor Preston of Baltimore speak in his praise. Among the 600 guests on the platform with the President, the Cardinal, and the other speakers were Chief Justice White and more than a score of Senators and members of the House of Representatives. Probably a more distinguished gathering was never held in this country outside Washington. The armory holds 15,000 people, its builders say, and it was crowded to the doors.

The Cardinal occupied a red plush chair in the centre of the stage. The ovation that greeted Mr. Roosevelt as he came up the steps with Chief Justice White was remarkable, but that which greeted the Cardinal as he climbed the stairs with President Taft was far more so.

The Cardinal wore the red robe, the skull cap of red, and the deep green ring of office. Through all the speeches he sat smiling, every changing expression of his wrinkled and kindly face and his bright eyes attesting to the pleasure this tribute afforded him. He smiled like a boy when President Taft introduced him to Mr. Roosevelt; he laughed with glee when the Chief Justice shook his hand, and the ghost of a smile flickered over his face when Speaker Clark, mixing for the moment politics with religion, declared that he had been a potent force for good "among both Catholics and Republicans."

The President's Tribute.

President Taft said in part:

"This assembly, I venture to say, can find few counterparts in history. We come as American citizens to congratulate the American Primate of one of the great churches of the world upon the twenty-fifth anniversary of his accession to the highest office in his Church but one, and upon the fiftieth anniversary of his entering the Church as one of its priests. We are not here as members of any denomination. We are not here in any official capacity. But we are here to recognize and honor his high virtues as a patriotic member of our political community and one who, through his long and useful life, has spared no effort in the cause of good citizenship and the uplifting of his fellow-men.

"As American citizens we are proud that his prominence in the Church brought him twenty-five years ago the rank of Cardinal. The rarity with which this rank is conferred in his Church upon Bishops and priests so far from Rome is an indication of the position which he had won among his fellow-churchmen. But what we are specially delighted to see confirmed in him and his life is the entire consistency which he has demonstrated between earnest and single-minded patriotism and love of country on the one hand and sincere devotion to his Church upon the other. One of the tenets of his Church is the respect for constituted authority, and always we have found him on the side of law and order, always in favor of peace and good will to all men, always in favor of religious tolerance, and always strong in the conviction that complete freedom in the matter of religion is the best condition under which churches may thrive. With pardonable pride he points to the fact that Maryland under Catholic control was among the first to give complete religious toleration.

"Nothing could more clearly show the character of the man whose jubilee we celebrate than the living testimonial that this assembly is to his value as a neighbor in the community of Baltimore. If you would find what a man is go to his home and his neighbors, and there, if everything that he does and says rings true and shows his heart-whole interest is in the welfare of men and women and children near about him, you have the strongest proof of his virtues as a lover of mankind.

"In spite of the burden and responsibilities of his high position in the Church he has taken part in many great movements for the betterment of mankind and has shown himself not only a good Catholic in the Church sense, but he has been broadly catholic in the secular sense of that word, so that the affection felt for him by his co-religionists has spread to all denominations and to all the people, who are quick to perceive a disinterested friend."

When Mr. Roosevelt rose to speak the crowd cheered for half a minute, while Speaker Clark held the watch.

"While the American people may differ among themselves on questions of dogma," said he, "they unite on what counts more than dogma—conduct. We read now and then about people complaining that the churches are growing smaller and that they are losing their influence. But there will be no complaints in the future if that church makes as its cardinal principle the rendering of service to the people. No church will have to defend itself so long as those who are high in that church devote themselves to the people as you, Cardinal Gibbons, have devoted yourself to them.

The Cardinal Replies.

"Words," said Senator Root, "however eloquent, are but feeble in expressing the meaning of such an assemblage as this. The fact that not only the friends and neighbors of Baltimore but those representative of all parts of our country, many of them of widely different religious belief, are here, shows more than words the deep significance of this occasion. It means that America can do what was impossible to do in lands less free and ages less trained in humanity; it means that the doctrine of separation of Church and State does not mean a separation of the people from all religious belief. Cardinal Gibbons illustrates the union of service to the State and service to God. He is a bulwark against atheism and anarchy, a bulwark against the tearing down of morality and government upon which the foundations of our country depend."

Cardinal Gibbons, replying, said, in part:

"Gentlemen, you have portrayed your subject, not, I fear, as he is, but as he should be. But your portrait is so attractive that it shall be my endeavor to resemble it more and more every day of the few years that remain to me. One merit only I can truly claim, and that is an ardent love for my native country and her political institutions. Ever since I entered the sacred ministry my aim has been to make those over whom I exerted any influence not only more upright Christians but also more loyal citizens. For the most faithful Christian makes the best citizen.

"I consider the Republic of the United States one of the most precious heirlooms ever bestowed on mankind down the ages, and that it is the duty and should be the delight of every citizen to strengthen and perpetuate our Government by the observance of its laws, and by the integrity of his private life.

"It is true, indeed, that there is no official union of Church and State in this country. But we must not infer from this that there is any antagonism between the civil and religious authorities. Far from it, the Church and State move on parallel lines. They mutually assist one another. The State holds over the spiritual rulers the aegis of its protection without interfering with the sacred and God-given rights of conscience. And the Church on her part helps to enforce the civil laws by moral and religious sanctions.

"I fear that we do not fully realize and are not duly grateful for the anxious cares by which our Chief Magistrate and the heads of the co-ordinate brances of the Government are preoccupied in the discharge of their official duties. And these cares are the price which is paid for our domestic peace and comfort and the tranquillity of the Commonwealth. When the traveler in midocean is buffeted by the waves, he feels a sense of security because he knows that the Captain and his officers are at the post of duty. So do we securely rest on our pillows because we are conscious that our great Captain and his associates in office are diligently steering the ship of state."

President Taft returned to Washington at 5:55 P. M.

The Cardinal was the guest of honor at a dinner given this evening by Mayor Preston, and attended by many of the prominent visitors.

SUICIDE AFTER INCENDIARISM.

Dreyfuss Hired the Arson Trust to Burn His Store and Confessed.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Following a confession made by Leopold Dreyfuss, a clothing merchant, in which he admitted that he had employed a gang of unscrupulous men to fire his establishment at 232 South Market Street on Saturday last, Dreyfuss shot and killed himself in his apartment in Michigan Avenue this morning, despite the fact that he was supposedly under a strong police surveillance.

As a result of this sensational confession the Fire Department and the police are convinced of the existence in Chicago of a powerful criminal organization which is called the "Arson Trust." Already twenty fires, entailing both human and financial loss, are laid at the doors of this combination.

The police to-night declared they expected to prove that Dreyfuss himself had been affiliated with the operations of the gang other than the comparatively small fire in his own establishment.

There was revealed also an ingenious system of swindling fire insurance companies by issuing false bills of sale on imaginary stocks of goods in the stores destroyed by the Arson Trust, and collections on goods which never existed. These developments followed one of the strangest confessions to which the Chicago police ever have listened, and which was made by Dreyfuss.

Dreyfuss was on the verge of bankruptcy when he entered into negotiations with the "trust" to burn his store, according to Attorney Sullivan. Before he decided to destroy his own store, Dreyfuss became involved with the "trust" in a system for swindling the insurance companies. After a store had been burned, it is declared, Dreyfuss would send in a bill for goods which he claimed he had shipped to the firm which suffered the loss. Evidence is accumulating to show that the "trust" did not confine its operations to Chicago wholly, but was composed of men who, if the financial inducements were sufficient, were willing to touch a match to anything that would burn, in any city where the insurance companies were doing business.

Dreyfuss, who, with his brother Lazard and a bookkeeper, Max Cohen, was arrested yesterday afternoon as the result of a $12,000 fire in his store last Saturday, withstood the "third degree" until 4 o'clock this morning. Then he broke down and confessed.

Dreyfuss said he paid the agents of the incendiaries $300 in advance, and promised to pay $1,700 more, making a total of $2,000, as soon as he could collect the insurance. The trust at first demanded $5,000 for the work, but eventially compromised. The financial details arranged, Dreyfuss was relieved of all responsibility, the incendiaries' agents guaranteeing success. Six or eight men compose the ring of firebugs and are said to have made big profits out of their operations.

ANOTHER LORIMER HITCH.

Objection Is Raised in Senate to Sub-Committee Conducting Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Another hitch has occurred in the Lorimer investigation, though it is probable that after some more talk on this fruitful theme for debate the sub-committee named by the Committee on Privileges and Elections will proceed to its work with the full powers of the Senate.

When the resolution from the committee naming and authorizing the sub-committee was called up to-day, Mr. Culberson of Texas objected to its immediate consideratian on the ground that it departed from the text reciting the powers to be conferred upon the investigators by the original resolution. That was a technical objection that served merely to send the matter over till to-morrow, but it is understood that there is a real feeling in certain quarters that the Senate, having already directed the full committee sitting en banc to proceed to the investigation, this resolution turning the matter over to a sub-committee should not be considered.

Mr. Smith of Michigan and other Senators are quite stirred up on the subject. As the original resolution, however, was adopted only on the understanding that a sub-committee would later be named, it is expected that in the end the sub-committee plan will be carried through. The objection will probably mean merely another day spent in debate.

BAILEY DEFENDS SECESSION.

Tells Confederate Veterans the South Had a Right to Secede.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas, addressing a gathering of Confederate veterans last night, in observance of the birthday of Jefferson Davis, said Davis was less responsible for the conflict between the States than any other man, and was the last man in all the South to abandon the hope of a reconciliation.

"The truth of history was with the Confederate people," said the Senator. "The fathers would never have formed this Union if they had not believed that it could be dissolved for cause. If the Southern people believed they could not remain in the Union with honor and safety, they had a right to secede."

Senator Bailey presented an aged negro, James A. Jones, who served as Mr. Davis's body servant.

"He is the only man living," said Senator Bailey, "who knows where the seal of the Confederate States is, and he won't tell."

Many shook hands with the old negro, who carried Jefferson Davis's cane.

DUTY'S "GOSSAMER THREAD."

Husband, Whose Wife Sues, Said It Wasn't Strong Enough.

Mrs. Josephine Clements's suit for separation from her husband, J. Morgan Clements, a mining engineer, went to trial yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Goff. The couple formerly lived at the Hotel Belleclaire in this city. Mrs. Clements said that her husband called her names and tried to obtain false evidence for a divorce against her. She identified letters she had exchanged with a lawyer in Phoenix, Arizona, and maintained that they were innocent. She put in evidence a letter which she said her husband had written her, containing this paragraph:

"I have studied you during the past year and am convinced that, instead of being congenial and sympathetic, we are, in the main, antipathetic. Where congeniality, a strong steel chain which binds people together, is lacking, it is useless to try to hold together by a gossamer thread of duty, fear of public opinion, or something else."

Clothiers Re-Elect Marcus M. Marks.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 6.—Marcus M. Marks of New York was to-day re-elected President of the National Association of Wholesale Clothiers. The organization discussed a credit bureau with a central office either in Chicago or New York, and decided to return here next year. Other officers chosen were: Vice Presidents—E. R. Smith, Boston; Samuel Rosenthal, Philadelphia; Charles Shol, Cincinnati, and Jacob Abt, Chicago; Secretary—W. R. Corwine, New York; Treasurer—S. Solomon, Rochester.

DOLLAR DIPLOMACY PUT UP TO SENATE

Policy to be Abandoned if Nicaraguan Convention Meets Defeat There.

AIMS TO EFFECT PEACE

Opposition to Such Treaties Due to the Cry of "Morgan" or "Wall Street," Taft Believes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Secretary Knox to-day signed a convention with Nicaragua somewhat similar to that with Honduras now awaiting ratification by the Senate. The Nicaraguan treaty is aimed at the establishment of stable peace in that country through means like those which have demonstrated their efficacy in the case of Santo Domingo. But in the case of Nicaragua, as in that of Honduras, the convention does not go as far in the way of obligating the United States as does the treaty with Santo Domingo.

The announcement of the State Department regarding the negotiation of the new treaty carries with it the statement that with the sending of this convention to the Senate for ratification the Administration is putting the whole question of the attitude to be maintained by this Government toward all such matters squarely up to the Senate. If the opposition already manifested there toward the treaty with Honduras shall be shown also toward the Nicaraguan convention, the probability is that the Administration will cease its efforts to minimize the constant turbulence in Central America, and that the "dollar diplomacy" policy will be relegated to the background.

The President and the State Department officials have all taken the deepest interest in the proposed method of insuring peace and stability in these revolution-ridden countries. They believe earnestly that the method would be as thoroughly successful elsewhere as it has been demonstrated to be in Santo Domingo. They are convinced, moreover, that the opposition to this method is based almost entirely upon the demagogic cry that it is in the interest of "Morgan" or "Wall Street," or else upon the equally unjustifiable fear that it is likely to involve the United States in dangerous "entangling alliances." The President and Department of State are convinced that the policy is the wisest one that could be adopted for these cases; that there is no sound objection to it; and that it will prove eminently successful. They have all devoted great study to the problem and have reached a deliberate and firm conviction that the proposed solution is the best that can be devised. They point out that the alternative is the continuance of the revolutionary habit which has so long distracted those countries and which has prevented their natural and proper development.

The treaty with Nicaragua, signed by Secretary Knox to-day, contemplates the adjustment of the claims growing out of the Zelaya régime and the general settlement of foreign claims against that country. Almost all these claims are American, there being only a few of minor importance held by citizens of other countries. They include not only the longstanding Emery claim and those growing out of the shooting of Cannon and Groce by order of Zelaya, but several others of a different character. The Government that succeeded Zelaya is desirous of canceling a number of the concessions granted by that dictator to American adventurers and others.

On some of these concessions expenditures have been made in good faith, securing an equitable right to their holders. In such cases the present Nicaraguan Government desires to reach an appraisal and to purchase the concessions at the agreed figures. It desires to reach an estimate of all the claims against it in this manner, and for that purpose asked this Government some time ago to suggest the names of some Americans who might serve on a claims commission. Under the advice of the State Department the Nicaraguan Government has employed Ernest H. Wands of New York as its financial adviser. The department recommended Otto Schoenrich, formerly a Judge in Porto Rico and Cuba, and T. P. Moffett, United States Consul at Bluefields, for this commission, and they were appointed by the Nicaraguan Government. One or possibly two Nicaraguans will also be appointed. This commission is employed and paid solely by Nicaragua.

When it has completed its examination and appraisal of all the claims against Nicaragua, a proposition for a foreign loan will be drawn up to provide sufficient funds to cover all the adjusted claims. There will also be included a sum to be devoted to certain railroad extensions in Nicaragua. The contract for this loan will then be offered to different American bankers in order to obtain the best possible terms. It is expected that the loan will be between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000. A certain part of the customs revenues of Nicaragua will be hypothecated to secure this loan, and the convention signed to-day seeks to guarantee the stability of the Nicaraguan customs by providing that tariff changes shall be the subject of consultation between the two Governments.

The State Department is very hopeful of getting favorable action by the Senate on the Honduran and Nicaraguan conventions. In negotiating these conventions the department has been actuated by a clear recognition of the fact that American interference in Central American affairs is always undesirable. But the experience of years has demonstrated that it is constantly being rendered necessary through the turbulence that arises so easily in some of those countries. This state of afairs has checked and retarded the natural and legitimate development of those countries, and consequently of American enterprise in them. In dealing with the questions arising out of such affairs, the State Department had sought some plan which would minimize the necessity for interference.

The Administration now seeks to effect the same kind of reform in Honduras and Nicaragua. When the Honduran treaty was concluded, it was submitted to William Church Osborn, legal adviser to Gov. Dix, of New York, who examined it as legal adviser for Honduras. It was also submitted for examination to Charles A. Conant of New York as a financial expert for Honduras. Both approved it as in the best interests of that country. The convention with Nicaragua is along the same lines.

It was said at the State Department this afternoon that the department was extremely desirous of converting Central America from a happy hunting ground for adventurers into a field for legitimate enterprise. If there shall develop in the Senate an opposition to its work that is founded upon a real study of Central American conditions and has what the department considers a scientific basis, the Administration will endeavor to meet it with arguments drawn from its own examination of that situation. But the department is extremely anxious that the old familiar kind of opposition, which contents itself principally with shouting "Morgan" or "Wall Street," shall not be permitted to defeat its carefully reasoned and worked out plans.

DR. JOSEPH PRICE DEAD.

Prominent Gynecologist Dies After an Operation for Appendicitis.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn.—Dr. Joseph Price, one of the pioneers in abdominal surgery in this country, and the foremost gynecologist in this city, died to-night following an operation for appendicitis. He performed an operation for appendicitis on a young girl shortly after noon to-day, and was operated upon himself for the same trouble less than four hours later. He died late to-night.

Dr. Price was a former President of the American Medical Association, the American Association of Gynecologists, and the American Society of Obstetricians. He was born in Virginia, in 1858. He was the founder of the Gynecean Hospital here, and was a member of the staff of several leading hospitals.

NOON HOLD-UP IN BROADWAY.

Negro Draws a Gun on a Brewery Driver.

Crowds in Broadway near Wall Street stood startled and too frightened to move shortly before noon yesterday when a negro stepped into the street and, pointing a revolver at the driver of a brewery wagon, ordered him to halt. The driver obeyed, and at the same time slipped off the opposite side of his truck and fled up Broadway. The negro, apparently satisfied, slipped the gun back in his pocket.

The driver found Policeman Landers of the Old Slip Station a few blocks away and while he was telling him what had happened a bank messenger with $2,000 in his belt ran up. He was afraid it might be an attempt to rob him. Landers hurried down the street and arrested the negro.

At the station the negro said he was William Watkins, recently from the West and without a home in this city. He was held on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The brewery driver, apparently glad to escape, did not appear to press another complaint against him. According to the policeman the negro, on the way to the station, said:

"I suppose I'll get ninety-nine years for this, but when I get out I'll get a gun and then there'll be real trouble."

ALDERMEN FOR CONEY PARK.

Committee Urges City to Buy Dreamland and Other Fire-Swept Land.

The Committee on Parks of the Aldermen decided yesterday to recommend that the city acquire for park purposes the site of Dreamland and other properties destroyed ot the recent fire at Coney Island. The area affected contains about twenty-four acres and extends from Surf Avenue to the ocean and from West Fifth Street to West Tenth Street. The committee also suggested that the board advise the Board of Estimate that an engineer be appointed to draw up plans and report upon the best method of reclaiming city lands which have been washed away by the sea.

Alderman L. M. Potter of Coney Island, who lost considerable property in the Dreamland fire, asked the board to make an investigation of the failure of the high-pressure water system to work properly. His resolution asking that a committee of seven be appointed to conduct the investigation with power to employ counsel and subpoena witnesses was referred to the Committee on Rules.

The opening of the new Municipal Bathing House at Coney Island may be delayed because the Aldermen refused to appropriate money to pay salaries and cost of equipment. Supt. Woods of the Department of Public Buildings in Brooklyn, who built the baths at a cost of $167,000, told the board that the baths could be opened on June 15 if the money was forthcoming. Half a dozen Aldermen said that they had voted for the bathhouse under the impression that it was to be free, and if an admission of even 5 cents was to be charged they wanted time to think the matter over. A resolution was passed asking the Board of Estimate to make the baths free to the public.

NOTE BROKER FOUND GUILTY.

Arthur A. Dunphy Was Indicted for Swindling a Bank Out of $15,000.

Arthur A. Dunphy, a note broker, giving his address as Highland, N. J., who it is alleged has taken part in swindling operations amounting to $50,000, was convicted of grand larceny in the first degree before Judge Warren W. Foster in General Sessions yesterday after a trial lasting nearly two weeks. He was remanded until Thursday for sentence.

Dunphy was jointly indicted with Dr. Frank L. Moyer, a trustee of the National Protective Association of Williamsport, Penn., who has not yet been tried. It was alleged that the two men got a loan of $15,000 from the Anglo-South American Bank of this city, representing that the loan was for the Protective Association, depositing a six months' note and also 5,000 shares of the Canadian Mines Company stock as collateral for the loan.

When the six months had expired the bank made efforts to have the loan taken up, and then sold the stock on the Curb. When the bank officials applied to the Windsor Trust Company, the transfer agents of the stock, for a transfer, they learned that a stop order had been placed on the stock.

Dr. Moyer testified that his association had been endeavoring to obtain control of a railroad near Williamsport, and that he went to Dunphy for assistance. Several blank notes were made out, and he said that he didn't know what became of them. As to the Dunphy bank transaction, he said he didn't know exactly what it was, and that both he and the association were innocent of any wrong.

Dunphy put in no defense.

YEARNED TO DIE A HEROINE

Swallowed the Deadly Tablet at Her Mother's Side—Heroic Measures Save Her.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., June 6.—On the screen of a moving picture show here there was flashed the gaudy interior of what was supposed to be "a cottage in Newport." Into the room came the beautifully gowned heroine, evidently agitated and eager to escape the attentions of the man in evening clothes who followed her. He persisted; there was a struggle; the hero leaped through a window, and the picture finally disappeared from the screen with the hero and heroine happily united.

Twelve-year-old Mabel Brody rose slowly from her seat down front and went to her home at 111 Neilson Street, forgetful that supper time had passed hours before, and thinking only of the picture she had seen in which she easily imagined herself the girl in the beautiful gown.

Every emotion which the moving picture actress had tried to portray by pantomime was felt by Mabel as she trudged home, and to her mother's inquiry as to where she had been and subsequent scolding when the truth was told, Mabel felt that only one answer was possible. More than a year ago she had become possessed of a box if bichloride of mercury tablets. In the moving pictures which she had seen every day the heroines often took poison and died with happy smiles on their faces. It was only their mothers who were conscience stricken when it was too late. So Mabel saved the tablets against the very emergency which arose yesterday afternoon—an emergency especially aggravated by the fact that she had sold her umbrella for the 10 cents admission to the picture show.

She hurried to her coat, got out the package, and swallowed a tablet. Then she seated herself near her mother, waiting for death, with no fear for herself but only with the expectation of her mother's sorrow. But the mother went on with her work, and noticed the little girl only when Mabel suddenly uttered a cry and threw herself into her mother's arms, crying out that she had taken poison. The mother, terrified then beyond Mabel's most eager wish, ran for neighbors, and finally the child was hurried to St. Peter's Hospital, where prompt work by the doctors saved her life. To-day she lay, still ill but steadily improving, in a hospital ward. Mrs. Brody sat beside her most of the day, crying sometimes, when the little girl hugged her hand and promised:

"I'll never go to a moving picture show again. I'm glad I'm not going to die."

COUNTY JAIL HIS SCHOOL.

Alien Prisoner Employed His Time in Learning to Speak English.

Not until Frank Golden, indicted for horse stealing, was put on the witness stand in his own defense yesterday did the authorities of Queens County learn that, in addition to leading prisoners with more or less regularity, the old jail in Long Island City is something of an educational institution.

When arrested with several horses belonging to Frank McCrum along the highway in Hollis shortly after midnight of April 4, according to District Attorney Frederick G. De Witt, Golden was unable to speak English, and an interpreter was necessary to carry on a conversation with him. But a few months in the Queens County Jail did much for the prisoner, as Assistant Attorney John Hetherington and Judge Humphrey learned when Golden was put on trial in the Queens County Court.

Waving aside the interpreter, Golden took the witness stand and astonished the court and Assistant District Attorney by proceeding to tell his story in good English. He told the jury that he did not steal the horses. He said he was hired at Bayonne, N. J., by an unknown man, who paid him $3 to go to Hollis that night, where he would meet a man at a certain road crossing with two horses, and he was to take them to Bayonne. He found the man and the horses about 1 A. M. and a little later was caught by the police. His story impressed the jury and he was acquitted.

"BEAT" HIS WAY; WON $500.

F. W. Mackey, Alias "Tramp A No. 1," Slipped from Coast to Coast.

F. W. Mackey, who until now has called himself in his travels "Tramp A No. 1," came into this city last night from Boston and announced that he had beaten his way on trains from Los Angeles to Boston in eight days, thereby winning a wager of $500, pooled by his friends.

Mackey says he was a traveling mechanic on the Santa Fé Railroad. When the argument came up as to whether a man could beat his way on railway trains across the continent in fifteen days, he said he could do it and his friends said he couldn't, and they put up $500 to call what they thought was his bluff. He was to carry a letter from the Mayor of Los Angeles to the Mayor of St. Louis. From the latter he must get a letter to the Mayor of Boston, whom he was to ask to communicate with "Tramp A No. 1's" friends in Los Angeles.

All this he did, he says, in eight days, or a little more than half the time allowed, and he promptly got his check for the $500 through the Boston Mayor. He was not allowed to buy anything to eat or to spend more than $1.80 for traveling expenses. He says he rode on passenger "fliers" all the way until he reached Buffalo, where he caught a New York Central freight for half the distance across the Empire State, coming into the Grand Central Station on the Twentieth Century Limited. Here he caught another "flier" for Boston.

PLASS MADE FALSE CLAIMS.

Did Not Own Mines Described in Booklet Sent to Ministers.

BOSTON, June 6.—"College Presidents and professional men generally invest their money injudiciously, for the reason that they are thoroughly absorbed in their professional work and do not take time to look into investments."

This is the sentiment alleged to have been written by the Rev. Norman Plass, head of the Redeemable Investment Company to the Rev. George E. Ladd of, Colorado, in 1910. The Rev. Mr. Ladd, the third clergyman who represented the Redeemable Company, was on the witness stand at the opening of the second week of the trial of mail fraud charges, preferred by the postal authorities against three officers of the company in the United States District Court to-day.

On entering upon his work in that line he had decided, Plass wrote, to help professional men to make judicious investments. He requested the witness to read the pamphlets inclosed in the letter and to let him know what he thought of the proposition. The stock guaranteed six per cent., he wrote, and it was earning considerably more, with the privilege of withdrawing the money on any banking day. Mr. Ladd was a pastor at Red Oak, Iowa, at the time. Later Plass called upon him.

The Treasurer of the Consolidated Iron & Steel Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, Frank S. Vesbera, testified that his company owned certain iron and coal mines in New Mexico, which were described in a booklet sent by the Redeemable Company to prospective investors as the property of the Redeemable.

The Treasurer of the Boston & Canada Wheatlands Co., William G. Poor, admitted on the stand that wheat lands owned by the company, which were described in the Redeemable circular as being free from indebtedness, were in reality heavily mortgaged.

The so-called redemption fund of the company was described by Clarence E. Dunaven, a bookkeeper at the National Shawmut Bank, who testified that this fund was opened in November, 1909, with a deposit of $550, and was closed on Oct. 1, 1910, three days before the raid on the Redeemable Company's offices by Government officers with a balance on hand of $41.

Brought Brother's Body from Europe.

Marcus L. Ward, Jr., son of the former Governor of New Jersey, returned yesterday from Europe on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. and brought with him the body of his brother, Joseph Morris Ward of 15 Washington Street, Newark, who died at Carlsbad on May 19. He was met at the pier by Robert Hamilton Rucker, who took charge of the body for the Masonic fraternity.

Something new in Trunks—at Saks'

¶It is our experience that the average traveler likes to start out with something different in trunks. The Scandinavian sun is the same sun that sets in the U. S. A., but that does not alter the fact that thousands go to Norway to see it. Anything to get away from the eternal sameness of things.

¶Which is why we have had a set of matched trunks made up to our own specifications—that are different. Different not so much in appearance, though that is distinctive, being a rich shade of dark green; but different in their interior arrangement; better and altogether more convenient.

¶Made of vulcanized fibre inside and out; Irish linen lined; riveted world without end; handsome, but the quintessence of toughness!

Not "Advertise" But "Investigate"

THE very word "Advertising" alarms many a manufacturer. The one definite thing it means to him is expenditure—perhaps considerable expenditure—for something whose value he does not understand.

If you are such a manufacturer we do not advise you to advertise.

We believe that for you "Advertising" is the last word in the argument, not the first.

We advise you rather to investigate.

We tell you that there are certain new principles of merchandising which are rapidly changing the whole face of modern business.

That in creation and control of demand these principles are accomplishing in a year or two results that the old methods scarcely reached in a lifetime—and accomplishing them more cheaply and more permanently.

That these principles have given a new meaning to effective and systematic sales distribution.

That "Good-will," in the old sense of the term, is being proven, under the new conditions, an asset of unstable and doubtful value.

That in its place has arisen a new conception of "Good-will" that must inevitably be reckoned the very foundation stone of modern business.

That, against these new principles, the old methods, the old sources of commercial strength, are proving every day more futile.

That it does not rest with you to decide whether or not these principles shall be a factor in your business. They are a factor.

It does rest with you whether they shall be active for you or against you.

Their influence may not yet be apparent to you—but day by day they are creating conditions which you must reckon with.

We ask you to investigate—to understand—these principles. Modern advertising is one of them.

If after such investigation it is well that you should advertise, we shall not need to urge you.

You may take the first step by reading our 40-page booklet on Modern Merchandising. It is sent free on request.

ENEMIES OF MADERO IN WIDESPREAD PLOT

$40,000 TO REMOVE GOVERNOR

Gonzales Hears of Plan to Murder Him and Postpones Departure from Jaurez for Chihuahua.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, June 6.—Late this afternoon this city became greatly excited owing to the discovery of a plot against Francisco I. Madero, Jr.

One arrest so far has been made—that of ex-Chief of Police Antonio Villaviciencio, who is held incommunicado, charged with complicity in the plot.

Warrants are out for three Deputies and two prominent lawyers. Two of these, Deputy Rosendo Pineda and Andres Garza Galan, are now in the United States.

More important arrests here are expected before morning.

JUAREZ, June 6.—A widespread plot against Francisco I. Madero, Jr., with ramifications in San Antonio, El Paso, New York, and Mexico City, has been discovered, according to news coming from Mexican Government officers today.

The first purpose of the plotters is said to be the establishment in the cities named of juntas similar to those of the revolutionary party, and then they plan to carry on a systematic effort to hamper Madero and to restore to power a political element that was ousted when President Diaz resigned.

Secret Service men in various parts of Mexico have been instructed to make arrests in the hope that the movement will be broken up before it assumes any considerable proportion. Among the points where arrests are expected are Piedras Negras, formerly called Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, and Chihuahua.

Abram Gonzales, Provisional Governor of Chihuahua, to-day announced that he had been compelled to postpone his journey to Chihuahua because of a threat on his life. He said he had received word that an offer of $40,000 had been made to prevent him from reaching Chihuahua. The information came from such a source that he did not hesitate to postpone his trip.

"Just as I was about to start last Saturday," said Gov. Gonzales, "I received an important telegram from Chihuahua warning me not to come. It said that a plot had been formed and $40,000 had been set aside to pay for the trouble of getting me out of the way. I made inquiry and found the warning so well founded that it would have been foolish for me not to heed it. Consequently I have to remain here until I can remove the obstacle."

In connection with the arrest of Cruz Rey, a former Federal Jefe Politico, who is in jail here, experts to-day examined the bomb which was seized when about to be taken into the ballroom where Madero was entertained the night before he left here for Mexico City. The bomb contained two sticks of dynamite, a fuse, and a cap, and was loaded with sixteen pieces of rough iron.

"These plots do not detract from the popularity of Madero," said a Provisional Government officer. "It is only natural that after so swift a change in Government many of the old régime should be reluctant to give up their power and that they should even resort to desperate measures."

Before leaving here Señor Madero said he intended to deal rigorously with all conspirators when he reached Mexico City.

IRAPUATO, Guanajuato, (on Board the Madero Special Train,) June 6.—Francisco I. Madero, Jr., and his party took luncheon at Irapuato to-day on the way to Mexico City. The surrounding country was denuded of its population, judging from the thousands who came here to honor Madero. It was with great difficulty that the Madero party made its way through the streets. Every one fought to get nearer the national hero.

At Silao, Guanajuato, one of the biggest demonstration of Madero's trip took place to-day. The railroad yards were swamped with special trains, which brought thousands of persons. With Gov. Castelago at their head, they marched through the streets, making the air ring with their shouts of "Viva!"

Several special trains from Mexico City met Madero's train to-day. They will precede the Madero special back to the capital in the morning to join in the welcome.

Though a multitude of persons received Madero with open arms when he reached Leon to-day, his military staff guarded him unusually closely as he appeared on the rear platform of his train. Last night's experience at Aguascalientes, where the party were led to a banquet that consisted of bare tables in a dark room, while giving no real proof of hostile intention, aroused fear that a plot might have been laid. As a result extraordinary precautions were taken to-day.

As the train nears Mexico City increasing care is taken. Soldiers on the pilot train, which precedes the special by about five minutes, are under orders to keep a sharp lookout for trouble.

LEON, Mexico, June 6.—Huge and enthusiastic crowds greeted Francisco I. Madero, Jr., who arrived here on his special train this morning.

Madero is being closely guarded, and will, it is expected, reach the National capital safely tomorrow.

AGUAS CALIENTES, Mex., June 6.—Señor Madero and his party found the banquet room at Aguas Calientes dark on their arrival last night. It was said that the feast would be prepared in an hour.

Madero, surrounded by his bodyguard, returned to his private car. He requested the members of his party to return to the banquet. The failure of the arrangements was unexplained. The Madero party found the banquet unprepared an hour later, and went to a hotel. Indignation was expressed, because it was suspected that Gov. Chaves did not wish to participate in the welcome.

Alberto Fuentes, the Maderist choice for Governor of Zacatecas, will investigate and report to Madero.

READY FOR THE CORONATION.

Changes in Westminster Abbey Completed—The King at Aldershot.

LONDON, June 6.—The Whitsuntide holidays gave a brief respite to the coronation preparations, which are now being resumed with increased energy. London, so far as the route of the procession is concerned, is becoming unrecognizable in its garb of new paint, decorations, scaffoldings for stands, and pillars for street adornment.

In Westminster Abbey itself the structural changes have been completed. For the great coronation ceremony tribunes have been erected with a seating capacity for 8,000 persons. The prevailing colors of the decorations are blue and gold. The programme has been fully arranged and it only remains to hold a number of rehearsals in the coming fortnight for the two hundred persons engaged in the coronation cermonial. This, though mainly following the lines of King Edward's coronation, will present some new features, notably the inclusion for the first time of standard bearers representing the over-seas dominions, India, and Wales, as well as England, Scotland, and Ireland. The over-seas troops will also have a post of honor outside of Buckingham Palace and around the Victoria Memorial on coronation day.

There has been a lull in entertainments, as the King is spending a few days with the troops at Aldershot. This is in the nature of a holiday after the fatigue of dealing with the multiple arrangements for the coronation. But from next Saturday there will be a constant round of [illegible] and public functions, [illegible] to nearly the end of July.

FRENCH GRATEFUL TO US.

The Temps Says Our Tokens of Good Feeling Are Not Unregarded.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 6.—The Temps in a leading article warmly supports Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, who in a letter addressed to it calls on French opinion to examine at least, if not reciprocate, the frequent and lively manifestations of sympathy shown toward France by the United States.

The Temps, after passing in review the many tokens of good feeling displayed in America in the past few months alone, concludes:

"The large number of these ceremonies to which our American friends invite our Ambassador at Washington, M. Jusserand, knowing the lively satisfaction these give his French heart, ought to make it a duty for us to thank them. The political relations between France and the United States are founded on good feeling. An understanding has developed between us in an atmosphere of reciprocal sympathies. The Americans of to-day remain faithful to the fine formula that the past is responsible for the future.

"The preocupations of European politics have prevented us from expressing at the very moment when these manifestations took place the sincerity of our gratitude, but let us be allowed to affirm to-day that none of them has passed unnoticed by us. In writing them down all together in the great book of Franco-American friendship we hope to give them renewed force."

CHOLERA FROM NEW YORK?

Man Dies on the Saxonia, Which Is Quarantined at Triest.

TRIEST, June 6.—The Cunard liner Saxonia, which arrived here to-day from New York, is in the hands of the health authorities, as the result of the discovery of a case of suspected cholera on board.

The victim was a Hungarian from America named Bernis. He died at sea. A bacteriological examination is being made, and in the meantime permission for communication between the vessel and the shore is withheld by the officers of the port.

The Saxonia sailed from New York on May 18. She called at Gibraltar, Genoa, and Naples, arriving at the last-named port last Friday. Bernis went on board at New York, with the intention of returning to his native land.

BERLIN, June 6.—The woman who was removed to a hospital here yesterday exhibiting symptoms that suggested cholera had recovered her normal state to-day, making it practically certain that the suspicion of the health authorities was groundless.

Nevertheless, the patient is detained at the hospital, pending the completion of a bacteriological examination.

MAIDSERVANTS, $5 A MONTH.

Thirty Colored Domestics Leave Guadeloupe for Canada.

BASSE TERRE, Guadéloupe, June 6.—Out of fifty-seven emigrant passengers who presented themselves for transportation to Canada only thirty colored female servants were accepted by the surgeon of the steamship Guiana. The number sailed to-day on the vessel, which goes by way of New York.

The colored domestics, who are being engaged by a Canadian employment agent here, are to have wages of $5 a month in the Dominion.

BENEDICT PARTY AT HAVANA.

Yacht Virginia Still Ashore and Salvage Is Doubtful.

HAVANA, June 6.—Commodore E. C. Benedict and his party arrived here this morning on board the wrecking steamer Premier from the American yacht Virginia, which is still ashore on Colorado Reefs, on the north coast of Pinar del Rio. The Premier will return to the stranded yacht this afternoon and make another effort to float the vessel, but its success in so doing is considered very doubtful.

The members of the Benedict party are all well and intend to proceed north tomorrow. The yacht's crew remain on board the wreck.

John Dillon Much Better.

DUNDALK, Ireland, June 6.—John Dillon, Nationalist member of Parliament for East Mayo, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident yesterday, is reported to be much improved.

VEDRINE OUT OF TURIN RACE

Starts from Paris, But His Aeroplane Is Damaged in a Rough Landing Near Macon.

NICE, June 6.—That Lieut. Bague of the French Army, who started yesterday morning from Nice on an aeroplane flight for Corsica, has met death in the venture is now considered almost certain. Torpedo boat destroyers and other naval craft have searched in vain for any tidings of the missing aviator.

A fisherman at the Garoupe lighthouse, on the extremity of Cape Antibes, says he saw a monoplane several miles out to sea about an hour after Bague made his start. As he watched the machine turned to the right as if the pilot wished to return to the shore. It was pitching and lurching heavily.

The fisherman became busy with his lines for a few moments, and when he looked again the aeroplane had vanished. There were no vessels in sight, and the fisherman believes that the monoplane fell into the sea, although he could not affirm this as a certainty.

PARIS, June 6.—Pierre Vedrine, the winner of the Paris-to-Madrid flight last month, crossed the starting line at the aerodrome at Buc at 3:31 this morning in an endeavor to reach Nice, the end of the first stage of the Paris-Rome-Turin air race.

Vedrine reached Dijon, 160 miles from Paris, at 7:25 A. M., and after taking on fuel reascended at 8:45 o'clock. After passing over Chalons-sur-Saone and flying at an altitude of 3,000 feet, he encountered a violent wind, which rocked his machine dangerously and compelled him to make a rough landing at Saint Laurent-les-Macon, just outside Macon. Vedrine was uninjured, but his aeroplane was damaged.

The accident upset Vedrine's plan to fly from Buc to Nice in one day, and he abandoned the race. He will return to Paris.

Four of the contestants in the Paris-Rome-Turin race—Beaumont, Garros, Frey, and Vidart—have already reached Rome and are prepared to resume their flights to Turin, the concluding stage of the event.

The contest was begun on May 28, but the aviators have until June 15 to accomplish the distance of 2,095 kilometers (1,300 miles) from Paris to Turin by way of Rome. The aeronauts were at liberty to start when they pleased and to land as often as they deemed it necessary provided they reported at certain fixed points. The race was organized by the Petit Parisien, and the prizes aggregate more than $100,000.

GENOA, June 6.—Le Prince, the French aviator, who yesterday arrived at Genoa, and although not regularly entered in the Paris-Turin race, expressed his intention of flying over the course, started this morning for Rome.

Hardly had he ascended when a gust of wind almost capsized his machine. It threw him against a stone wall and seriously damaged the aeroplane.

A NEW ALTITUDE RECORD.

Hirth, Carrying a Passenger, Reaches a Height of 5,182 Feet.

JOHANNISTHAL, June 6.—Hirth, the German aviator who recently won the Upper Rhine reliability flight, to-day made a world's record for height with a passenger, ascending to an altitude of 5,182 feet.

Schendel, in the competition for beginners of German nationality, made a new height record for Germany of 6,594 feet.

Balloonists Three Hours in Water.

BREMERHAVEN, June 6.—Three balloonists who left Berlin yesterday in a competitive flight were rescued at daybreak in the estuary of the Weser River, into which they had been compelled to drop to avoid being carried over the North Sea. The men had been in the water for three hours when discovered. Nine other balloons landed on the coast.

CAUTIOUS WORK ON MAINE.

Pumping to be Suspended Till June 15—Water Lowered Five Feet.

HAVANA, June 6.—The first stage of the actual work of uncovering the wreck of the battleship Maine was completed at 5 o'clock this afternoon, when pumping operations ceased, after the water level within the great cofferdam built around the wreck had been lowered precisely five feet.

This leaves the portion of the wreck visible above the water practically the same as on the night of the disaster, before the hull had had time to become imbedded in the mud at the bottom of the harbor. There is now visible a long stretch of the starboard side of the quarter deck, which is slightly raised, owing to a list to port of the after two-thirds of the ship.

All the newly exposed portions of the wreck are covered with barnacles and a rank marine vegetable growth, the removal of which is necessary, for sanitary reasons, before decomposition sets in.

When the pumping ceased to-day the cofferdam nowhere showed the least sign of seepage or leakage, apparently being absolutely waterproof and of the most ample stability.

The pumping is to be suspended until June 15, when the water level will be reduced another five feet. The work will then be suspended again, so that a minute examination may be made of all sections of the cofferdam, after which the pumping will be continued at intervals, dependent upon the results of the examination of the dam, until the bottom is reached, probably three or four weeks hence.

In the meantime, the work will be continued of refilling the repaired caisson, laying a substantial platform over the ellipse of twenty caissons composing the cofferdam, and installing therein appliances for the removal of mud and such detached portions of the wreck as may be discovered. The removal of the temporary scaffolding erected over the after-part of wreck and used during the progress of the work was begun this afternoon. Portions of the masts and deck fittings which have been recovered from time to time and have been stored in a temporary structure on the dam, as well as a number of small pieces of machinery, were placed on board the collier Leonidas, which is now lying close alongside the wreck.

Intense interest has been aroused in Havana through the realization that the wreck of the battleship is actually coming into view after thirteen years' burial and that the mystery regarding the character of the explosion is soon to be cleared up. Many Americans, Cubans, and Spaniards visited the wreck to-day.

Major Harley B. Ferguson of the United States Engineer Corps is receiving many congratulations on the approaching successful termination of his great work.

Orientals

The Largest Specialty Rug House in America.

Rug Fatigue

How will a rug wear to the eye?

Will its attractiveness endure as long as its texture—or will artistic defects appear and finally pall upon one?

To many intimately familiar with Orientals this is one of the chief considerations in selecting a rug.

An Oriental rug differs in this respect from a picture.

The eye takes in the whole of a painting—you get the whole atmosphere of it in a comparatively short time.

The rug maker is a weaver more than an artist.

His proportions and size relationships are more difficult than his colors.

So there are countless little features of an Oriental rug that develop as the eye grows accustomed to it.

It is these LITTLE features that finally determine the artistic durability of the rug.

You don't look for them in the first instance—if they are slightly defective they are apt to escape you.

Perhaps a medallion is misplaced—a very little out of position—a border out of proportion or a geometrical design askew.

Who notices it first—and to whom does it constantly grow more trying?

The woman, sitting quietly at home, her eye resting on the rug day after day.

In selecting Wild's Orientals, we are constantly on the lookout for such things.

It is ENTIRELY POSSIBLE to secure the maximum of beauty, as well as quality, in an Oriental rug.

You DO secure it in a Wild's Oriental. And you DO NOT pay an extra price because of it.

A substantial, attractive Oriental, large enough for a dining room or a living room, may be purchased here for $100.

Wild's Summer Rugs—both domestic and imported—have been chosen with like care.

The process has added nothing to their price.

If you have Oriental rugs to be put in order during the Summer, the expert work of the Wild establishment is at your service—together with storage facilities.

LIGHT CIGARETTES AND DIE FOR OTHERS

Survivors of the Steamship Taboga Reach Colon and Tell of Two Men's Heroism.

CAPTAIN AND PILOT IN JAIL

Stampeding Cattle Struck a Lifeboat—Two Passengers Rode Ashore on Backs of Bullocks.

Special to The New York Times.

COLON, June 6.—The steamer David has brought here eighty passengers and members of the crew rescued from the sinking steamship Taboga. They tell a narrative of the sea filled with stories of heroism and unusual experiences.

The Taboga was wrecked off the coast of Los Santos while upon a return trip from Pedregal to Panama City. Twenty-three persons are known to have lost their lives. The Captain, an Englishman named Campbell, who was the last man to leave the ship and live, and the pilot, Matthews, are under arrest and incommunicado in Panama City.

To Matthews's mistake is ascribed the disaster. One of the owners of the vessel, Prospero Pinel, objected to a change of course, and said there seemed to be breakers ahead. "It is only a school of sardines," was the reply of Matthews, and he laughingly kept on his course.

When the vessel hit the reef, a great hole was torn in the bow. The women and children—there were an unusually large number of the latter aboard—were crowded into the main dining saloon. The ship began to fill rapidly, and hundreds of cattle and hogs aboard set up a wild clamor.

A herd of steers stampeded and struck a lifeboat which was just being lowered. Nearly every person in the boat was drowned, and many, as they fell, were crushed under the animals. Two passengers, however, found the cattle a godsend and rode ashore upon the backs of bullocks.

Four passengers refused to leave the ship, one of them, a brother of the French Chargé d'Affaires here, being picked up after floating for twelve hours upon a spar to which he clung when the vessel gave its final lurch.

The Second Engineer, Perivanchi, and a Cuban manufacturer, Gregoire, unable to swim, stated that they would not crowd the already heavily taxed lifeboats. When there was not a woman or child left on the ship, and not another human being could be carried in the lifeboats, they calmly lighted cigarettes and smoked until the Taboga settled. The body of neither has been found.

According to statements made, there were but three life preservers on the craft. The storm of indignation in Panama resulted in the arrest of the two officers mentioned immediately after they reached Panama City.

Most of the victims were members of prominent families in the interior.

Catholic Club Elects Officers.

The Catholic Club at its annual election last night chose these officers for the year: President, Michael J. Mulqueen; First Vice President, Terrence Farley; Second Vice President, Joseph M. Adrian; Secretary, Percy J. King; Treasurer, Alfred M. Barrett; Managers—John D. Crimmins, Michael Blake, John G. O'Keefe, Victor J. Dowling, Thomas E. Murray, Joseph H. Fargis, Peter N. Moore, John J. Deery, Henry Heide, and Frank L. Lisinki.

STREET CLEANERS PARADE.

4,000 Men and 1,000 Horses and Carts Are to be in Line To-day.

This is the day of the Department of Street Cleaning. Regardless of weather conditions, 4,000 men, 1,000 horses, and many pieces of department appartus will be in a parade that should pass the reviewing stand in Madison Square at 2:30. Of course Commissioner Edwards will be conspicuous in the stand, and Mayor Gaynor and a number of other city officials will review the parade. Gov. Dix was asked, but he will be unable to come.

"You are performing a great service for the city in a most efficient manner, and I desire at this time to express my personal appreciation for the painstaking and wise conception of the importance of your department which you have shown." The families of the sweepers and those of the force who are to have no part in the parade will, in themselves, make a small army of spectators.

The festivities of the day will be brought to a close in the Hipprodrome with a vaudeville bill and a presentation of shields and banners to the borough forces that have made the best showing in the parade. Col. Daniel Appleton is the head of the Judging Committee, and will make the presentation speeches. There are to be speeches, too, from Mayor Gaynor, Dudley Field Malone, Job E. Hedges, and John H. Finley, President of City College.

REPORTS FAILURE OF MODEL GOVERNMENT

Charles E. Russell Finds Conditions in Australia and New Zealand Not Improved.

BLAMES IT ON THE TRUSTS

Government Ownership Idea Works Well in Certain Lines, but is Hampered by Monopolies.

Charles Edward Russell declared last night at a lecture in Cooper Union that the Government ownership idea as worked out in New Zealand and Australia was a complete failure in producing better conditions for the masses, and that these communities were far from being the model they had been represented to be.

Mr. Russell has just returned from a trip to the antipodes, which he made for the purpose of studying conditions of living there. His address last night was given under the auspices of the Rand School of Social Science.

Mr. Russell took as his text a statement of the principles of the insurgent party in Congress. These doctrines, he said, were only at the stage of being considered in this country, but had without exception been tried and found wanting in New Zealand and Australia. He laid the blame of the failure on the fact that combinations of capital in New Zealand and Australia had got such a grip on the Government that the publicly owned industries were not allowed to compete with them.

"While the people of New Zealand," he said, "do not have to face the burdens of a railroad trust, but get good and cheap service from the Government-owned roads, and do not have to bear the exactions of a telephone, telegraph, or insurance monopoly, yet these good effects are overbalanced by monopolies in other directions, so that the sum total is that the condition of the laboring class in the community is no better off than anywhere else.

"There is no doubt there are strong benefits in certain respects. But look at the other side. Take some of the aspects where they are actually in advance of anything thought of in this country as yet. They have one scheme for the Government housing of workingmen. In the beginning the Government began to build and rent beautiful houses for workingmen and rented them at low rates. But the people who got the houses began to complain that the scheme embraced retention of the title of the property by the Government. They wanted to gamble on the unearned increment.

"The Government shilly-shallied and finally weakly gave in that the renters of the houses could buy them. A clause was put in the act, however, that if the houses were ever sold they could be sold only to a workingmen. So you see how that idea worked out to uselessness. If there is any landlord who cannot qualify as enough of a workingman to get those houses, I would like to see any one who can. Thus the people are brought right back to landlordism again.

"In the City of Wellington they take you out to a section called Newtown and show you the beautiful houses built for workingmen. In all that city there have been just 137 Government houses built up to date, fine houses with low rents. But on all sides of them are miserable houses, with rents twice as high. What good does this do for the rent situation in that city for the mass of people who can't get these Government houses?

"New Zealand is cursed with a coal trust. Now there are great coal fields owned by the Government. In these they operate two collieries. And these produce coal enough to run the Government railroads, with just a little over to do good in such a few places that the sum is insignificant.

"Now, why is there not enough coal produced from the Government fields to make it cheap all over the land and relieve the people of a great burden? It is because the Government does not dare to offend the tremendous power the coal trust has made itself. There is a steamship trust so powerful that a New Zealander once told me if his life were at stake he would much prefer to take his chances with our own Standard Oil Company. These aggregations are so powerful that nothing is done against them. They are the biggest contributors to the campaign fund. The Government operates a fire insurance company—a little. But not enough to offend the capitalists.

"As a result in these model communities poverty is steadily increasing; the cost of living is going up much faster than the rise in wages. They say there is no poverty. Yet I brought with me twenty photographs taken in slums that if you saw them they would make you think you were back in old Trinity. And the whole thing demonstrates that capital controls the Government.

"In Australia, the Government is in the hands of the Labor Party; they are honest, intelligent, efficient, everything that is good. You would think, with all the insurgent reforms in force here, as they are, that the conditions would be good. Yet the slums that I visited this year were noticeably worse and larger than when I saw them five years ago.

"One of the planks that the Labor Party came in on was to destroy trusts. They have a law there that is something like our old Dr. Sherman's specific for trusts, which may cure chilblains, but will not touch trusts, and they endeavored to enforce it, only to find the Supreme Court blocked them, just as it did in this country. So they went before the people asking for a law giving them the power to curb the trusts, and were overwhelmingly defeated.

"I just got a letter from Australia telling about the means, but I didn't need it to know what had happened. An enormous campaign fund of $2,500,000 was raised. Votes were bought, meetings and speeches held, and not only that, but every paper was bought up and the people had a mass of misrepresentation poured in daily. You would think you were back in this country. And they raised the issue of patriotism, saying that the people must rally to the dear old Commonwealth and defend it against the attacks from foes. In that way the party that swept in to power one year, was overwhelmingly defeated the next, engaged in carrying out what it promised."

Hudson Boats in Collision.

KINGSTON, N. Y., June 6.—The steamers Jacob H. Tremper of the Central Hudson Line and Robert Fulton of the Albany Day Line ran together last night near Castleton, below Albany. A big hole was stove in the starboard bow of the Tremper and the Fulton lost part of her forward railing. The Tremper was towed to the dry dock at Rondout Creek. The Fulton continued her regular trip.

MACY REINFORCED HOSE

THE HOSE THAT Irontex WEARS LIKE IRON

Irontex Hosiery for Men, Women and Children is on sale only at Macy's.

Irontex Hosiery has real wearing qualities, and is guaranteed to give satisfactory wear, as is everything else that is bought at Macy's.

Irontex Hosiery is made of long staple cotton yarns, reinforced in heels, soles, and toes by a linen splicing which adds tremendously to the wearing qualities.

Irontex Hosiery is therefore better wearing than the various brands of time guaranteed hosiery, because the guaranteed hose is reinforced only with cotton, and cotton is only about ¼ as strong as linen.

Irontex Hosiery is full fashioned, and looks well.

The various brands of guaranteed hose are made of heavy yarn, and are coarse and clumsy and do not look well, and are not dressy.

In addition, the guaranteed hose do not fit as well as Irontex because they are made on so-called circular machines which do not give them the shape of the foot.

The time guarantee on hosiery is a gamble on the part of the manufacturer. He offers a low priced stocking at considerably more than its value; the increased price acting as his insurance against claims.

AGAINST AMENDING RECIPROCITY BILL

Senate Committee, by Nine to Six, Decides to Report It as Passed by the House.

ROOT'S PLAN VOTED DOWN

Victory for President Following Testimony of Publishers' Representatives on Wood Pulp Tariff.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The Senate Committee on Finance has now completed its hearings on the Canadian reciprocity measure and is ready to consider it for report and amendment. It can be stated on the authority of prominent members of the committee that the Root amendment and all other amendments will be rejected by the committee, though they will of course come up later on the floor. Through all the discussion of amendments the Root plan nullifying the lower paper and wood pulp duties has been taken as the test of strength and the definite decision against it is taken to mean the defeat as far as the committee is concerned, of all amendments. This is a striking victory for President Taft.

When the Root amendment was first introduced by the New York Senator, it was eagerly seized upon by the opponents of reciprocity as an easy way to kill that measure. It was openly said that the full Republican strength of the committee, with the possible exception of Mr. Penrose and the probable addition of Mr. Bailey and Mr. Simmons from the minority side, would be cast for the amendment. Since then, however, a great change has come about.

The President has exerted a quiet, but determined influence and John Norris, Herman Ridder, and others testifying in behalf of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, have made a strong presentation against the Root amendment. The result is that four Republicans are now against the amendment as are all the Democrats, with the possible exception of Mr. Simmons of North Carolina, who is opposed to reciprocity in its entirety.

The line-up of the committee against the Root amendment, which means for the bill as it passed the House, is Chairman Penrose of Pennsylvania, Cullom of Illinois, McCumber of North Dakota, and La Follette of Wisconsin, Republicans; and Bailey of Texas, Stone of Missouri, Williams of Mississippi, Kern of Indiana, Johnson of Maine, Democrats; in all nine Senators.

The amendment is supported by Senators Lodge of Massachusetts, Smoot of Utah, Gallinger of New Hampshire, Clark of Wyoming, and Heyburn of Idaho, Republicans; and, perhaps, Simmons of North Carolina, Democrat; in all six Senators.

The failure of the amendment to get more strength is explained by the unwillingness Senators feel to go out of their way to aid what is considered a purely New England fight. One Republican to-day, in discussing the matter, said that he would oppose the amendment, though he is opposed to reciprocity all through; and it seemed apparent that while he is forced by local conditions to oppose President Taft on the main proposal, he is not ready to oppose him on this item, which has no local bearing at home, and in which the President is nevertheless vitally interested. The Senator, on being questioned as to the attitude of a colleague, admitted that the colleague would probably stand with the administration throughout.

"And I wish," he added mournfully, "that I could be with the administration, too, but I can't on this proposition. I don't feel at home bolting the President's programme."

That is the feeling of many Republicans, and the President is playing upon it strongly. This same Senator conceded at once that his fight against reciprocity is hopeless. While he doubted the existence of much real sentiment in the Senate in favor of the agreement, he added that the vote for it would be two to one, and this estimate fits in well with other polls that have recently and authoritatively been made.

The Finance Committee will probably not make its report before Thursday or Friday, though it had been expected that the measure would be voted out without recommendation to-morrow. The delay is said to be for a "special reason," and this reason is probably the desire of the Senate leaders to give opportunity for consideration of the Root bill for the plurality election of Senators before the vote is taken on Monday on the popular elections constitutional amendment. The plan seems to be now to bring in the reciprocity measure just in time for adjournment over until Monday, though this may be changed to a slightly earlier date.

The committee met this morning to hear Secretary of State Knox on the general subject of the diplomatic effects of amendments to the measure. The Secretary of State, however, followed the tactics he had adopted before the Ways and Means Committee and did not appear. After waiting half an hour the committee learned that the Secretary was "detained," and after the committee had risen a letter was received explaining that Mr. Knox would not attend. As the committee had already scattered, however, the letter is still unopened.

Mr. Knox will not be asked to fix another date for his testimony, and nothing now remains for the committee but executive sessions.

Representative Sims of Tennessee, a Democrat, was so pleased with President Taft's reciprocity speech at Chicago that he announced at the White House to-day his intention to ask Congress to make it a public document. Mr. Sims said he preferred that a Republican should offer the resolution, but if none rose to the occasion he would.

WOOL TARIFF BILL REPORTED.

Democrats Criticise Taft—Representative Harrison Opposes It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The Wool Tariff bill was reported to the House to-day from the Ways and Means Committee by Chairman Underwood. The report submitted with the measure is written with great boldness, and from Mr. Underwood's promptness to get the House to sanction the printing of 5,000 copies in addition to the usual number printed as a document, it was clear that the document is likely to cut a figure in the next Presidential campaign.

The report criticises the President and the Tariff Board, which is pronounced as a useless appendage of the President and which is not likely to furnish Congress any information of value and bids fair to be a mere plaything of the President. Mr. Underwood in the report declares that President Taft himself denounced the wool schedule of the Payne-Aldrich bill, which the pending measure is intended to correct.

Quoting President Taft's addresses after the passage of the Payne-Aldrich bill, in which he declared that "the woolen schedule is indefensible, and I propose to say so," the report says:

> Had the President made these public admissions earlier, while the tariff of 1909 was under consideration by Congress, his declarations would have been of real service to the people and would have enabled them to protest against the betrayal of the public welfare to private greed. The President's silence at that time and his approval of the act of 1909 make it impossible for him to evade his full share of responsibility for the failure of revision which he now admits.

The report deals at some length with the failure of the Tariff Board to communicate data on the woolen industry, saying on this point:

> The position of the Tariff Board appears to be that they, in conference with and under the sole control of the President, shall be the sole judges as to what part of the data they collect may be likely to be of service for purposes of legislation; and this situation must be considered with reference to the viewpoint of the President concerning legislation.
> It is therefore not impossible that there may be some such delay in the communication to the Congress of statistical information collected by the Tariff Board concerning wool and woolen goods as there has been in communicating to Congress or making public the data by the Bureau of Corporations concerning investigations of the steel and other industries.

The report maintains that any further delay in the revision of the wool and woolen schedule would be objectionable to the public. In explaining the determination of the committee not to put raw wool on the free list, but to reduce the present duty to 20 per cent. ad valorem, the committee insists, as the Democratic caucus did, that the duty "is not to be construed as an abandonment of any Democratic policy," and continues:

> The present situation of the Treasury, following a long course of unwarranted extravagance by the Republican Party and the appropriations already made by the Sixty-first Congress, which the Democratic minority could not limit, require that the revenue from customs duties in the immediate future be maintained at approximately the total of the fiscal year 1910.

The committee states that there is no sufficient reason for continuing the complicated and troublesome system of classification of raw wools, characterizing it as a "great burden and annoyance to the Customs Service and adding to the expense of collecting duties on raw wools."

It is asserted that the average ad valorem rate on manufactures of wool, on the imports and duties as estimated for 1912, would be 42.55 per cent., as compared with 90.10 per cent. under the schedule in 1910, and the average ad valorem equivalent of duties on raw wool 20 per cent., as compared with 44.31 per cent. in 1910.

Notice was given that a motion will be made to-morrow to go into Committee of the Whole on the bill, and no agreement was made to limit the length of time the debate shall run. It is known that great interest in the measure has been shown and there will be a larger number of speeches, probably, than were made on the Free List bill. Mr. Underwood will open the debate to-morrow, and in a few days he will ask that the House meet daily at 11 o'clock in order to accommodate all who want to be heard on the bill.

It was a matter of some interest to note that the name of Representative Burton Harrison, who has represented on Ways and Means the views of Mr. Bryan as to free wool, did not appear on the majority report on the bill. Mr. Harrison will express his opposition to the bill in a speech during the debate. He will, however, support the measure on its passage.

It is the general opinion among his Democratic colleagues that Mr. Harrison is making a strong political diversion in insisting on free wool, the purpose being to widen the demarcation between the Southern Democrats and Mr. Bryan, and create a breach between Bryan and Champ Clark for the advantage of Gov. Wilson. This is the commonly expressed view of the situation which is coming into outline with the discussion of the wool tariff.

The minority report is signed by Representatives Payne, Dalzell, Needham, and Longworth. "For purely political reasons," it says, "this cold-blooded measure is brought forward. If it could become a law it would slaughter sheep as in 1894, and close the mills much more universally."

The bill is not drawn on lines for the production of revenue on raw wool, the minority report contends, and adds that "with a duty of 20 per cent. on wool, the duty on manufactured cloth is too low to enable our manufacturers to pay the wool duty and still compete with imported cloths."

The minority report characterizes the Democratic statements with regard to the condition of the Treasury as "absolutely false," and presents Treasury statements purporting to refute the Democratic charges of Republican extravagance in expenditures.

MRS. LAFLIN WEDS A HEALER.

Rich Chicago Woman's Marriage to G. D. Jones Not Known to Friends.

Mrs. Albert S. Laflin, widow of a Chicago capitalist, and Gardner Durie Jones, a healer of the Christian Science Church, were married in Jersey City on May 22, according to an announcement made by Mr. Jones yesterday at 540 Park Avenue, where his bride has been living for some time. Mr. Jones, who is President of the New Jersey Building and Construction Company of Jersey City, said they were married in the office of Dougal Herr, a friend of his, with Clarence Dunham Randall, Vice President and General Manager of the New Jersey Building and Construction Company, and Mrs. Randall as witnesses. The marriage had been kept quiet, he said, until friends of Mrs. Jones in Chicago had heard of it and began to write to friends in New York for particulars.

Mr. Jones met Mrs. Laflin about three years ago, shortly after she "was cured in Science" by joining the Christian Scientist Church after "medicos" had given her case up as hopeless. He himself had at that time been a healer of the church for eight years.

Mrs. Jones has been painted as a typical American beauty, her husband said, by Helleu and other French artists, and is well known in Europe and this country for her interest in Oriental art and dress. She traveled extensively with her former husband, who died four years ago. Mr. Jones is a son of Ethan Allen Jones, President of the Carriage Manufacturing Company of St. Louis. He has traveled much in Central and South American republics, and said yesterday that he will probably spend his honeymoon there with his bride.

DAY VOUCHER LOST, SAYS SENATOR ROOT

Can Throw No Light on $1,600 Excess Payment for Portrait of Former Secretary of State.

HOLLANDER'S DOUBLE PAY

Root Says He Disapproved Action of Johns Hopkins Professor in Drawing Extra Sum for San Domingo Work.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Senator Root was examined by the House Committee on Expenditures in the State Department to-day on the discrepancy found in the voucher for the portrait painted of former Secretary Day by Albert Rosenthal of Philadelphia.

As a result of the disclosures thus far made before the committee, Chairman Hamlin to-day introduced a bill making it a high crime and misdemeanor for the President of the United States not to obey the law that has been on the statute books since August, 1842, requiring him to make a certificate to Congress as to the expenditures from the emergency fund of the State Department "for the purpose of intercourse and treaty with foreign powers." The bill also provides for the appointment of a joint committee, to consist of three Senators and three Representatives, who shall examine such items of expense from the fund as the President shall regard as proper to be kept secret.

Mr. Root said that while Secretary of State he had had an investigation made of the portrait matter. He could not remember what the result of the inquiry was. Mr. Denby, the chief clerk at the time, made it for him. He said he thought that it was found that the $850 was paid for the portrait, and the rest of the $2,450 covered by the voucher signed by Rosenthal applied to items approved by Secretark Hay. Mr. Hay had indorsed his approval so that it covered all the items on the page. He said that the papers in the case, all of them, including the voucher, had been lost.

The witness said that he had found that the law as to a certification of the items spent from the contingent fund had been for many years neglected, and in 1907 he had required that it be observed, but he could not tell whether the item for the Day portrait had been thus certified or not. Mr. Root admitted that the payment for the portrait was not a proper one to be made from the contingent fund which, according to the statute, was to apply to expenditures for the purpose of intercourse and treaty with foreign nations. Yet he said there had been a custom from time far back to pay for portraits of former Secretaries of State from this fund.

Mr. Root was interrogated at length on the mystery of the disappearance of the voucher and accompanying papers. Mr. Davis, the Republican member of the committee, conducted this inquiry. He called attention to the regulations in all the departments that no person should be allowed to take records and vouchers from the files. Mr. Root said it was a common thing in the State Department to send through the Chief Clerk for papers, to take them from the files, and possibly to place a note in their place to show that they had been taken away. Mr. Davis called attention to the law on the subject and to the testimony of Secretary Knox to convince the witness that there had been a gross violation of law and regulations for the protection of the Government.

Chairman Hamlin also examined Mr. Root as to the position he took in the payment of Prof. Jacob H. Hollander of Johns Hopkins University for adjusting the debt of San Domingo. Mr. Root said that Hollander was paid $1,000 a month and expenses for his services in December, 1908, his service having terminated Aug. 1 that year, and it was not until Jan. 14, 1909, that he knew of the plan to pay Hollander also for the same service from the San Domingo Treasury.

"Did you reprove him for trying to get pay both from the United States and from San Domingo?" asked Mr. Hamlin.

"Well, I do not know as I reproved him. I did not write a letter to him as stated. I think he could not have failed to understand what I said to him. I gave him to understand that I did not approve the matter," said Mr. Root.

Mr. Root said that he laid down a condition precedent to the proposed payment. He had a copy of it with him, and filed it with the committee. This letter is as follows:

> In making the order of Dec. 11, 1908, upon the Morton Trust Company, directing the payment of $25,000 in cash and $75,000 in new 5 per cent. bonds to Jacob H. Hollander, Mr. Velasquez was aware of the fact that Mr. Hollander had been for a long period prior to Aug. 1, 1909, in the receipt of regular payments by the Government of the United States for his services in assisting the Government of Santo Domingo in connection with settlement of the debt and the carrying out of the terms of the treaty between the United States and Santo Domingo, and that the payments provided for by his order were for services subsequent to that or for services other than the services paid for by the United States. ELIHU ROOT.

This letter explains why Dr. Hollander was so long in getting his money. Velasquez never did furnish the approval that Secretary Root demanded, and he said that when he left the office of Secretary of State the payment had not yet been made. Finally Velasquez did give a letter, which, in a way, permitted Mr. Bacon to make the payment.

Mr. Root also filed with the committee a letter from him to Secretary Wright, then Secretary of War, and having jurisdiction of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, which audited the payments by the San Domingan Government. In this letter Mr. Root required that thereafter the Bureau of Accounts of the State Department should audit such accounts, Hollander having gone out of the employ of the United States, and no longer taking part in auditing the San Domingan accounts. It was shown that the Velasquez letter finally secured referred to future service for all time by Hollander in order to give color of fairness to the claim, which was in fact, for the same time for which he was already paid by the United States.

FOUND HIS STRAYED BRIDE.

She Was Quite Safe in Hoboken, Waiting for Prospector Dubois.

Francis Dubois, the young mining man from Porcupine, Ontario, who reported to the police on Monday night that he had lost his young wife on a train bound here from Toronto, Ontario, found her yesterday afternoon in Meyer's Hotel, Hoboken, N. J.

Dubois was parted from his bride of seven months when he was left behind while arguing with a man who had taken his coat and umbrella from a sleeping car on which he and his wife were passengers. Mrs. Dubois, it developed yesterday, continued on her way to this city, and from here went to Hoboken, where she and her husband were to sail for Mrs. Dubois's home in Copenhagen on a Scandinavian-American liner to-day. In Hoboken she went to Meyer's Hotel, told of missing her husband, and took a room there to await his arrival.

Capt. Larsen, Superintendent of the Scandinavian-American Line pier in Hoboken, notified the New York police of Mrs. Dubois's arrival, and Dubois, who was at the Abingdon Square Hotel, was notified in turn by the New York police. He hurried to Hoboken, and last night the couple exchanged accounts of their experiences.

151 Southern Editors Here.

The steamship Apache of the Clyde Line arrived here yesterday with 151 editors and their families, who are to spend a week in this city sight-seeing. They are under the care of Herbert E. Bower, who is connected with the Charleston office of the Clyde Line. The male members of the party all belong to the South Carolina Press Association, which has recently been in annual convention at Columbia. August Kohn, editor of The News and Courier of Charleston, former President of the association, and Ambrose E. Gonzales, the Vice President, had the party officially in hand. On arrival at the pier the editors were conveyed in automobiles to the Hotel Woodward, Fifty-fifth Street and Broadway.

WOULD KEEP SCOTT ON BENCH

County Lawyers' Association to Work for Justice's Re-election.

The New York County Lawyers' Association met at the Hotel Astor last evening for the sole purpose of taking action on the recommendation of its Judiciary Committee that the association urge the renomination of Supreme Court Justice Scott of the Appellate Division. By a unanimous vote it was decided that a committee of fifteen be appointed to work for the re-election of Justice Scott, whose term expires at the end of the present year.

This action was taken on a resolution presented by ex-Justice Leventritt, indorsed by Edward M. Shepard and seconded by Edward Lauterbach. President Alton B. Parker presided. The resolution gives this praise of Justice Scott:

> Over a period of fourteen years at Special Term, at Trial Term, and at the Appellate Division he has been called upon to perform every manner of judicial labor, and to the discharge of each duty he has brought not only mental equipment of the highest order, but a temperamental attitude as important as any possession of ability.
> His indefatigable industry, his capacity to dispatch business, his broad grasp of the larger problems with which the judiciary of to-day has to deal, his ripe learning and great experience, and the absolute confidence which the community at large has in his fearless impartiality and integrity have been so abundantly established and are each and all such indispensable assets to the complete administration of justice that we feel we are but performing a duty in accordance with one of the purposes of our organization to urge his retention in office, and to labor to that end, so that we may not be deprived of the service rendered from the fulness of his powers.

Mr. Shepard spoke not only as a practitioner before Justice Scott, but as one who had known him in college. He indorsed him as "emphatically a Magistrate of good sense," and in closing said: "I think it must be the unanimous opinion of the bar that no more signally useful designation to that great court was ever made. He has been one of the very first Judges of the land, and it seems quite inconceivable to me that the men who control nominations should not see that Justice Scott's career puts the desirability of his renomination beyond a reasonable doubt."

Mr. Lauterbach paid his tribute to one whom he had known since boyhood and expressed his hope that the refusal of a renomination, such as had, in his opinion, caused the death of one Judge, would never be repeated. A moment later, lest any should miss his meaning, he named Justice Truax as one who had suffered from what he called a lamentable condition.

Although the meeting was called solely for the indorsement of Justice Scott, ex-Congressman Littlefield never mentioned him at all. He hotly deplored the "aggrandizement of the executive at the expense of the legislative," and in so doing he thumped the career of Col. Roosevelt and rebuked Gov. Dix.

TWO LINERS HELD UP.

Measles on the Carpathia and Smallpox on the Bretagne.

Fifty cases of measles were found among the 1,100 immigrants on the Cunard liner Carpathia, which arrived yesterday from Naples. The ship was detained by Health Officer Doty until the patients had been removed to Swinburne Island for treatment. In all about 150 men, women, and children were held for observation. Before she was allowed to proceed to her dock with her 292 cabin passengers, the Carpathia was thoroughly disinfected.

The French liner Bretagne, which arrived at Quarantine just ahead of the Carpathia, was also detained for several hours. A woman in the steerage was taken ill a few hours after leaving Havre, and the case was diagnosed as smallpox by Dr. Brissot, the ship's surgeon. The passengers and crew of the Bretagne, except two, were immediately vaccinated. After the patient had been removed to Swinburne Island the vessel was disinfected and released.

MAYOR FOR EQUAL SALARIES.

Drafts Amendment Forbidding Sex Discrimination in School Payroll.

Mayor Gaynor, with the assistance of Corporation Counsel Watson, has drafted an amendment to the educational provision in the proposed new city charter, whereby women school teachers will receive the same pay as the men.

The Mayor, it was explained, has been in favor all along of doing away with discrimination in teachers' salaries, based upon sex. He sent Mr. Watson to Albany yesterday with a copy of the proposed amendment, which provides that there shall be no reduction in the salary of any person who is a member of the supervising or the teaching staff at the time the act takes effect.

Erlanger Finds Our Code Out of Date.

Supreme Court Justice Erlanger took occasion yesterday to criticise from the bench the present New York State Code of Civil Procedure as a "relic of the Middle Ages." Justice Erlanger said that the simple code of the State of Massachusetts was much preferable to the present code of this State, and that steps should be taken by the Bar Association for the adoption of a shorter and simpler code.

Will Be Made Doctor of Divinity at the Commencement Exercises To-day.

CLASS DAY HELD INDOORS

The Silver-Casketed "Bun" Passes to Next Year's Seniors—530 Men to be Graduated To-day.

The graduating classes of the College of Arts and the School of Applied Science of New York University held their class day exercises at University Heights yesterday afternoon. It had been planned to hold the exercises on the campus and plant the class ivy later against the walls of Gould Hall, but the weather made it necessary to hold the affair indoors and to postpone the ivy planting. Besides the seventy-odd graduates, more than a thousand relatives and friends were present at the ceremonies.

Dr. George Alexander, President of the University Council, occupied the seat of honor and made the invocation. The class history was recited by Franklin F. Russell and the prophesy by Frederick L. Kopff. There seemed to be no question in Mr. Kopff's mind that the members of the present graduating class would become more prominent and do greater things in after life than any other body of young men now living.

The class oration was delivered by Edwin W. Cooney, and Lyman R. Hartley read the class poem. The statistics of the class were given by Joseph T. McMahon. The "Bun" oration was delivered by Le Roy T. Murphy, who presented it to the class of 1912. The "bun" is an ordinary baker's bun, which is held by the most popular class in college. It is kept in a solid silver casket and is handed down to a lower class when its owners graduate.

The "bun" has been in existence for more than thirty years, and the silver casket is engraved with the numerals of the many favored classes which have possessed it. The present graduating class got the mark of popularity two years ago.

The most amusing part of the programme was the presentation address by Walter E. Atkinson. He had an appropriate gift for every senior, and as he called the different men to the platform and solemnly presented them with tinhorns, hair-restorers, and corsets, the audience howled its delight.

The last will and testament of the class was read by Edwin I. Judd and the ivy oration recited by Andrew I. Ten Eyck, though the planting was postponed.

To-day the seventy-ninth annual commencement exercises of the college will be held at University Heights. Six honorary degrees and 530 degrees in course will be conferred. Following the custom inaugurated in 1909, the graduates of the University College of Arts and of the School of Applied Science will have their exercises in the morning, and the commencement of the Law, Medical, Veterinary, Pedagogy, Commercial, and Graduate schools will take place in the afternoon.

At the morning exercises the student speakers will be Frederick Louis Kopff, Franklin Ferris Russell, Theodore Ernest Veltford, and Andrew I. Ten Eyck. At the afternoon exercises 450 degrees will be conferred in course. Honorary degrees will be conferred upon the following:

Doctor of Music: William Crane Carl, Musical Director of the First Presbyterian Church; Director of the Guilmant Organ School.

Doctor of Divinity: The Rev. Dr. John Henry Jowett of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. Alexander MacLachlan, President of the International College, Smyrna, Turkey; the Rev. Dr. James Dallas Steele of the First Presbyterian Church, Passaic, N. J.

Doctor of Letters: Robert Underwood Johnson, editor of the Century Magazine.

Doctor of Laws: Palmer Chamberlaine Ricketts, President of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y.

IVY DAY AT BARNARD.

Seniors Have the Annual Ceremony and Then Give a Classic Play.

In spite of the threatening weather, the Barnard seniors held their Ivy Day exercises on the campus yesterday afternoon. Grouped on the senior steps, the class opened the ceremonies by singing all their class songs.

Miss Margaret Hart delivered the Ivy oration. After this the class presented a Greek drama, "Ceres and Persephone." The play was interpreted through dance and music.

After the play the seniors were invited by the Columbia seniors to the performance of "Ralph Royster Doyster." They were not alone audience, but a vital part of the production, for the costumes for the play had been lost and the girls lent their caps and gowns to the actors.

GIVE OLD PLAY AT COLUMBIA

"Ralph Royster Doyster" Presented on Campus by Philolexian Society.

"Ralph Royster Doyster," the oldest English comedy, was produced on the Columbia campus yesterday by the Philolexian Literary Society before a large audience of commencement week visitors. It had been intended to give the production in the open air out on Havemeyer Court, but the inclement weather necessitated a change in the plans, and so the play was acted in Earl Hall. In accordance with the custom of the Elizabethan period, in which Udall wrote "Ralph Royster Doyster," no scenery was used in yesterday's performance.

The cast was as follows:

Ralph Royster Doyster	D. R. Fox, '11
Mathew Marygreke	L. S. Hill, '11
Gawyn Goodluck	A. W. Macmahon, '12
Tristram Trustie	T. A. Sparke, '12
Dobinet Doughtie	H. W. March, '11
Tom Trupenie	A. W. Macmahon, '12
Sym Suresby	G. Smith, P. G.
Scrivener	G. Caldwell, '13
Harpax	W. H. Ziegler, '11
Christian Custance	L. Fraser, '13 h.
Margerie Mumblecrust	W. A. Bell, '11
Annot Talyface	P. L. Moon, '13
Tibet Talkapace	J. K. Lasher, '14

The classes of 1911, Columbia and Barnard, were present in cap and gown, the Barnard seniors having just concluded their ivy day exercises on Milbank Quadrangle.

RESPITE FOR O'REILLY.

Justice Cohalan Grants Writ Which May Afford Chance for New Trial.

Daniel J. O'Reilly, the lawyer, sentenced on Monday to serve five months in the penitentiary, Blackwell's Island, obtained yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Cohalan a writ directing District Attorney Whiman to show cause on Thursday why a certificate of reasonable doubt should not be issued.

Such a certificate would permit O'Reilly to go free on bail pending an appeal from his conviction of having acted as go-between for the Bancroft bond thieves.

DERELICT HITS SUBMARINE.

Tarpon Crew's Quickness Enables It to Rise and Steer Clear.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 6.—Prompt action by Ensign John W. Barnett, Jr., commanding the submarine Tarpon, and his crew while running under the sea in Narragansett Bay yesterday probably saved serious damage when it collided with a heavy floating derelict.

Commander Donald Bingham of the third submarine division had given orders to the submarines as they concluded their under-the-sea taget practice in Coddington Cove to proceed off Point Judith for submarine bell practice. As the submarines were running at a good speed under the sea the derelict struck the bow of the Tarpon, carrying away the rails. As Ensign Barnett gave the signal to blow out the tanks to reach the surface the upper part of the conning tower met the full force of the derelict, and was badly damaged. Soon the Tarpon was on the surface, running toward the tender Severn, where repairs were made to-day.

The crew acted quickly when the signal was given to rise, and further contact with the derelict was avoided.

BAR SECRET POSTAL UNIONS.

Stewart Tells Mail Clerks They Cannot Serve Two Masters.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 6.—Second Assistant Postmaster General Joseph Stewart, addressing the National Convention of the Railway Mail Clerks Association to-day, denied that the Government is against organizations. He said:

"The Government objects to organizations of a secret character in the service. And it objects to those which attempt to affiliate with outside organizations which have no connection with the service."

Mr. Stewart reminded the clerks of the Government regulation that their officers must be in the service. He continued: "After swearing loyalty to the Government a clerk is called upon by an extraneous force to perform or not perform actions for the Government. The Government has recognized this difficulty before with drastic action, and it recognizes it to-day."

At its sessions to-morrow the association will consider the matter of affiliating with the American Federation of Labor. This proposition has divided the association into factions.

PASTOR TO WED CHOIR SINGER

Rev. G. Clement Edson, Widower, to Marry Miss Gertrude Abbey.

There are to be wedding bells for the Rev. G. Clement Edson, pastor of the Noble Street Presbyterian Church, in Greenpoint, whose wife died a year ago leaving him with three small children. He is to marry Miss Gertrude Abbey, soloist in the choir, who lives at 87 Oakland Street, and who has been actively identified with the church for several years.

The report of Mr. Edson's engagement to Miss Abbey became generally known only yesterday, and created some comment among members of the congregation. When Mr. Edson was seen at the parsonage, 140 Noble Street, he admitted his prospective marriage and said he couldn't understand why it should occasion any surprise.

Mr. Edson came to the church four years ago.

Divorce for Mrs. William C. Bain.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 6.—In the Superior Court this morning Mrs. William C. Bain obtained a divorce from her husband, whom she charged with numerous offenses, including neglect to provide and cruelty. On the former charge the court granted the petition and permission for Mrs. Bain to resume her maiden name, Miss Belle Beach. Her husband was formerly a volunteer officer in the British Army during the Boer war and has been riding considerably in various horse shows.

NAPOLEON'S LETTERS IN A WILL CONTEST

Remarkable Collection of Documents and Antiques in the Caryl Estate at Yonkers.

ONCE OWNED BY MME. JUMEL

Everything Left to Mrs. Caryl, Her Grandniece, and Nephew Says the Will is Invalid.

A remarkable collection of Napoleonic letters, as well as a collection of antique furniture, tapestry, and jewels, probably one of the best of its kind in existence, it was learned yesterday, constitute a large part of the large fortune of the late Julius Henry Caryl of Yonkers, whose will was filed for probate yesterday. The will is made in favor of his widow, Eliza Jumel Caryl, 86 years old, but a contest over its validity, led by a nephew of Mr. Caryl, La Salle J. Hayden, promises interesting revelations.

The will was executed on Nov. 29, 1910. Mr. Caryl died on March 27 last. The will named Mrs. Caryl sole executrix, and by it all property was handed over to her. There were two sisters, three nieces, and eight nephews of Mr. Caryl who were not mentioned in the will, and one of the nephews immediately began an action before Surrogate Frank V. Millard of Westchester County, charging that the will had been procured by undue influence, that the testator was not of sound mind, and that its terms were contrary to Mr. Caryl's earlier declarations.

The estate includes the famous Jumel residence at Saratoga, hotel property at Saratoga Springs, and realty in and around Yonkers. But of particular interest is the collection of Napoleonic souvenirs on which no estimate of value has yet been set.

This collection, according to Mrs. Caryl's lawyer, Frederick C. Tanner of 1 Madison Avenue, is traced to Mme. Jumel of Revolutionary fame. The will of Mme. Jumel left all her estate to Mary Chase, her niece, and on the death of the latter the estate went to Mme. Jumel's favorite grandniece, the present Mrs. Caryl. Along with extensive realty holdings went the Napoleonic collection, which Mme. Jumel prized highly. Mrs. Caryl, during the life of her husband, was wont to say little about this collection.

"It took me two hours to wade through the collection," said her attorney yesterday. "There are two others, which belong to France, but I am not at all sure that they are as complete as that left by Mme. Jumel."

The collection includes many pieces of furniture, all said to be personal gifts from Napoleon to Mme. Jumel. There are small and large tables, a complete set of chairs, and a campaign chest used by the "Little Corporal" in the campaign of the Nile and at the battle of the Pyramids. There is also a bedstead from Malmaison, the home of Napoleon near Paris. There are also many portraits of the famous warrior, and vases and statuary, mostly of Egyptian types.

"Of greatest value, however," said Mr. Tanner, "is a bundle of about 200 letters and original manuscripts, all signed by the Emperor. And then there is a diamond tiara which once belonged to the Empress Josephine, as well as numerous other jewels which she wore. Aside from their intrinsic value, these jewels as well as the other antiques, must have a greater value as relics. I cannot begin to estimate what they are worth, but the State, owing to the inheritance law, may try to show that the estate, with this collection added, is worth several millions. Mr. Hayden, who has sued to invalidate the will, contends that the estate is worth only $1,000,000. I think it is worth less."

The other famous Napoleonic collections referred to by Mr. Tanner are the one at Malmaison, 20 miles from Paris, the former home of the Empress Josephine, and the one in the Little Trianon, at Versailles. Both of these collections are Government property.

Charles Beattie of 116 Nassau Street is attorney for Mr. Hayden. It was said there that Mr. Caryl made his will on the second day of an attack of pneumonia, when he was not of disposing mind. Mr. Hayden is a clerk in the Custom House, living with his wife and little daughter at Bath Beach.

NOT MRS. JOHNS'S MOTHER

Who Is Suing Mercantile Safe Deposit Co. for $250,000, Say Lawyers.

Lawyers in the case denied yesterday that the Mrs. Margaret J. Johnson who has filed a $250,000 suit against the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company of 120 Broadway for conversion is the mother of Margaret Johnson Brown Johns, and that the securities alleged to be converted represent gifts made to Mrs. Johns by the late Robert Hoe.

Mrs. Johnson says in her complaint that the company converted on May 6 last more than $190,000, the contents of Safe Deposit Box 15,308, and refused to allow her to have access to their vaults to get the contents, asserting that the contents were withheld at the request of "reputable people," who had warned the company's officers that it would be liable for damages if it gave up the securities.

The complaint was filed in the County Clerk's office by lawyers who have not been identified with the litigation between Mrs. Johns and the Hoe estate.

GRATEFUL FOR PROFANITY.

Mrs. Owing Would Swear, too, About Brigham Young, if She Dared.

Mrs. John Francis Yawger, the newly elected President of the Woman's Republican Association of the State of New York, at its annual meeting and luncheon yesterday at the Claremont in Riverside Drive, told the members that she hoped each one would act the part of a good "ma" to the society, and not that of a good "pa." That was no reflection upon masculine human nature, as it might be found in clubs, but related to a story which is a pet history of Mrs. Yawger's and which she told yesterday.

It is the story of the minister's family which was about to move. A neighbor sent over to see if it was true. The small boy of the family said: "Well, pa's on his knees praying about it, but ma's packin' up."

Mrs. Yawger says she wants the club women's prayers in their work, but at the same time she wants them to spend a good deal of effort in "packin' up."

Mrs. Herbert Sumner Owing, the Utah woman who has been traveling around the country trying to keep Brigham Young's face and name off the battleship Utah's silver service, said she had had great help from the men. She now has the Union League Club as an ally, and it is to the men of the army and navy to whom she feels most grateful. Being servants of the Government they cannot voice their sentiments publicly in regard to battleships, but they have said forcible things in private, which have warmed the cockles of Mrs. Owing's heart.

"There was one man among them to whom I owe a debt of gratitude," said Mrs. Owing. "He gave forth such red-hot profanity in regard to having anything connected with Brigham Young on a United States battleship that I shall never forget it. They were words which I wish I had the courage to use myself."

Mrs. William Grant Brown presided at the luncheon. Mrs. Penfield, Miss Helen Varick Boswell, Mrs. Jane Pierce, Mrs. Richard T. Bent, Mrs. Cornelia Robinson, Dr. Sarah McNutt, Mrs. James G. Wentz, Mrs. Augustus J. Wilson, and Mrs. Archibald Shaw were among the speakers and guests. Miss Boswell has been recently to Panama to visit the woman's club she organized there. She told the women something that interested them very much. "Panama hats," said Miss Boswell, "do not come from Panama."

Only the Best Quality Mohair In Women's Bathing Suits At $3.95 to $9.75

With eyes closed one may judge their quality, as the evidence is sufficient when one feels the soft and firm quality of the mohair. This is why the suits are not stiff affairs, but are shapely and yet clinging.

It is also necessary for you to know that every inch of mohair in these suits is salt-water-proof. This, of course, prolongs the wear.

Of the many styles in Mohair Suits, we are particularly pleased with those fashioned in the various princess styles, some fastening down the front; others side-pleated, with panel front and back, and we also have the belted models for elderly women—even these suits have panel fronts.

Black Suits are in the majority, as both Fashion and women prefer them. Also navy in many styles.

It is well to remember that when one selects a bathing suit at Gimbels, one may be sure that she will not see thousands just like it at the shore, as our models are exclusive.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

We see no necessity whatever for "the enactment of drastic and far-reaching legislation" for the control of industrial corporations which Mr. ROOSEVELT advocates. The Sherman act of 1890 puts in the hands of the Government powers of control entirely adequate for the protection of the public against all restraining and monopolizing practices. The meaning of that law has now been made clear. It describes a class of offenses which ought nowhere to be permitted, and its prohibitions are sufficiently broad, it seems to us, to include all those practices and abuses. The law is drastic, for its penalties are severe enough to be deterrent.

Nor is the Sherman act open to the objection urged by Mr. ROOSEVELT when in his Outlook article he said that it "was framed on a theory that it was possible to turn back the wheels of progress in industrialism and, in an age of combination, to put a stop to combinations under which business was carried on." We do not so understand the history or the text of the statute. What is very much more important, the Supreme Court does not so understand it. Mr. ROOSEVELT has evidently not cleared his mind of the old and erroneous interpretations of the act under which the prohibition of all contracts and agreements in restraint of trade was made to include innumerable restraints, not of trade, but of competition, all sorts of contracts, such as are necessary and indispensable to the transaction of business. Congress did not put that meaning into the law. By an amendment it struck out altogether the word "competition." As it is now rightly construed, the act does not prohibit combinations, it does not turn back the wheels of progress in industrialism, and it does not "put a stop to the combinations under which business" is carried on. It is only when those combinations work a restraint of trade that they come within the meaning of the act.

That is the interpretation put upon the law by the opinions and the decrees of the court in the Standard Oil and in the Tobacco cases. Chief Justice WHITE said in the Standard Oil case:

> We say that since it does not necessarily follow because an illegal restraint of trade or an attempt to monopolize or monopolization resulted from the combination and the transfer of the stocks of the subsidiary corporations to the New Jersey corporation that a like restraint or attempt to monopolize, or monopolization would necessarily arise from agreements between one or more of the subsidiary corporations after the transfer of the stock by the New Jersey corporation.

The Chief Justice dwelt upon the contention that a literal compliance with the decree of the Circuit Court below, by forbidding such agreements "between one or more of the subsidiary corporations," was "calculated to do injury to the public, and, it may be, in and of itself to produce the very restraint on the due course of trade which it was intended to prevent." The law does not require, and the court has not decreed, that these subsidiary corporations shall carry on business in absolute independence one of the other; there may be "agreements between one or more" of them which will not be repugnant to the law.

Again, in the decree in the Tobacco case the court regarded it as a duty to grant the relief demanded "with as little injury as possible to the interests of the general public and a proper regard to the vast interests of private property which may have become vested in many persons." Therefore the court below was ordered to hear the parties by evidence or otherwise "for the purpose of ascertaining and determining upon some plan or method of dissolving the combination and of recreating out of the elements now composing it a new condition, which shall be honestly in harmony with and not repugnant to the law." The recreation of a new condition out of these elements certainly does not exclude but plainly connotes the possible combination of some of the elements, always, however, in a manner which will not be repugnant to the law. The enforcement of the law as it stands upon the statute book will furnish abundant guarantees against trust abuses. It would be unnecessary, it would be unreasonable, it would be contrary to the public interest, it would be a procedure [illegible] authority of law, to [illegible] upon stretching the prohibitions of the Sherman act to cover contracts and agreements which, not being in restraint of trade, are nowhere forbidden by its terms. And even litigation would be superfluous.

Would it not be just as well for Mr. ROOSEVELT and Judge GARY and other active-minded persons to wait until the Circuit Court in this district has determined upon the plan for the dissolution of the American Tobacco Company and the recreation out of its elements of new conditions in conformity with the law before proceeding to draw up new and drastic bills which, while providing for full control and regulation, shall nevertheless not "put a stop to the combinations under which business" is carried on? These gentlemen are premature. They, the people, and the representatives of the people will probably discover when the instructions of the court have been carried out, that in the laws we have we are already as fully armed against the industrial corporations as we are by the Inter-State Commerce act protected against misconduct of the railways.

WESTWARD, HO!

Gov. WILSON's return from the West leaves there an aching void, such a vacuum as politics abhors, and which it is impossible that a receptive nature like our Governor's should overlook. It is true that he cannot leave the Capitol while the Legislature remains there, but that is a mere detail. By all means let him take the Legislature with him on a voyage of discovery and conquest.

The Governor and the Legislature need not fear that they cannot be spared. The enthusiasm with which they would be missed is something inspiring to think of. We would not be so cruel as to suggest that they should go and stay until invited back, but all would be forgiven if they would only go and stay a week or two, or month or two, or, let us say, until the rapid-transit problem is settled without the assistance of Mr. CRAM. The chief reason for their going, not to put too fine a point upon it, is that they may muddle the whole matter if they meddle with it just now.

EDWARD HARRIGAN.

EDWARD HARRIGAN had long outlived the vogue of his crude but wholesome and original comic plays, founded on close observation of low life in the New York of a simpler era. In spite of the hopeful prophecies of some of the sympathetic students of the stage thirty-five years ago, no flower of enduring charm ever blossomed on the shrubs that HARRIGAN planted. Nothing in the way of a permanent and formal American drama came from those sketches, as nothing of the sort had developed from the negro minstrel farces of an earlier era, or the travesties of our city life of the "Mose" order in the still more distant days when WILLIAM MITCHELL was New York's chief jester. Mr. HOWELLS, to be sure, "discovered" HARRIGAN, after he had become one of the chief objects of theatrical interest, and proclaimed him an originator and one who pointed the way. He was the subject of many literary essays treating of the unfortunate decline of the drama and its possible uplift through a "return to nature." But EDWARD HARRIGAN took this sort of praise lightly, though cheerfully, thought well enough of himself, perhaps, but never posed as a regenerator or upbuilder.

HARRIGAN was a New York lad of Irish parentage, who became a waterside mechanic. His sense of humor, powers of observation, gift of mimicry, and musical ear carried him to the variety stage. In partnership with TONY HART, he appeared in trifling sketches at a little house in lower Broadway burdened with the formidable title of Theatre Comique. The germs of the later plays, "Pete," "The Leather Patch," and "Old Lavender," were in some of their earliest pieces. Then HARRIGAN and HART became the managers of the house, and HARRIGAN's Rougon-Macquart, the Mulligan family, came into existence. Daniel Mulligan was the landlord of Mulligan Alley, on the lower east side; Cordelia his ambitious wife, Tommy his buoyant son, and Rebecca Allup his colored maid of all work. Daniel's chum was Walsingham McSweeney, a nervous, amiable, inarticulate Irishman, and one of his tenants was Lochmuller, a German butcher, while Rebecca's influence associated the family, more or less disastrously, with Palestine Puter, a darky clergyman, and members of his flock, including always one incorrigible and vociferous darky.

One may still enjoy in remembrance these noisy Mulligan plays, in which HARRIGAN, HART, ANNIE YEAMANS, BRADLEY, HARRY FISHER, WILLIAM GRAY, and JOHN WILD were concerned year after year, and in which the social strife of the east side, when the only racial question involved the Irish and the Negroes, with the Germans preserving strict neutrality, was aptly caricatured.

When he removed to more eligible theatres uptown, HARRIGAN divided his plays into acts, and gave them more form. But "Cordelia's Aspirations" and "Dan's Tribulations" were but revised versions of cruder pieces, while "Squatter Sovereignty" and "The Major" were of the same quality, and in his quarter century of prominence HARRIGAN did nothing better than this. Nothing better could reasonably be expected. "McAllister's Legacy," "Wad[illegible]," and "Reilly and the 400" were full of Mulligan echoes. His last effort as a dramatist, we believe, was made fifteen years ago. The times had changed. The east side Negro and Hibernian, even the sentimentally delineated "Dago" of some of his later plays, had given place to Russian Jews, Chinamen, Armenians, and Lithuanians. The Half Moons had become respectable, the Mulligan Guards disbanded, and the Negroes no longer conspired to keep the Irish from riding in the street cars.

As an actor EDWARD HARRIGAN had abundant skill within his limited range. In Negro, Irish, and Italian characters he was equally efficient, his singing voice was satisfactory, and the numberless songs he wrote to the music of DAVID BRAHAM, whose share in the Harrigan triumphs was considerable, are well remembered. He wrote dialogue with an inherent sense of dramatic values, but he tended to prolixity toward the end. In the last ten years he has frequently acted in the plays of other dramatists. He was a man of kindly nature, well informed, and thrifty, and he will be remembered as one who served his era well, and helped to lighten the cares of life.

ANOTHER INCOME TAX.

Chairman LEVY intimates that he will introduce another income tax resolution. There can hardly be too many, and it is sure that none can be worse than the one now pending. It is difficult to say just what sort of income tax the Chairman may evolve, but it is easy to make suggestions. He might make sure that the one approved by New York must be such an ideal tax as the income-taxers contend that the pending one might be if all went well. That is leaving too much to chance, and the Chairman could do worse than draft and propose a bill embodying Prof. SELIGMAN's ideas, which by some mischance are missing from the bill which he so ably supports.

It is difficult to be really enthusiastic about an income tax to be divided with the Federal Government. An income tax on incomes "from whatever source derived" would be objectionable under these conditions, but if the tax were collected wholly by and for New York State the popularity of the proposer would surpass his wildest ambitions. The corporation income tax affords another hint. The Chairman might propose a special excise tax with respect to doing business by persons, thus rounding out our franchise tax for corporations. The phrase "from whatever source derived" would be matched, of course, by a phrase providing that the excise tax in respect to doing business should embrace all trades, professions, and employments and activities from which anybody makes any money whatever. The collections would be something immense, and the unpopularity of such a measure among wealthy malefactors would redound to the immeasurable popularity of whoever should see it first and "beat" the Governor to it. Of course the money is not needed for old-fashioned objects of taxation, the State already having more money than is good for it, its bank accounts being now around twenty millions or so. The modern rationale of taxation is to worry taxpayers and to stop the making of money. In this aspect the excise tax in respect to making profits in any manner whatever beats all others. Let Chairman LEVY think it over. Let him introduce any sort of income tax he likes, but he will find it hard to surpass this "sure winner," which leaves the excise tax on the doing of corporate business standing at the post.

THE CHIEF MAGISTRATES.

While the Legislature was listening to and applauding the objections to the recall of Judges made by United States Senator O'GORMAN, it was promoting toward final passage Senator BLACK's bill No. 902, which would subject the Chief Magistrates of Greater New York to recall by the Mayor at any time, and without reason assigned.

It were better that more officers, now elective, should be appointed by the Chief Executives of cities and States, and that, for administrative efficiency, some of them should be subject to recall by their appointers. The Chief Magistrates are now legally appointed by the Mayor, who is thus made responsible for their appointment. But the Page Commission, which studied thoroughly the inferior courts of this city before framing the act of 1910, purposely protected the Magistrates and their Chiefs from removal excepting on charges duly preferred, and a hearing granted upon the charges. In the case of Judges we have never heard of a valid reason against this measure of protection. To confer the power of immediate removal would give the Executive complete control over the judicial branch; such a measure is vicious in principle. It is particularly objectionable at this time, when we have two efficient Chief City Magistrates, Judges MCADOO and KEMPNER, who have helped bring about the reform of the Magistrates' courts. The sponsors of this bill should explain their motives.

THE CANAL TERMINALS BILL.

The Ramsperger-Manley bill providing for the construction of barge canal terminals is nothing if not stiff in its requirements. The Hon. EDWARD J. MCGOLDRICK, Assistant Corporation Counsel of this city, is right when he says it lacks proper elasticity in attempting to settle arbitrarily by statute the depth of an excavation, the length and width of piers, and the angle at which they shall be built, the kind, quality, and size of storehouses to be constructed, and details of equipment for use for all time. These are matters for engineers to pass upon, according to present and future necessities of development. Yet the sponsors of this bill want the State to squander nineteen millions for canal terminals and facilities according to rigid terms in sixteen cities along the line of the barge canal system from Buffalo to Albany, and at thirteen points scattered from Dyckman Street along the river front of Manhattan to Jamaica Bay. How can the Legislature know, or the people of this State to whom the bond issue would be submitted at the general election next Fall, that, at Pier 6 on the East River canal basin, "a concrete steel shed, at least 400 feet long and 80 feet wide, and a power-operated traveling crane," should be installed?

The bill is invasive. It calmly appropriates docks belonging to this city, ignoring the fact that the city is represented by a fiscal body, called the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and by the Board of Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, the members of which, with the Commissioner of Docks, control its water front. True, its up-State sponsors are willing to make it clear that the final decision of the Canal Board shall depend upon an agreement with its authorities for the selection of canal terminals in this city. But more than this is necessary. The bill would have to repeal Section 71 of the Charter, which says something about the inalienable rights of the city to its properties. Here it is:

> The rights of the city in and to its water front, ferries, wharf property, land under water, public landings, wharves, docks, streets, avenues, parks, and all other public places, are hereby declared to be inalienable.

There is yet another trifling difficulty. These piers, which the bill would give to the State with their rentals "forever," yield a revenue to this city. The State's appropriation of a single pier, No. 29, at the foot of Vestry Street, would mean a loss to the city on a capital investment of one million dollars. The money could not be better invested elsewhere. Besides, Section 211 of the Charter declares that a contract exists between this city and the holders of its securities, pledging that the funds and revenues for the Sinking Fund shall not be diverted. Section 212 enacts that the Sinking Fund shall not be alienated or impaired and the "bonds and stocks so secured by law are hereby declared to constitute a preferred charge on the said Sinking Fund." Moreover, by the Debt-Limit law of 1910 the bonds on docks are excluded from the debt-borrowing computations of this city, and, if they are impaired, the improvement of water-front facilities is by so much retarded.

The State must have ample terminal facilities for traffic on its barge canal system. They will hardly be secured by the provisions of the Ramsperger-Manley bill.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

It's the Army That He Is Endangering. It is the army itself, even more than Col. GARRARD, that has much reason, and is likely soon to have more, to regret the indorsement which that injudicious officer wrote on young BLOOM's application for advancement to a commissioned grade.

The Colonel's private opinion of Jews or tailors, or the members of any other races or trades, is a matter of very little consequence to anybody except himself, and to him only, as the revelation that his opinions are mere prejudices may cost him the respect of men broader minded and more intelligent. But the Colonel assumed to speak for the army, to describe social conditions as they exist in it, and until his right so to speak and the accuracy of his description are repudiated and denied by other army officers with some such indignant emphasis as was shown by President TAFT in making like repudiation and denial in behalf of American society as a whole, the army will suffer seriously in public esteem.

And that it cannot afford to do, needlessly. Perhaps our army is not aware of the fact, but it, like all other armies, is already on the defensive as an institution whose reason for being is open to question. Its past services are not underestimated, its courage and patriotism are not doubted, and yet there is a steadily growing tendency to regard it as something out of date—as little better than a vestigial organ in the body politic, and, like all such organs in the body physical, rather withdrawn from the circulatory system and prone to dangerous degenerative changes. The army is a caste, and we do not approve of castes, and the civilian, after recognizing through all other ages the soldier as a superior, has now begun to make inquiries as to the basis of the superiority and to wonder if this most highly paid of all servants will hereafter be worth anything like what he has previously cost.

Such being the situation, it is unwise for the professional fighting man unnecessarily to call attention to the fact that he is an anachronism in more ways than one—to the fact that he judges men by other standards than those of personal worth and ability. This is what Col. GARRARD did, and in doing it he proved himself not so much un-American as uncivilized. The soldier, after all, is only a policeman in Government instead of municipal employ, and in these days it behooves him to be more than a bit careful where he draws social or other lines against his employers.

Seeking an Excuse for What? Nothing has yet been heard by the public as to why Gov. DIX deemed it necessary to send down here from the shores of Lake Ontario a layman to find out and report to him whether Dr. DOTY has performed well or ill his duties as Health Officer of this port. He chose to call this remarkable quest an "investigation," which in the circumstances is a rather offensive term, but he did not choose to tell us what facts or suspicions, if any, had been brought before him to indicate that inquiry might develop reason for taking Dr. DOTY's place away from him and giving it to somebody else.

In charity one would like to believe that the Governor, finding himself subjected to heavy pressure from office-hungry politicians, had sent his man down here to provide him with arguments for reappointing Dr. DOTY so valid that even they would be silenced. Earlier in the Governor's administration this theory would have been more plausible than it is now. At present one can more readily hope than believe the theory to be correct, and to hope so is not at all easy, since we have just seen the Governor ignore the report of his own special Commissioner in another case of much the same sort, and, acting against the advice he had taken the trouble to get, put in the place of a competent man one whose competency, to say the very best of it, is still to be demonstrated.

The two cases differ in this, that while, at one time or another, we have all criticised the members of the Public Service Commission, no word of doubt either as to the character or the efficiency of Dr. DOTY has ever been spoken, and apparently the only accusation that anybody can bring against him is that he has served the city and the country not only well but long. Few dare, nowadays, to call that a crime, or even a cause for removal.

The New York Medical Record, viewing this curious state of affairs from the professional standpoint, says that it would be discouraging if it were not ludicrous. It would not have complained, or at least would not have complained so much, it says, had the "investigation" of "this most satisfactory and competent of Health Officers" been intrusted to a sanitarian, but the delegation of such work to a layman it considers no less absurd than outrageous. The conclusion of its remarks may possibly appeal to Gov. DIX:

> Every one knows why there is a Democratic Governor in New York to-day, and one need not be much of a prophet to foresee that a few political crimes, such as displacing Dr. DOTY would be, will result in an eager seizing, at the next election, of the alternative which was rejected last November.

The Maine Again In Sight. Some weeks ago there came from Havana reports to the effect that conclusive proof of the destruction of the Maine by an inside explosion had been found. As nothing whatever bearing on that point had then been discovered, one can only say that it would be interesting to know the source of this report.

A few days ago it was announced that the caisson built around the wreck had broken down, or in, owing to the incompetency of its constructors, and that the work would have to be done all over again. As the caisson is now standing up bravely under the pressure by the pumping out of the water within, this yarn, too, can safely be dismissed as probably based on something else than fact.

Before long the Maine will be wholly uncovered and then we shall know more about—well, about her present condition. We may also know something more about how she came to sink. We are pretty well informed as to that already, however, for she was carefully and competently examined soon after the explosion occurred, and any additional information to be secured after an immersion of thirteen years in the most corrosive kind of tropic water will need skillful testing before it is made the basis of anybody's "I told you so!"

The one thing that the raising of the Maine will demonstrate beyond all question is that the Government wasn't afraid to raise her. That is something—it will at least give pain to birds of the sort that delight in soiling their own nests.

OHIO'S "TAX FERRET" SYSTEM.

Doesn't Believe Harmon's Record Is Progressive In This Respect.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a dispatch from Columbus, printed in your columns yesterday, Gov. Harmon is credited with having made "a complete reformation of tax laws that will compel corporations and owners of intangible property that have been dodging taxes to place their holdings on the duplicate the same as small property owners." What has really happened is, that the old "tax ferret" system, once in vogue in Ohio and a few years ago declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of that State, is, as far as practicable, being revived through increasing the inquisitorial powers of the State Tax Commission.

Ohio has, for many years enjoyed the reputation of having the most drastic laws for attempting to assess personal property, under the general property tax system, which is being abandoned by all progressive States. Gov. Harmon's attitude toward this system is distinctly reactionary. For illustration, he voted a section of a bill which provided that the State Tax Commission should not have the power to obtain from banks a list of their depositors. He also vetoed a bill which provided that hereafter money on deposit in banks should be classed as a credit, and, in his veto message, makes the curious statement that "a check is everywhere the equivalent of money and involves no element of credit." The Ohio law allows debts to be offset only against credits, and the purpose of this proposed change was to avoid both double taxation and the useless drain upon bank deposits around assessment day.

By contrast with Gov. Harmon's tax measures, the States of Iowa and Minnesota have, this year, adopted a flat tax upon moneys and credits at a low rate, and Michigan has adopted the recording tax plan from this State. In the State of Washington, by ruling of the Attorney General, (and in some other States,) bank deposits are held to be credits. These contrasting facts indicate that the headline to your news item "Harmon's Record as a Progressive" is scarcely justified by the recent tax legislation in Ohio. A. C. PLEYDELL.

THE WORD "REASONABLE"

Should Have Appeared In Place of "Unreasonable" In Tobacco Decision.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just received a letter which was written to me on Saturday, June 3, by the Deputy Clerk of the Supreme Court of the United States, stating that on that day Chief Justice White had directed his opinion in the American Tobacco case to be corrected by changing the word "unreasonable" to "reasonable" in line 6 of page 27 of that opinion, as printed and distributed by the Clerk of the Supreme Court. All the New York newspapers of May 30 printed that opinion with the word "unreasonable" in that place, as of course they were bound to do at that time. But as soon as I read the opinion, it seemed to me that the Chief Justice must have meant to use the word "reasonable" instead of "unreasonable" in that place, and therefore, through the Deputy Clerk of the Supreme Court, I called the attention of the Chief Justice to the point, with the result that he has directed the opinion to be changed by substituting the word "reasonable" for "unreasonable" in that sentence.

This change is an important one, because it makes the opinion of the Chief Justice in the Tobacco case put a very different construction on the opinion in the Standard Oil case from that which was put upon it by people generally when they read that opinion. As the opinion in the Tobacco case now stands corrected, the Chief Justice states therein that acts which the statute prohibits cannot be removed from the control of its prohibitions by finding that they were "reasonable."

Asks About Rhododendrons.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read "Experience's" letter on rhododendrons. On my place on Long Island I have a very beautiful rhododendron of the variety growing in shape like a large bouquet. I am anxious to get some plants from it and would be very thankful to "Experience" if he would, through your paper, tell me how and when to make these cuttings, and where or in what kind of soil to plant them.

NEW EXCLUSION CASE.

Immigrants May Be Shut Out If Bound for "a Congested Section."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was shocked last week at Ellis Island by what seems an outrage to our immigrant humanity deserving general notice.

Giuseppe Pissaro sailed from Naples a month since, intending to work here in America, as he had done for three years some time previously. He arrived with but $24 in his pocket, but with plenty of strength to work, and such experience of conditions here as might well help him to find it. He was ordered deported on the ground that, wishing, as he did, to reside in Brooklyn, described by the Board of Inquiry which examined him as "a congested section, where there is no demand for immigrant labor," he was liable to become a public charge. Thereon his half brother appeared to testify that he was himself a citizen and Park employe, and had means wherewith to maintain the said Pissaro in case of emergency, but the board held firmly to its conviction and reaffirmed its decision. An appeal was then made to Commissioner Williams and evidence supplied that immigrant labor still has a chance in Brooklyn, and as a result, both of the Commissioner's recommendation and the action of the Washington authorities, Pissaro was admitted. The board was, however, officially sustained in its power to make such rulings.

The result in this individual case would give greater assurance did not the incident disclose the peril under which scores and hundreds of honest, hearty, and able immigrants enter the Ellis Island station, for surely the gravest danger of personal injustice to hosts of them lies in the assumption by the Board of Inquiry of its power to determine, first, the extent of labor congestion in a special area; second, the degree to which such congestion renders the immigrant liable to become a public charge, and, third, to order his deportation outright because of a liability so incurred.

Such deportation is the denial of the privilege of opportunity. It is the assertion that because of economic conditions in a specific area the probability of self-maintenance by a wholly competent person does not exist. Is that a condition to which Brooklyn, or, perhaps, Newark or our own east side or any other known section is now reduced? The order to deport is denial of domicile anywhere in these United States. It may result from a difference of opinion between the board and the immigrant as to the immigrant's ability to maintain himself in a section indicated by him, while, within a week or an hour after effecting residence in such section, he may select another locality in which to live and toil. As a matter of fact, probably one-third of the immigrants now landing locate temporarily hereabouts, to change their place of residence so soon as more work and better wages are offered elsewhere. The question, therefore, is whether the fact that in some specific section work is scarce should indicate an immigrant's liability to become a public charge and be a mandatory cause for his exclusion.

INTERBOROUGH'S PERIL.

Queries Whether Brooklyn Company's Offer Is Not Confiscatory.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a reprint from The Real Estate Record and Guide, which appeared on your editorial page this morning, your readers were informed that "in case the Brooklyn Rapid Transit gets all it asks the situation (to the Interborough) would seem to be precarious."

This is stating the case mildly. Will THE TIMES be good enough to explain what will become of the $53,000,000 the city has already invested in subways if the present scheme of guaranteeing a 5 per cent. dividend on Brooklyn Rapid Transit stock, and then furnishing that company the capital to build roads paralleling the present Subway, goes through?

What kind of a business management is it that finances one successful business enterprise and then furnishes the money to finance a confiscatory opposition, to destroy the earning power of the first?

Do the rules of sane business management apply to city funds or are the people of New York to be eternally plucked to make a traction holiday for those who have invested in the stock of the Brooklyn street railway?

These are only a few questions that occurred to me after reading the thoughtful article quoted in your columns from a paper that has an acknowledged standing in real estate and investment circles. INQUIRER.

Boot and Shoe Investigation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES in its issue of June 1 says editorially that, following the recent court decisions against the Standard Oil and Tobacco monopolies, suits are to be decided in cases "affecting dealers in meat, groceries, sugar, butter, eggs, and milk, raw cotton, woolens, and boots and shoes, lumber and bathtubs, coal, electric appliances, and paving brick." The article further states specific cases against dealers in a number of these commodities, but I notice that it does not specifically mention cases against any dealers in boots and shoes.

May I direct attention to the fact that the including of boots and shoes in the list may give rise to error? The boot and shoe business is now being investigated by Congress, but the Department of Justice has as yet instituted no suits against shoe manufacturers or dealers. There have been accusations in public print against the manufacturers of some of the machinery that is used in the making of shoes, but just to the extent that such accusations be true, (if they are true,) by so much is the shoe manufacturer or the shoe dealer a victim instead of an oppressor, and the differentiation should be carefully maintained. "Imported" Home-Bred Dogs.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When it comes to taxing our returning home-bred dogs as "importations" this custom tariff business reaches the bending point, if not the breaking point. As Artemus Ward would say, it is "2 mutch!"

I am not a dog owner myself, but as a free-born American possessed of an average degree of common sense I am "sick to death" of this niggardly policy of imposition born of an unrighteous system of "protection." The long years of political discrimination in favor of special interests have brought about this miserable infliction.

I call upon the Congress that I helped to put where it is to "speed the parting guest" and open the doors of the country in decent hospitableness to the substitute we should all welcome—reciprocity!

The Sprawlers in the Parks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your article, "Loafers in the Parks," is well timed, and the Park Department should give attention to it. A few days ago I walked through Battery Park and found that the "lazzaroni" of the slums were sprawled out in most ungraceful attitudes on what were once attractive and well kept lawns, for which the city had paid large sums, destroying the beauty of the park completely.

RAIN HASN'T HELPED WATER SUPPLY MUCH

But Weather Man and Water Commissioner Say It Will Reach Reservoirs if It Continues.

ALL IN DRY GROUND NOW

The Hope Is That Rain Will Fall Faster When It Comes Again, So That Watershed May Be Fed.

Some relief, but not a great deal, will result from the rainfall of the last two days, according to Water Commissioner Thompson and Forecaster Scarr of the local Weather Bureau. Commissioner Thompson is more optimistic than Mr. Scarr, but even he does not believe the rain will do much more than satisfy the "thirst" of the earth and its vegetation.

The Water Commissioner is very hopeful of a much larger run-off for the watershed if the rains continue, even if the precipitation is no greater than it has been and no more periodic, the latter being considered next in importance in effecting a run-off to the quantity of rain. To this Mr. Scarr adds that showers are looked for again to-day.

Mr. Scarr says that up to noon yesterday the rainfall for forty-eight hours on the Croton watershed, an area of 360 square miles, from which the series of Croton reservoirs are supplied, has been .78 of an inch, of which .52 has fallen since 8 o'clock yesterday morning. The entire territory covered in the rainfall extends beyond Albany on the north and beyond Providence, R. I., on the east. The fact is, Mr. Scarr says, Albany has had more rain than either this city or the watershed, 1.10 inches having fallen there in the twenty-four hours ended at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. Altogether, Mr. Scarr says, .76 of an inch has fallen on the watershed since June 1.

"If this period of precipitation," observes the official forecaster "had been compressed to within an hour or so the water supply for this city would have been greatly improved, without a doubt, because the run-off would have been far larger than it has been. The land surface had become very dry when these light rains came on, and vegetation was almost parched. The rain came down gently, and was almost immediately absorbed by the dry earth, utilized by vegetation, or evaporated into the air again. In this manner the run-off was almost nothing, and certainly no water soaked further into the ground than a few feet, so that the underground streams which supply the springs, which in turn supply the brooks, received absolutely no influx. Consequently, the reservoirs received no more water than actually fell on their surfaces."

Both Mr. Scarr and Commissioner Thompson agreed that the latter amount was almost negligible.

Mr. Scarr said that the chief hope this city had of getting immediate benefit from rainfall was in what farmers call "gully washers" and city men "cats and dogs." During such rains the water runs off almost as fast as it falls, he explained, the larger percentage going into the streams at once, rather than soaking in to reach the brooks months later by means of the underground sluices and hillside springs. If an inch of rain fell in two hours it is estimated that 6,257,281,600 gallons gross would be available for swelling the streams in the watershed and increasing the supply of the reservoirs. Perhaps half or even more of this quantity would find its way into the streams feeding the reservoirs if it came in a downpour. Now, only about three-fourths of an inch has fallen at this time, and almost the entire amount, or about 4,682,961,200 gallons, has been absorbed by the earth or vegetation.

Mr. Scarr made it plain that the city has little to hope for from gentle rains, but on the other hand if all June's normal rainfall of 3.26 inches came in one day the watershed streams would be swollen immediately and the threatening situation relieved at once. June, July, and August may help the situation somewhat, Mr. Scarr thinks, since last June had 5.10 inches of rainfall, or considerably more than the average. Commissioner Thompson thought better of yesterday's rain than did Mr. Scarr.

"I think there will be some run-off," he said, "improving the outlook somewhat."

Commissioner Thompson denied that he had said at first that conditions were alarming, and then that they were not. He has maintained consistently all along, he said, that conditions were serious, and that it was highly important that consumers should conserve the water supply in every way practicable.

New York's Central's Noise.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is it not possible to bring sufficient pressure of public opinion upon the management of the New York Central Road to prevent the noise made by its engines and trains in the neighborhood of Seventy-ninth Street and Riverside Drive? One of the most beautiful and attractive sections of the city is at times made most objectionable by this nuisance of noise, and coal gas. Why should not the Central Road be compelled to use electric motors above Thirtieth Street, as well as above Forty-second Street? RESIDENT.

Hot Water Supplies.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to your editorial article, "That Water Famine," I beg leave to suggest that a great saving daily can be made by compelling the installation in all apartment and tenement buildings of this city of efficient, instantaneous hot water supply systems, so that the occupants may have some warm and occasionally a little hot water without having to waste perhaps ten times the quantity needed in order to empty the pipes of the cold water with which they are filled. A SONG YET TO BE SUNG.

O poet of the golden throat,
And the tender, pulsing human note,
Make a song for me—
A song of the purple prairies free!
Say how the sun peeps o'er the rim
Of the silent brown, his eyes a-brim
With new joy, his jocund hands
Pouring the light of a thousand lands,
  A King's largess!
How the purple ripples to meet the sky—
How it foams and eddies, now low, now high,
And stretches away, away, away!
O heart of the prairies, regal and May,
Boundless, infinite, stretching away,
  Away, away, away!
O heart of the prairies, royal and June,
You pulse full, free, to the beautiful tune
  Of your own wild life!
Oh poet, sing that song for me—
The song of the purple prairies free!

O poet of the words of gold,
And the noble singing, true and bold,
Sing this song for me—
The song of the purple prairies free!
Sing of the rose-gray mists that rise
And melt to blue soft as Summer skies—
Melt to lavender, hyacinth pale,
Sweeping it all like a bridal veil—
  A King's gift-lace!
How it gathers to darkness, rich and warm;
How it deeps to dark and the thunder-storm,
And stretches away, away, away!
Changing alway, that wondrous rose-gray—
Coquetting, evanishing, melting away—
  Away, away, away!
Dear poet, sing this song for me,
Whose words are no longer golden and free;
  I'll give you my heart—
See, it's here in my hand—
For an adequate song of my prairie land!

BACHELOR FAREWELL ON YACHT AT SEA

James Childs Rea Gives Dinner to Best Man and Ushers on the Corona.

ON A THREE DAYS' CRUISE

Miss Julia P. Dodge, Bride-to-be, Entertains Her Bridal Attendants at Country Home, Maum-ke-ag.

James Childs Rea, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Holdship Rea, a member of an old and wealthy Pittsburg family, who is to marry Miss Julia Parish Dodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland H. Dodge of this city, to-morrow afternoon at Riverdale-on-Hudson, gave his farewell bachelor dinner last night aboard Mr. Dodge's yacht at sea.

Mr. Rea, with his best man and ushers, left Staten Island on the Corona, which is the name of the yacht, on Monday, for a three days' cruise. They planned to sail around Fire Island and along the Jersey Coast, returning to port to-day.

The location of the yacht was not known last evening, but ample preparations had been made for the bachelor dinner before sailing, and it was scheduled to take place around 8 o'clock last night somewhere on the briny deep, about the time that Miss Dodge entertained her bridal attendants at dinner on dry land. The bride-elect gave her dinner last night at Maum-ke-ag, the country home of her parents at Riverdale.

Mr. Rea's bachelor dinner at sea is a unique event among the many bachelor dinners given during the past season. The farewell dinners have invariably been given at one of the fashionable restaurants or hotels on Fifth Avenue, at which a colored minstrel band generally enlivened the occasion. This is, perhaps, the first time that a bachelor dinner has been given aboard a yacht at sea.

Among those on board with Mr. Rea are Arthur T. Scully of Pittsburg, who is to be his best man, and his ushers, who are Dr. Joseph W. Cook of Philadelphia, Cleveland E. and Bayard Dodge, brothers of the bride; Joseph H. Holmes and H. Hughart Laughlin of Pittsburg, W. Milton McCoy of Orange, N. J.; Robert P. Molten, Jr., of Annapolis Navy Academy, and Isaac W. Roberts of Philadelphia.

At Miss Dodge's dinner last night was her sister, Miss Elizabeth W. Dodge, who is to be her maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Sybil Belgrave, Mrs. Dodge's cousin, from England; Miss Elizabeth Emmons of Newport, a cousin of the bride; Miss Dorothy Freeman of Riverdale, Miss Agnes Landon, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hutton Landon; Miss Dorothy Perkins, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Perkins of New York and Riverdale, and Miss Marianne Howe Rea of Pittsburg, a sister of the bridegroom.

The ceremony to-morrow will take place in the Riverdale Presbyterian Church at 3:30, and will be followed by a reception at Maum-ke-ag.

BROOKLYN CHURCH ROMANCE

Sister Louise Walker of St. Ann's to Marry Rev. Frank Wilson, Former Curate.

The people of St. Ann's Protestant Episcopal Church on Brooklyn Heights have learned with surprise that Sister Louise Walker, who is called the "Angel of St. Ann's," is soon to go to Chicago as a bride. She is to wed the Rev. Frank Wilson, who was formerly curate of St. Ann's and is now rector of a church in Chicago.

Sister Louise is a member of a sisterhood of the Anglican Church. She came here from England about three years ago, and became one of the staff of religious workers of St. Ann's Church. She followed this work with the curate. On Sunday, when the Rev. Mr. Wilson preached at St. Ann's, it became known that Sister Louise and the former curate of the church were engaged, and that the wedding would soon take place.

ASTOR ROOF GARDEN OPENS.

Even the Cool Weather Could Not Keep Evening Diners Away.

The opening of the Hotel Astor Roof Garden and Belvedere Restaurant last night was attended by a representative gathering of New Yorkers, who dined and supped there in spite of the cool weather. Manager Schneider said that as the date for the opening had been fixed for last night, and tables had been reserved, he could not postpone the opening.

The roof garden now has a grotto with an illuminated waterfall on a miniature scale after the falls of the Rhine at Schaffhausen and banks of scarlet geraniums and rambler roses with a bed of variegated flowers representing the American eagle.

In the centre of the dome of the Belvedere Restaurant a model of the airship Zeppelin IV. was suspended with its propeller driven by a miniature electric motor going at full speed, and the two rows of cabins lit up with tiny electric bulbs.

Among those who gave dinner parties were Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador to the United States; A. S. Clark, J. C. Gray, Jr., Louis Keller, W. M. Howe, R. H. Hutton, John D. Sawyer, Harry S. Hart, George Ehret, Jr., Robert C. Miller, L. Gardiner, F. A. Houseman, and P. N. Ream.

New Attraction for Winter Garden.

The present Winter Garden entertainment, including "La Belle Paree," will end its season next Sunday night, and the principals of the company will take a Summer vacation. They will all return early in the Fall, with a new revue and new specialties. This does not mean that the playhouse will be closed, however, for the management announced last night that an entirely new attraction would come on Wednesday of next week, for a Summer run. The last Sunday night concert at the Winter Garden will be given next Sunday night.

NEW ENSIGN WEDS ACTRESS.

John Borland Marries Miss Erminie Clark on Day of His Promotion.

John Borland, who was graduated from the Naval Academy at Annapolis two years ago and has since been detailed to the battleship Michigan, won promotion and a bride on Monday, and is now receiving the congratulations of his friends in the navy.

His promotion was to the grade of Ensign. His bride was Miss Erminie Marie Clark, who until very recently was a member of the cast of "The Pink Lady," which is now appearing at one of the local theatres. Miss Clark is 20 years old and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Clark of 49 West Sixty-third Street. Prior to her appearance in "The Pink Lady" Miss Clark was in the cast of "Girlies" and "Havana."

Ensign Borland is 23 years old and the son of Mrs. John Borland of this city and Newport. She and her two daughters, the Misses Ella and Maud Borland, are now in Europe, and it was reported yesterday that Ensign Borland and his bride will sail soon to join Mr. Borland's family there.

Mr. Borland was a midshipman when he met Miss Clark in March last. He was on a leave of absence at that time. In April the battleship Michigan anchored in the Hudson, and Midshipman Borland had a chance to spend much of his time with Miss Clark. They would have been married near the end of April had it not been for the fact that the Navy Department frowns upon the marriages of midshipmen.

But in preparation for the expected promotion Midshipman Borland and Miss Clark went to the City Hall and obtained a license. Mr. Borland gave his occupation as sailor and his home address as New Hamburg, N. Y. Both occupation and address were true enough, even if they were a trifle misleading, for the Borland family has a country place at New Hamburg and all naval men are sailors, in a way.

The marriage license was carefully laid away to await the coming of the Ensign's commission. It came in due time, and the marriage was ony a few hours behind its arrival.

The city home of the Borlands is at 471 Park Avenue.

The best man was Pompeo Maresi of Brooklyn and the ushers were Frank Cunningham, Waring Dawbarn, and Arthur Alexander of New York, Elmer Barchfeld of Pittsburg, Xavier Bensinger of Summit, and Richard Medina, brother of the bridegroom.

EDWARD HARRIGAN, OLD COMEDIAN, DEAD

Irish Singer, Dancer, and Playwright, Popular Years Ago, Dies at His Home.

TONY HART HIS PARTNER

Team Produced "Mulligan Guards," "Old Lavender," and Kindred Plays at Theatre Comique.

Edward Harrigan, one of the most famous of New York's old-time entertainers—actor, singer, dancer, playwright, song writer, and manager—whose "Mulligan Guards" and many other sketches portraying Irish wit and humorous twists of human nature caused more laughter perhaps than most stage successes of the modern day, died yesterday after a two years' illness at his home, 249 West 102d Street. Heart disease was the cause of Mr. Harrigan's death. At his bedside were Mrs. Harrigan and their six children when the end came.

Afterward, when news of the old-time comedian's death went out among the stage folk of the past generation, the Harrigan home was swamped with messages of condolence and the door bell kept ringing until late at night, as one by one Mr. Harrigan's friends of the stage called to express regret at his death and to offer their services to his family. Seldom has the death of an actor caused such sorrow among the people of the stage, for Ned Harrigan was loved by thousands, and there were no jealousies to mar their friendships.

Believed He Had Been Forgotten.

Although quite ill for several months, Mr. Harrigan did not lose possession of his faculties. Even in the last days of his illness he took a keen interest in the stage. But he died believing that he had been forgotten—not by his old friends of the stage, but by the fickle public. Only on Sunday night Mr. Harrigan told his old friend, Mrs. Annie Yeamans, that his one sorrow was forgetfulness of the theatregoers. Mrs. Yeamans, who played with Mr. Harrigan in many of his successes years ago, was a frequent visitor at the Harrigan home. Every week when she was in town she would "drop around" to see "Ned" Harrigan and his family.

"Annie, it's sad the way the old timers are forgotten," said Mr. Harrigan on Sunday. "Here I am, only 65 years old, and forgotten already."

"Oh, no, Ned, you are mistaken," replied Mrs. Yeamans. "They have not forgotten you, and never will. Why, they haven't forgotten me, and I'm 75 years old."

Mrs. Yeamans said yesterday she had never known a harder worker than "Ned" Harrigan.

"I first appeared with him way back in 1872, under Josh Hart's management," she said. "It was in 'The Slave of the Harp.' Later, in 1877, and for many years afterward I was with Harrigan & Hart at the old Theatre Comique in the 'Mulligan' series and other plays. In one of his later plays, 'The Investigation,' I played Juliet to his Romeo in the balcony scene. He always used to insist on playing Romeo—an Irish Romeo. His sword always used to get tangled between his legs and he used to get excited—my! how excited he used to get. He would forget his lines and yell for them to the prompter.

"Ned Harrigan was never spoiled by success. He never rode in a coach, as did his partner, Tony Hart. The street cars were good enough for Ned. And his family is whole-souled, every one of them, just like Ned. I felt like crying when I learned to-day of his death. Why, I have always been like one of the family. Every Christmas we used to celebrate at Ned's home, and on the birthday anniversaries of the children. Ned Harrigan was one of the best. It would be a better world if all men were like him."

Mr. Harrigan went out little during the last two years. Last Summer he spent at Long Beach. Early yesterday morning Mr. Harrigan's wife and children realized that the end was approaching.

Mr. Harrigan's son, Dr. Anthony Hart Harrigan, attended him in his last illness. His other surviving children are Mrs. Lewis Laughlan of Germantown, Penn.; William Harrigan, an actor with Belasco; Philip, Nolan and Grace Harrigan. The last three are still at school.

Edward Harrigan's Career.

Edward Harrigan, better known to New York audiences in the old days as "Ned" Harrigan, of the Harrigan and Hart team of laugh makers, was born in Scammel Street, in the old Seventh Ward, on Oct. 26, 1845. His father was a ship's carpenter and young Edward was to have been a ship's carpenter, also, had he consulted his father's wishes about the matter.

But young Edward had other ideas about his future. He was apprenticed, after a brief schooling at old Public School No. 31, in Monroe Street, but after the lad had worked a short while at building and repairing boats his father and his "boss" awoke one day to find that young Edward had vanished. He had followed the example of several of his playmates and run away from home. Following also the direction some of his playmates had taken, young Harrigan went West. And in the West he found his mission in life—that of making others laugh. He obtained a position at the Olympic Theatre, in San Francisco, and there did a song and dance turn. This was in 1867.

Prior to his engagement by the manager of the Olympic, Harrigan had been making a little money "with his voice and his feet." His success as a song and dance "artist" was assured from his first appearance on the stage in San Francisco. He soon was engaged by the management of the Bella Union, which at that time was the leading variety hall on the Pacific Coast. It was there that Lotta, Billy Birch, and Charley Backus used to do their "turns" in the old days. Harrigan was soon as great a favorite with the San Francisco theatregoing public as any of the older variety actors and actresses.

Mr. Harrigan's first partner was Alexander O'Brien, who died several years ago in Australia. His second was Sam Rickey, with whom Mr. Harrigan returned to New York and opened in "The Little Fraud" at the old Globe Theatre. The sketch was written by Harrigan. It was his first effort in that direction. "The Little Fraud" made a hit. Soon the newsboys were whistling the music. Success proved too much for Rickey. He began to neglect his work, and the partnership was dissolved.

Tony Hart Now His Partner.

At the Winter Garden in Chicago Harrigan met Tony Hart, also a clever comedian, whose specialty was comical female rôles. They entered partnership, and the firm name of Harrigan and Hart became known throughout the country as one of the cleverest teams on the stage. "The Big and Little of It" was the sketch the partners chose to make their début. They appeared here at the Globe Theatre in "The Mulcaney Twins" on Oct. 16, 1871. Shortly afterward in "The Day We Went West."

The partners also formed a road company and traveled through the country under the management of Martin Hanley in a piece called "The Doyle Brothers," which was rewritten by Harrigan. In 1877 Harrigan and Hart brought out "The Major" at the Theatre Comique here, as well as "Old Lavender." "The Mulligan Guards' Ball," written by Harrigan, proved a big hit in 1879 at the Comique. It was such a success, in fact, that Harrigan and his partner produced "The Mulligan Guards' Chowder," "The Mulligan Guards' Christmas," "The Mulligan Guards' Surprise," "Mulligan's Silver Wedding," and several other laughable sketches written around the Mulligans, all of which were successes and won for the team a standing which they never lost among the old-time theatregoers.

Tony Hart appeared with Harrigan in the entire Mulligan series. The music for the songs was written by Dave Braham, leader of the orchestra, and the words were written by Harrigan himself. Dave Braham's daughter, Annie, married Harrigan years ago. After the Mulligan Guards series, Harrigan and Hart, who had become wealthy, leased the Theatre Comique from Josh Hart, and from this time on the olios were abandoned and the theatre produced exclusively Harrigan plays. "Legaire," "My Wife's Mother," "Iscaire," "Down Broadway," and several other plays written by Harrigan were produced with more or less success.

In New Theatre Comique.

By this time Harrigan and Hart were drawing fashionable audiences, and they wanted a better theatre. The new Theatre Comique was built for them on the site of the old Globe, where they had made their first appearance here. And in the new theatre more Harrigan plays were produced—"Investigation," "The Muddy Day," "Cordelia's Aspirations," "Squatter Sovereignty," "The Blackbird," "Mordecai Lyons," and others, including "McSorley's Inflation." Mr. Harrigan's fortune was at its highest point when the theatre burned down.

"It was one of the worst nights I ever spent," he used to tell his friends, "that night the New Theatre Comique burned down. Tony Hart and I stood at the window and watched $70,000 worth of our property go. It was in December, 1884."

Mr. Harrigan kept his company together, however, and toured the country while the old Park Theatre, at Thirty-fifth Street and Broadway, was being made ready for his occupancy. It was about this time that differences arose between Harrigan and his partner, Hart, and the partnership was severed. Harrigan opened here after his road tour with "McAllister's Legacy" and followed it with "The Leather Patch." Trouble seemed to follow Mr. Harrigan, however, after the burning of his theatre. His old audiences did not come up town, and the new ones missed Tony Hart. He concluded that the Park was not a suitable house for him and gave up the lease and toured again, making a large profit. On Dec. 29, 1890, he opened his new theatre on Thirty-fifth Street, which is now the Garrick, with "Reilly and the 400." The song "Maggie Murphy" and the play itself proved a hit. The next season he produced "The Last of the Hogans," followed in 1893 by "The Woolen Stocking." "Notoriety" was also produced at his new house. In later years, prior to his illness, Mr. Harrigan appeared in répertoire of his most successful plays.

Tony Hart died many years ago.

C. H. JACKSON FOUND DEAD.

Princeton Graduate Succumbs in Colorado Mountains from Poisoning.

A dispatch from Estes Park, Col., yesterday announced the death there of Charles H. Jackson, a Princeton and Columbia law graduate and a member of a prominent family in Newark. Mr. Jackson, who was visiting at the Summer home of A. D. March, at Horseshoe Park, was found dead in the mountains about twenty-four hours after leaving Horseshoe Park in good spirits on Saturday. His death was said to be due to poisoning, and, according to his friends, was accidental.

Mr. Jackson was the son of the late Mary Nye and T. Walter Jackson and a grandson of John F. Jackson, who was once prominently connected with the Pennsylvania Railroad. The family owns the Jackson property, which includes the Four Corners and other valuable property in Newark. This is the third death in the family in the last two years. Two years ago his mother died, and seven months later Philip Nye Jackson, who was well known in Wall Street, was taken ill. He turned over his estate to the Fidelity Trust Company and went to a sanitarium, dying a month later.

Charles Huntington Jackson was born in Newark, and after his graduation from Princeton took a degree at the Columbia Law School in 1895. He practiced for a time in Jersey City, but spent most of his time traveling. He leaves four brothers, John B. Jackson, Minister to Cuba; the Rev. Frederick Jackson, instructor in the Bloomfield German Theological Seminary, and William F. and Oliver W. Jackson.

The only information received by the Jackson family at Newark concerning Mr. Jackson's death was this telegram from H. M. Balmer of Fort Collins, Col.:

> W. F. Jackson, 656 High Street, Newark, N. J.:
> Charles H. Jackson found dead here at 1 A. M. in Estes Park. Cause of death not yet determined, but my opinion is high altitude. Seemed all right when retired, but was up several times. Dead when March found him. Have body at my place. Will wire full particulars.

> H. M. BALMER.

Arrangements were made to have the body taken to Newark for burial.

Wetherby, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Lillian Bird were the bridesmaids. Miss Marion Etta Starr, the bride's niece, was the flower girl. Walter L. Hough of Mount Vernon was best man.

Miss Starr is a niece of George O. Starr, formerly of the Barnum & Bailey Show, now manager of Crystal Palace, London, and a granddaughter of Dr. Alfred Starr, one of the founders of the New York College of Dentistry.

Independence for Thirty-nine Men and Women.

Thirty-nine men and women can buy 5 acres each in the Hudson River Orchards.

They must pay $234 per acre. Not more than 5 acres will be sold to any one person. The price includes all cost of planting and care until trees are in fruit.

The Hudson River Orchards will have 12,000 apple and other trees under the care of an expert orchardist and will pay a yearly profit from small fruits and berries while the trees are coming in to bearing.

The same scientific methods will be used that have made Oregon orchards yield a profit of $1,200 per acre per year.

The soil will produce better apples than those that grow in Oregon and they can be delivered in New York for 14 cents per barrel freight. Oregon apples must pay $3.75 per barrel freight. Send for full particulars. "Apples," 243 Times.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., June 6.—With Leifield on the Pirate mound the Giants to-day swung at a phantom cork centre and McGraw's men dropped a bitterly fought and scrappy game by the score of 4 to 3. While a big part of the credit is due Leifield for the home victory, misplays behind "Bugs" Raymond and contributions from the umpires must not be overlooked in giving credit where credit is due.

Threatening weather kept down the attendance to 5,000 in the opener of the most exciting series of the year. The pitching duel between Leifield and Raymond came off as announced, and while the southpaw had a shade the better of the duel, the defeat cannot all be shouldered on Raymond. One run had been tallied off him, this in the second inning, when Wagner tripled and Miller singled, but in the fifth inning the storm broke over him when a costly wild throw to first first base by Wilson, and Murray and Snodgrass's run-in trying to capture Byrne's long smash, sent three of the enemy across the pan. The Giants suffered thereby, for not another Pirate run was scored, although the Giants came back in the sixth inning and put over their three tallies.

Simon and Leifield had singled in succession in the fifth inning when Carey laid down a little bunt in front of the plate. Wilson beat Devlin to it, but made a weird peg to first base, the ball going far over Merkle's head. Simon scored from second and Leifield and Carey were safe on third and second bases, respectively. Murray and Snodgrass both started in pursuit of Byrne's high soarer, but the misunderstanding when they rubbed noses in deep centre caused the pill to slip between them to the ground. Leifield and Carey scored, but Byrne was caught at third base on Fletcher's throw to Devlin.

In the sixth inning, when the Giants tallied, there was much excitement. After Wilson had filed out Otis Crandall made his entry into the game by batting for Raymond. He made good with a smash to the fence for three bags. This unsteadied Leifield sufficiently to cause him to walk Devore. It looked suspiciously like a double play when Fletcher tapped one down to Wagner, but the Dutchman graciously essayed a little booting and all hands were safe, Crandall romping home with the first run. Snodgrass then sent a double to the fence and Devore and Fletcher scored. Snodgrass took third on Murray's long fly to Cary, and Merkle then sent a terrific smash over third base that seemed good for two bases. But Byrne made a great stop, although his throw to first base pulled McKechnie off the bag. Merkle seemed safe, and it looked as though the tying run had been scored, but Finneran drew some decisive cheering from the anxious home crowd when he called Merkle out. A stormy session followed between McGraw and Finneran, while from the bench the entire crew of Giants sent verbal shots at Finneran. It was one of the stormiest protests made against an umpire here this season.

Leifield held McGraw's men in the palm of his left hand during the rest of the session, though they threatened a rally in the ninth inning.

The Giants had an excellent chance to score in the second inning, but Merkle's interference with a throw to catch him napping at third cut off one run. Merkle, with one down, had managed to reach the three-quarter station. He had taken a long lead toward the plate when Simon pegged to Byrne to catch him napping. Merkle hunched his shoulder, stopping the ball and causing it to roll away. It was a fluke play, but McGraw did not kick when Finneran called Merkle out for interference. The Giants' leader confined his remarks to Merkle.

The Giants' outfield played brilliantly behind Raymond save for the misunderstanding between Murray and Snodgrass when Byrne's fly dropped safely between them. This misfortune was pardonable, for the drive was a long one, and both had done some tall sprinting to get ahead of the ball.

Murray and Devore made star running catches of long drives that were ticketed for two, three, and four baggers. Crandall during his régime received splendid support from the Giants' outerworks, and it was the pinch hitter's clout that started the run-getting in the sixth inning.

CUBS DOWN BROOKLYN LEAD LEAGUE AGAIN

Throwing Out of Protested Game with Pittsburg Helps Chicago to Reach Top.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Chicago won a double victory in the National League to-day, although the Cubs played only one game, defeating Brooklyn 5 to 3. The other victory was a decision by President Lynch which directed that a game won by Pittsburg from the Cubs by 1 to 0 on May 30 must be replayed because of wrong interpretations of rules by Umpires Doyle and Klem.

The defeat of Brooklyn to-day and taking one defeat out of the record of the Cubs for the season again places them in first place for the pennant.

Chicago obtained only as many hits as Brooklyn, but they came at the right time, while Pitcher Bell's three passes aided the Cubs in their victory.

There was a rumor floating around that the Brooklyn team was to have a new manager in Tommy Leach of the Pirates, but there was no confirmation of the story from any source. The wise baseball heads could not figure out how Brooklyn could get the little Pirate outfielder away from Fred Clarke.

Bell, who hooked up with Richie on the slab, was wild as a hawk at the start. He passed Sheckard and Schulte, but Sheckard was nipped stealing. Then Bell got in the hole with Hofman up, and had to put it over, with the result that Artie dropped a single back of second. Heine Zimmerman sacrificed the pair ahead, and when Doyle shot a single into left field Schulte and Hofman scored. Doyle went all the way to third on Wheat's wide throw to the plate, but Tinker struck out.

The Brooklyns tied the score in the third inning. With Bell down, Tooley hit the ball to the farthermost corner in centre field for a home run. Daubert beat out a slow roller along the first base line for a single. Wheat hit the right field fence with a vicious line drive that was good for three bases, and Daubert scored.

In the Cubs' half Coulson, who showed some good fielding stunts in right field, backed up to the fence and pulled down Sheckard's long fly. It would have meant a double at least and another run, for Schulte, next at bat, poled a long single to right field.

To open the fifth inning Kling waited for a base on balls, and was sacrificed ahead by Richie. Sheckard slammed a two-base hit into the same spot where Coulson had robbed him before, and Kling scored. Sheckard was away to a running start and stole third on the first ball pitched. Coulson stabbed Schulte's line drive with one hand, but Sheckard scored on the catch.

The Cubs scored their fifth run in the seventh inning. Kaiser, who had not been hitting strongly in recent games, met the ball squarely and sailed it to deep right field for three bases. Kling went out to Bell, and Kaiser was held at third base, but to the great surprise of every one Richie dumped a single to right and the run came over.

It was in the ninth session that the Brooklynites scored their third and last run. Burch tripled, and the fans had a vision for the moment of something like Monday's finish when the Giants hung it on McIntyre. Coulson came along with a sacrifice fly and scored Burch, but there it ended. Eddie Zimmerman flew out to Schulte and Barger, sent in to bat for Bergen, struck out. The score:

BOTH UMPIRES ERRED.

Chicago-Pittsburg Game on Morning of May 30 Must Be Replayed.

President Thomas J. Lynch of the National League yesterday threw out the Chicago-Pittsburg game of the morning of May 30, which Chicago had protested, and ordered the game played over.

"This game," says President Lynch in his decision allowing Chicago's protest, "was won by the Pittsburg Club by 1 to 0 and protested by the Chicago Club on the grounds, first, that the field umpire called the wrong player out, and that, second, as a result of said decision a second runner was wrongly declared out by the umpire in chief.

"In the eighth inning Shean of Chicago was on first base with one out. Archer hit a fly ball to the infield, which was dropped by Wagner, and the ball was thrown to second for a force-out. With both Shean and Archer holding first base, Field Umpire Doyle called Archer out, claiming that Wagner had intentionally dropped the ball. After Doyle had told Archer he was out and had ordered him to leave the base, Manager Clarke of Pittsburg appealed to Umpire in Chief Klem that Doyle's decision was wrong, and that Shean should have been declared out instead of Archer. The appeal was allowed and Shean was declared out. Archer in the meantime, having left first base as directed, was touched with the ball and also declared out by Umpire Klem.

"A careful investigation shows that the field umpire erred in calling Archer out instead of Shean, and that Umpire in Chief Klem likewise erred in allowing the second put-out. The only decision Umpire Klem should have made under the rule on Manager Clarke's appeal was to reverse Doyle's decision and call Shean out and send Archer back to first.

"The evidence clearly shows that both umpires erred, and that by reason thereof an injustice was done the Chicago Club. The protest is allowed, and the game as played is stricken from the records and ordered to be replayed."

Torrey Wants to Play in Home Town.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Wishing to play in Aurora, Ill., the city where he first gained prominence as a high school and Prairie League star, "Bill" Torrey has applied to the New York National League Club for his release. Torrey was sick all last season, but is now anxious to return to the game. Realizing that he is not strong enough to work in the major leagues, he wants to start from the bottom once more.

Waivers Asked on Cy Young.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 6.—Waivers have been asked on Denton T. (Cy.) Young, the veteran pitcher of the Cleveland American League team. Young has not pitched a game this season on account of illness.

Dartmouth Defeats Vermont.

HANOVER, N. H., June 6.—Dartmouth hit freely while Vermont's fielders muffed the ball to-day, and the green won easily, 9 to 3. The game was played on a field soggy with rain. The score:

Batteries—Morey, Olsen, and Steen; Maldom and Donnelly. Umpire—Mr. Murphy. Time of game—Two hours and fifteen minutes.

BASEBALL NOTES.

The Columbus Club of the American Association announces the sale of Catcher Arbogast to the Omaha Club of the Western League.

A report that Tommy Leach of the Pittsburg Baseball Club has been traded to the Brooklyn National League Club is absolutely denied.

Fred Garisch, formerly catcher for the Indianapolis team, has been bought by President Armour of Toledo. Garisch will join Toledo at Milwaukee to-day.

When the New York National League team arrived in Pittsburg from Chicago yesterday it was discovered that Pitcher Raymond had disappeared en route. Greatly mystified, the members of the team went to their hotel, where they met Manager McGraw and reported the matter. While ways and means were being devised to locate Raymond, the pitcher walked into the hotel. A conference with McGraw followed, and it was learned that for the last two hours of the trip from the West Raymond had ridden in the cab with the engineer, with whom he formerly worked years ago in the railroad business.

BALLOON TRIP PARTIES.

Aero Club Arranges for Renting Aerostats to Members.

Ballooning trips promise to be popular this Summer. The Spherical Balloon Committee of the Aero Club of America has arranged to place at the disposal of the club members four aerostats, provided that a licensed pilot is in command during the trip. The four balloons range from 35,000 to 80,000 cubic feet measurement and can be rented for from $25 to $75. Several amateur licensed pilots of repute have offered to pilot these balloons, but when these are unavailable professional licensed pilots may be engaged.

It is intended to rent the balloons for special party trips, as the airships will accommodate from two to eight passengers. Including a professional, four persons can make a trip in a 50,000 cubic foot balloon for about $175, but with an amateur this amount is reduced to $131. For eight passengers the cost would be, approximately, $200.

In arranging the trips the balloons will be rented to members only, but these can make up their own parties; their guests need not be members of the club. Arrangements have been made for balloon stations at North Adams, Pittsfield, and Philadelphia, which offer excellent facilities as starting points.

Among the amateur licensed pilots are Alan R. Hawley, who won the world's balloon championship last year, and A. Holland Forbes. It is expected that many members of the club will avail themselves of the opportunities offered by the committee for indulging in a sport the pleasures and safety of which are known to comparatively few.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 6.—T. Starr King, Captain of the Naval Academy football team last season, will act as one of the coaches of the team next Fall. The others who have been named are Ensign Douglas L. Howard, chief coach; Ensign Jonas H. Ingram, assistant, and Frank Wheaton, Yale, field coach. All of the coaches are young and active men who could get in the game themselves at any time to help develop the middies.

Insurrectos Shoot at Pathfinder.

YUMA, Arizona, June 6.—As the second automobile pathfinder in the annual Los Angeles-to-Phoenix road race was passing Mexicali yesterday it was fired upon by a band of Socialistic insurrectos still camping in that border town. The driver put on full speed and drove by, followed by a shower of bullets. Two bullets struck the car, but no one was hurt. The car reached Yuma last night.

CAPT. FROST IN YALE BOAT.

'Varsity Four Beats Freshmen in Brush at Gales Ferry.

GALES FERRY, Conn., June 6.—The first brush between the Yale crews since their arrival here took place this afternoon when the first 'Varsity and the freshmen fours raced for a quarter of a mile down stream, the former winning by a large margin.

The weather was unsettled all day, and this afternoon, when the freshman eight took the water at 4:30, the river was rough, with the wind blowing down stream and a slight rain. Coach Kennedy took the crew down to the navy yard on their return, taking the 'Varsity fours and freshmen down the river a short distance, giving the first 'Varsity and the freshmen their race before the return. Capt. Frost, who watched yesterday's 'Varsity practice from the launch, was in the eight to-day and took the boat down stream to the railroad bridge and return, at a slow stroke, all attention being paid to form.

A little excitement was added to the day's routine of examinations and rowing by the rescue of two children drifting in a rowboat by Manager Street and a slight fire on the launch Elihu Yale, which was put out without great damage.

The new coaching launch, the gift of friends of the university, arrived to-day.

Lafayette at Columbia To-day.

The baseball game with Lafayette this afternoon is the main afternoon event of the commencement day programme at Columbia University. Various contests including the costume parade, which is a big annual event, will precede this game, but all are meant only to lead up to the contest on the diamond. Lafayette defeated the Blue and White last month and to-day's game will be a return match. Besides the regular Columbia fans that come out for the games, a large number of alumni will appear on South Field in full regalia of class colors to cheer the team on to victory. The aim is to administer a defeat to the Easton boys, which will make up for their former defeat. The game will be called at 3:30 P. M.

CHASE'S LATE RALLY WINS.

Yankee Manager Defeats Vaughn in Three-Cushion Tournament.

A ninth-inning rally by Hal Chase just when the game seemed lost gave the Yankee manager a victory over Jim Vaughn in the three-cushion billiard tournament for Yankee players at Doyle's Billiard Academy last night. The final score was 25 to 24. Chase is scratch man in the tournament, and last night he was called up to make 25 points while Vaughn was collecting 19. The handicap appeared to be a bit too heavy until the belated rally, when Manager Hall got 4 in a row.

At no time of the game until he scored the deciding point did Chase jump ahead of his pitcher. Hal collected 12 while Vaughn was getting his first 7, and this gave Vaughn the lead, 14 to 12. From this point until the score was 21 to 20 in Vaughn's favor the pair were always within one or two points of each other. Vaughn made a spurt at this stage, and soon was leading, 24 to 21. With but one point for Vaughn to go, Chase made the high run of the game, and also of the tournament to date, by gathering 4 and winning out. The game required fifty-one innings and was witnessed by a good-sized gallery.

Some of the Records Which Made Lozier the World's Champion Car

Won and holds the American Championship for stock models at Elgin Road Races.

Defeated all cars in its class at Fairmount Park last fall, breaking the course record.

Won the 250-mile Grand Prize Race in world's record time at Atlanta last fall.

Two out of the only six survivors in the Savannah Grand Prize last year were Loziers.

At Santa Monica last November, won the two fastest road races ever run in America.

Holds world's 100-mile competition record—fastest 100 miles ever traveled by a car on an American road or track—80.71 m. p. h.

Holds world's 24-hour stock chassis record. No stock car in the world has ever traveled so far in 24 hours; and Lozier has broken the world's 24-hour record oftener than any car in existence.

The Fastest 500 Miles Ever Driven By One Man

Defeating all but one of 40 cars in the greatest field of cars and drivers ever seen in an automobile race, Ralph Mulford drove his Lozier 500 miles on the Indianapolis Speedway Memorial Day at an average speed of 74.47 miles per hour—including stops.

The only car to finish ahead of Mulford's roadster was a special Speedway creation driven by two drivers alternating. Mulford drove his Lozier the entire distance without relief, and therefore holds the record for the fastest 500 miles ever driven by one man in the history of the world. The running time of the Lozier was nearly fifteen minutes faster than the winner's.

No mechanical trouble occurred, the car went 500 miles so easily, so steadily and so comfortably that at the end of the race both car and driver were ready to go the route again. A padlock placed on the bonnet over the motor before the race is still unopened.

We Do Not Build Racing Cars

Mulford drove a 46 h. p. 1912 Lozier car. It was offered for sale before the race and is still for sale—fitted with touring body, lamps and usual equipment at regular price—$4700.

Commenting on the race, such an authority as the Detroit Free Press said, in an editorial:

"The car which won the second prize at Indianapolis was taken from the floor of the factory, might have been any one of scores all alike and can itself be bought and used for practical purposes by anybody who prefers it to the rest of its maker's output."

Matchless, Consistent Endurance

An occasional victory does not prove championship class. In every great race Lozier is always among the winners, and its repeated victories and consistent performances in every great event are the basis on which it has been awarded the World's Championship.

Lozier is the only car which in the past year has always been among the first five to finish in every event in which it has started. And it has been in every great road race in the United States in that time. In the past twenty consecutive starts no Lozier car has failed to finish because of mechanical trouble.

What Repeated Victories Mean

They mean wonderful persistent endurance, dependable service, comfort, power and safety.

Lozier has raced not for the honor of winning, but to prove the strength and durability of Lozier cars and the correctness of the engineering ideas in their construction.

Elegance, Comfort, Safety

Fitted with touring bodies, Lozier cars of the same models as the race winners can be bought at any time from Lozier dealers. Elegance, luxury and comfort—such as people of wealth and good taste demand—characterize these cars. The same careful designing that has given the Lozier strength and durability to win the world's championship has supplied every refinement and comfort known to [illegible]

LONG ISLAND SOCIAL THRONG AT DOG SHOW

With Polo Postponed, Motor Parties Go to Mineola to See the Judging.

Under unpleasant conditions brought about by the inclement weather of yesterday morning the first day's judging of the ninth annual bench show of the Ladies' Kennel Association of America at Mineola, L. I., terminated in a most favorable manner. The heavy downpour of rain in the early morning made the judging of several classes which were to have been decided in the open rings impossible, and, with a small crowd in attendance, the work of the judges was confined to a few tents. Shortly after noon the rain ceased and the officials had the rings set up in the open. This enabled the use of eight rings.

After it was announced that there would be no polo at Westbury many of the Long Islanders who had intended to see the second game of the international match motored to the Fair Grounds, and before the final classes were called the grounds were well filled with motor car parties.

A. Albright, Jr., a successful and extensive exhibitor of Airedales, some time ago discarded the famous Airedale winner, champion Tintern Royalist, when he purchased King Oorang. The sale of the champion and the acquisition of King Ooran were for the purpose of winning the ribbon over the other famous Airedale, Prince of York.

When the final decision of the class was reached it was found that the judges had placed the former Albright entry, now the property of the Vickery Kennels of Chicago, in the highest place. The award came as a surprise to many of the followers of the sport.

Another surprise came in the bulldog division. Mrs. C. M. Hamilton, one of the most enthusiastic exhibitors of "bulls," with a string of champions, has heretofore swept the boards in most of the shows. Yesterday she showed her favorite Mackworth Bertie, and was placed only second in the class, as the blue was awarded to John F. Collins's champion Moston Gladiator. The latter was bred by Samuel Crabtree, who officiated as the judge yesterday, and a short time ago was sold by the latter to its present owner.

Miss Mary Henderson passed upon the English toy spaniels and Japanese spaniels, and she said the class was the best she had ever seen, and also said that the entry list, which numbered seventy, was the largest in the history of the Mineola show. Miss Henderson awarded the blue to Mrs. James Doig's champion Walkley Vic. Mrs. Doig's entry proved the best in the team class, in which she annexed the high honors with a team of four valuable English toys.

Only four Japanese spaniels were entered, and Miss D. M. Harders's Yakko was adjudged the winner.

The kennel of old English sheepdogs owned by Mrs. Tyler Morse was without a peer, and consequently the entire winnings of this class were in favor of the Morse collection. In the winner's class for dogs, Midnight of the Morse Kennel was placed first over his kennel mate, Handsome Boy. In the bitches class Endcliffe Capricious secured a like position against Nightmare.

Among the prominent persons present were Clifford Brokaw, Mrs. J. A. Burden, Mr. and Mrs. J. Tyler Morse, Harvey and Miss Elise Ladew, Miss Anna Sands, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Clark, Mrs. Alexander Butler Duncan, Mrs. E. Berry Wall, Francis Hadden, Mrs. J. B. Thomas, Jr., Miss Grace Alger, Mrs. H. V. R. Kennedy, A. S. Burden, Belmont Purdy, Mrs. Wyckoff, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. A goal is made when the ball goes over and clear of the line between the goal posts, which are 24 feet apart, or above the top of the goal posts between the centre line of the posts. After a goal has been scored the game shall be restarted from the centre of the field. A goal counts one. A safety counts minus one-quarter. A foul counts minus one-half, and such other penalty as the referee may impose. Penalties are deducted from the score of the offending team during the game. Whenever a player drives the ball over the end line outside the posts of the goal he is defending, it shall be deemed a safety. A player shall not crook his adversary's mallet unless he is on the same side of the adversary's pony as the ball, or in a direct line behind, and his mallet is neither over nor under the adversary's pony. The mallet may not be crooked unless his adversary is in the act of striking the ball. The ball continues in play after the seven and a half minutes' signal is sounded until it hits the sideboards or goes out of bounds. Such overtime is deducted from the subsequent period.

English Paddock—Southwest corner of the field. American Paddock—Southeast corner of the field.

MRS. FOX NEAR LEADER.

Philadelphians First and Second in Eastern Women's Golf.

NEWTON, Mass., June 6.—Although the rain came down in sheets and the Brae Burn course was watersoaked long before the field had finished, Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of the Merion Cricket Club of Philadelphia still maintained her comfortable lead over all competitors in the second eighteen holes of the contest for the championship in the Women's Eastern Golf Association tournament to-day. Her card was 10 strokes poorer than yesterday, when the first eighteen holes were played, but the showing was regarded as very creditable under the conditions. Eighteen holes more remain to be played to-morrow.

It is apparent that Miss F. C. Osgood, present holder of the Eastern title, has practically no chance of repeating her victory of last year, as she is 18 strokes behind Mrs. Barlow.

The only player whom Mrs. Barlow seems to have cause to fear is Mrs. Caleb F. Fox, the Philadelphia champion. Mrs. Fox made the best gross score of the day, having negotiated the course in 93—8 better than did Mrs. Barlow. By her score to-day Mrs. Fox moved up from sixth position to second.

There was a long session in the anual meeting of the association to-day, but the members declined to give out any information until to-morrow. It is believed to have had a hearing on the default of the New York team in the Griscom Cup matches. On account of the default of New York, the Boston and Philadelphia teams will play the singles Thursday and the foursomes Friday, and in addition there will be an open mixed foursome on the last-named day. Summaries of the playing for two days:

Benedict Scores a Knockout.

With three ten-round contests in addition to the regular preliminaries the large crowd at the Superior Athletic Club last night was treated to one of the best programmes ever offered by the east side organization.

In the first encounter Roger Benedict, a local bantam who displayed plenty of cleverness and ability to land a powerful punch, disposed of Johnnie Morgan of Canada in the sixth round. The local boy was the master from the start, and, although his opponent put up a game fight he was unable to offset the fast work of Benedict, and in the sixth round a hard right uppercut to the jaw sent the Canadian to the mat for the count.

Charlie Gibson and Eddie Whalen, featherweights, were the contestants of the next bout. Gibson, by his superior ring generalship, managed to keep his willing opponent at bay in every one of the ten rounds, and earned the decision of each with large margins.

In the final bout Chester Cooper easily outpointed Young Porky Flynn of New England. Cooper was the better boxer of the pair, and landed the harder blows in the exchanges. Flynn put up a game fight, but was unable to get to his man effectively, and was on the loser's end when the final bell sounded.

Kid Burns Defeats Jack Dorman.

Kid Burns, after a long absence from the ring, retuned last night, and in his contest with Jack Dorman of the west side earned the popular decision in ten rounds at Brown's Gymnasium. Both men fought fast throughout the ten rounds, but the early lead that Burns earned in the first five sessions was more than Dorman could offset after he started a spurt in the last four rounds.

POLO MATCH HELD OVER UNTIL TO-DAY

Weather Must Be Very Bad to Cause Further Postponement of Play.

Once more the weather interfered with terday with the second match of the series for the international polo cup, but the match will probably be contested at the Meadow Brook Club grounds at 4:30 P. M. to-day. It was stated last night that the weather would have to be very bad to-day to cause another postponement.

The English poloists are about agreed that even nature has arrayed herself against them in their endeavors to lift the cup, and they are a unit on the proposition that, should they be victorious in to-day's game, the handicap of having their ponies "come back" for the deciding match, which must be played on Saturday, will be so great as to make their chances of victory vague.

While their pony array originally included thirty-five mounts, the best obtainable in the British Isles, the weeding-out process, made necessary in order to determine those most likely to "stand up," has practically eliminated thirteen of the number, with the result that each player now has approximately six mounts with which to go through a game. The Meadow Brook quartet is not hampered by a lack of mounts.

It was decided by the Polo Association authorities, that, should the English team win to-day's game, the rubber will be played on Saturday. In the event, however, of an American victory, a team will be formed of Englishmen, including Capt. Barrett, originally slated to play at "back" for the challengers; Lieut. Palmes, Cecil Grenfell, and Capt. Wilson, who will be arrayed against an American four, comprised of Foxhall Keene, Malcolm Stevenson, and two others yet to be chosen, in a match for Friday.

The enforced rest of the ponies has done them a world of good, and they have recovered from the gruelling they received in the initial struggle. The English ponies particularly have profited by the respite.

It developed yesterday that those members of the English team who have the coronation festivities at heart, and had made reservations so that they could sail on Saturday, had canceled them, and will not take passage until next Wednesday, when they will all leave on the Mauretania.

The supposed serious complication in the shape of the $150,000 bond, given to the Government for the delivery of the ponies at the wharf on Saturday proves a myth. The bond does not become forfeitable until the ponies have been in the country for a period of six months.

The bond in question was furnished by the Morris European and American Express Company, and is for $42,000, covering thirty-five ponies. It is dated April 5.

Robert E. Strawbridge of Philadelphia will referee the game to-day from the clubhouse, leaving it to Joshua Crane and Capt. Barrett to inflict the necessary penalties and adjudicate on the various plays.

BRITISH PLAYERS CAN WAIT.

Need Not Hurry Home for the Coronation—Their Ponies and Ours.

LONDON, June 6.—The Daily Mail's special polo correspondent telegraphed the following to his paper from Meadow Brook to-night:

"American weather, returning the compliment of the English weather at Hurlingham in 1909, has rendered a further postponement of the second international polo match necessary without definite hope of a decision in the immediate future. Meanwhile the polo matches remain the most prominent topic in the American papers, in which much space is being devoted to them.

"Several newspapers are trying to prove that my contention that the American ponies are better than the English, is not established on fact. It is pointed out with legitimate pride that many of the ponies used by the Meadow Brook team on Thursday are American bred, Whitney and Milburn each riding three native-bred ponies. This statement is indisputable, but the critics are barking up the wrong tree.

"There is no possible doubt that the American ponies are superior to the English, any more than that the English equipment in that respect would equal the American if Capt. Lloyd had received the same practice support as Whitney. If, to take a single concrete instance, Capt. Cheape had changed ponies with either of the Waterburys, there would not have been much doubt about the result of the match. The present situation finds us with what should be our natural advantage in ponies thrown into the other side of the scale."

The correspondent expresses the opinion that American confidence in the outcome of the test matches has not increased during the delay due to the weather. He goes on to note "a misapprehension in many newspapers here which appears too deep-rooted to be dispelled that Lord Kitchener has ordered the English players home to attend the coronation, and that, weather or no weather, the matches must be played or abandoned before Saturday. To-day also two journals at least discover that if the ponies do not sail on Saturday, as originally arranged, a bond of $50,000 must be forfeited.

"It should be superfluous to add," continues the correspondent, "that Capt. Lloyd will not play until conditions are suitable, and that the British players are not required to attend the coronation in any official capacity. It may dutifully be assumed even that if such had been the intention, King George, who received them before their departure, and who is known to be following the course of the matches with deep interest, would dispense with the attendance of Capt. Lloyd and his team at any ceremony to uphold the credit of British sport."

S. S. A. L. Annual Games.

The Track and Field Committee of the Sunday School Athletic League has announced a fine programme for the boys of that organization to be held at Pratt Field, Willoughby and Grand Avenues, Brooklyn, on Saturday afternoon, June 24, at 2:30 P. M. The committee originally planned to hold the games on June 17, but owing to the fact that there is to be a large excursion, which takes in a good many churches, on June 17, the date was changed to June 24. The following events will be contested: Midgets, 80 pounds and under, 40-yard dash and a relay race, (4 laps.) Boys, 95 pounds and under, 50-yard dash and relay race, (4 laps.) Juniors of 110 pounds and under, 220-yard dash, running high jump, and a relay race, (6 laps.) Intermediates of 130 pounds and under, 300-yard run, 880-yard run, running broad jump, and a relay race, (8 laps.) Senior events, 440-yard run, mile run, standing broad jump, 12-pound shot, and relay race, (8 laps.)

Burns-Daly at St. Nicholas.

Frankie Burns, who is to take issue with Johnny Daly next Friday night at the Twentieth Century Athletic Club, has been established a favorite by his friends over the Gotham youngster. Burns, whose interests are looked after by Manager Lee, is said to have designs on a win by the process of the knockout route. Manager Lee asserts that his protege has not been in such shape in months as at present, and that Daly will go the way of many of Burns's opponents in his recent battles and receive his quietus. Daly promises to be in rattling shape when the time arrives for the battle, and show that he is in line for bantam weight honors. Both boys assert that they will have no trouble in scaling in at 116 pounds, (ringside,) as the conditions call for.

AUTOISTS TO TEST LAW.

Brooklyn Motorists Protest Against Restricting Section of Motor Parkway.

Members of the Long Island Automobile Club took steps yesterday to test the State law and Park Commissioner Kennedy's recent edict that no automobiles are allowed to pass over that part of the speedway section on Ocean Parkway, between Kings Highway and Twenty-second Avenue. C. Stewart Cavanagh, William Schimpf, Herbert G. Andrews, and Col. George W. Wingate with other members of the club rode over the forbidden section in an automobile and asked the police to arrest them.

Mounted Policeman Garrett Terrell of the Parkville Station ordered the party to turn into a twenty-five-foot roadway on the right hand side of the speedway when they reached Twenty-second Avenue. The autoists, however, continued on for a block and then stopped. Terrell handed them subpoenas to appear in court to-day.

At the request of members of the Parkway Driving Association the Legislature passed a law in May, 1910 giving the use of the restricted section of the Ocean Parkway to trotting horses and light vehicles. The automobile clubs protested vigorously against this law, but it was passed. Three weeks ago Park Commissioner Kennedy issued an order forbidding automobilists using the Speedway. Many of them had disregarded the law on this matter.

The members of the Long Island Automobile Club state that the use of the side roadways along the restricted Speedway is dangerous. Many of the wagons and other vehicles on that road can not be seen ahead, because the drivers do not carry lights. It was also asserted that the trees along the road hide the light, making it difficult for the machines to avoid running into heavy trucks.

HILL-CLIMB PRACTICE.

Cars Will Be Permitted to Try Shingle Hill To-morrow.

Practice for the Shingle Hill climb at West Haven, Conn., Saturday, June 10, will begin to-morrow. Cars will be permitted to practice on both Thursday, and Friday between 2:15 and 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon, arrangements having been made to keep the course clear of regular traffic.

Entries for the climb close to-night. The latest entry reported by the Yale and New Haven Automobile Clubs, which jointly are promoting the climb, is a Metallurgique car entered by the Metallurgique Motor Company of this city. This will be the first appearance of this make of car in any competitive event in this country.

Dartmouth in Basket Ball League.

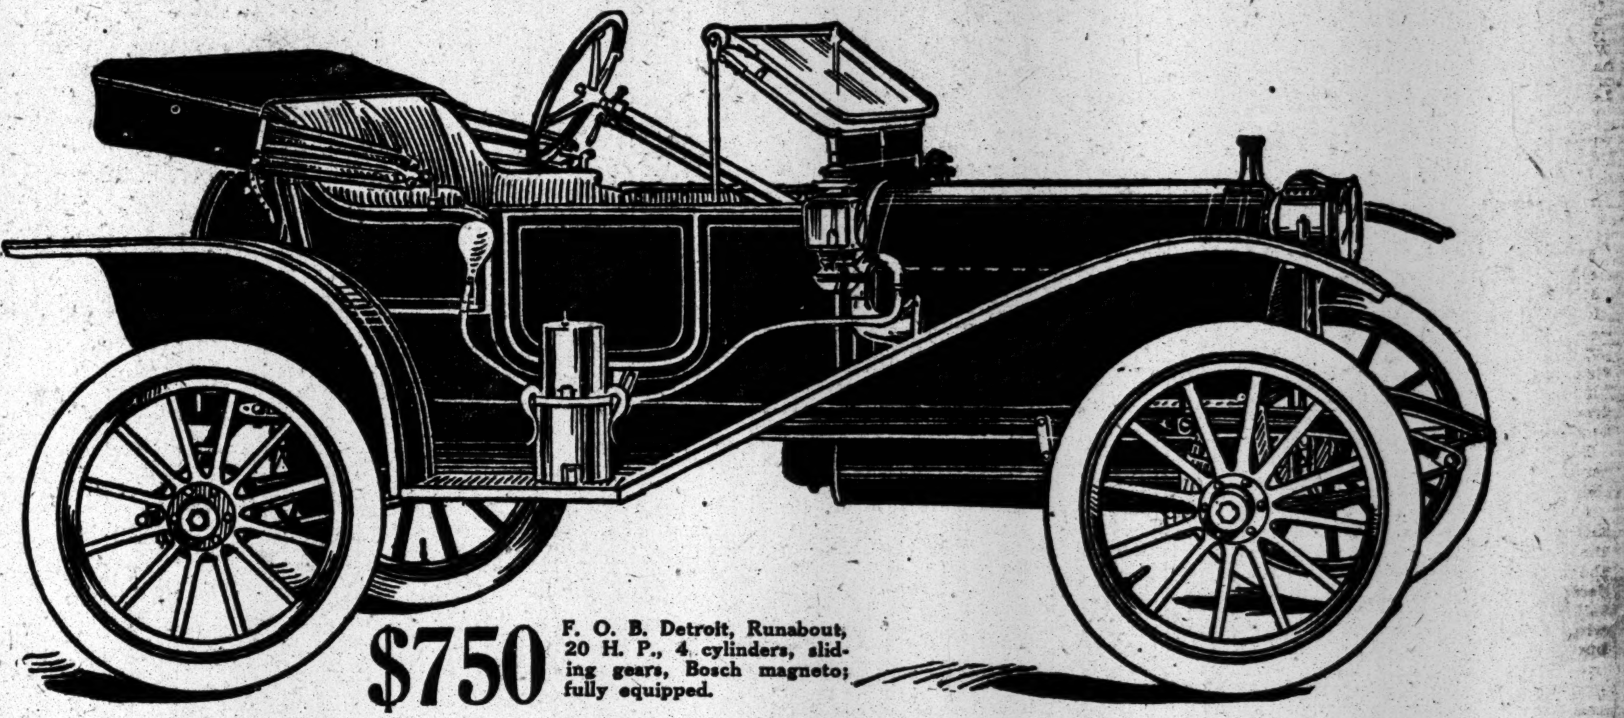
PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—As a result of a mail vote taken since the annual Spring meeting in March, Dartmouth College, it was announced to-day by Secretary Ralph Morgan of this city has been admitted to membership in the Intercollegiate Basketball League, which heretofore has been composed of five universities—Yale, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Cornell, and Columbia. The league will hold a special meeting in New York on June 15 to rearrange next year's schedule.

To Open Aerodrome with Flights.

The formal opening of the aerodrome of the Aero Club of New York at Garden City Estates, L. I., will be held Saturday. Exhibition flights will be made by members of the organization, and invitations have been sent to all the prominent aeronauts in New York. The work on the aerodrome was started about two moths ago, when Earle L. Ovington made a sensational flight on the grounds.

1912 Announcement

Hupmobile
GUARANTEED FOR LIFE



$750 F. O. B. Detroit, Runabout, 20 H. P., 4 cylinders, sliding gears, Bosch magneto; fully equipped.

Full equipment means fore-doors, standard high grade top, zig-zag windshield, mirror lense headlights, mounted on specially designed headsets, gas generator, 3 oil lamps, horn, tools, full repair kit.

We are going to show you that in this 1912 Fore-door Hupmobile, fully equipped for $750, you get infinitely more than you have ever before been offered.

To-day you can with more reason than ever compare the Hupmobile, for quality, with the costliest cars of larger size; for we have added improvements which represent in material alone $100 more than the Hupmobile which charmed your fancy two seasons ago.

So much for quality; in the complete equipment added without extra cost, namely, fore-doors at $25, top at $30, windshield at $20, gas lamps and generator at $20, we are giving you nearly $100 more in actual quantity value.

Now to get down to "brass tacks"—pick out any car of lower price. Then add to that price the money value of the 1912 equipment and the improved quality in the Hupmobile.

Surely if quantity plus quality spells value you will not ask for any more convincing argument than the actual extra worth in dollars that we have just shown you.

Study the list of 1912 improvements—see for yourself how in each and every Hupmobile for 1912 we have incorporated entirely new elements of value.

Many of these improvements are peculiar to the Hupmobile; for some of them you will have to look to cars of $1,500 or more.

The legitimate savings of an immensely increased production are passed on to you in the form of structural, mechanical and incidental refinements never before offered in a car at anything like this price.

Remember the flawless reputation of the Hupmobile, not only among those with whom cost must cut an important figure, but also with men of wealth and automobile experience in every community.

We believe that your conclusion will lead you to be among the first to inspect this better than ever Hupmobile.

We have just received our first quota of the new cars. We are ready now to prove beyond question that we have the greatest motor car value that has ever been demonstrated in this city.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Show Generally Reactionary Tone on Much Reduced Trading.

EXCHANGE BELOW GOLD POINT

Imports of the Metal Prevented by Refusal of Bank of France to Let Gold Go.

Had it not been for the refusal of the Bank of France to release gold for export to the United States it is probable that several gold engagements by our bankers would have been announced yesterday. The recent movement of exchange has carried rates to a level permitting direct engagements of gold in Paris for shipment to New York. Large credits in favor of our bankers had been established in Paris as a result of the sale of American securities in that market, and within the last two or three days large installments of the purchase price of these securities have been drawn against. The sale of cables against these Paris credits reduced the French exchange rate to a point at which gold could have been profitably imported if gold could be had. Cable inquiries by several of our bankers brought the response, however, that the Bank of France would not release gold for shipment. The effect has been that further sales of French exchange has depressed the rate below the gold import point without our bankers being able to obtain the metal for import. Thus it is that French exchange may now be said to be selling at a discount owing to the refusal of the Bank of France to let go any of its gold supply for shipment to the United States.

The various cross-currents which have brought about the present position in the relationship of this and the principal European money markets present a situation of unusual interest. The creation of fresh credits abroad through further sales of our securities to European investors may well lead to gold imports despite the attitude of the Bank of France, for naturally the present weakness of the French exchange rates will in normal course react on the sterling rate and possibly bring this market to a position to obtain gold from London. The gold holdings of the Bank of France are about $35,000,000 smaller than they were at this time a year ago and about $94,000,000 under the amount held at this date in 1909. French imports have lately shown large increases, and this is true not only of cereals and other merchandise passing through the Custom House, but also of securities, which have been imported by France in large amounts, notably from this country. Thus it is that the French market finds foreign exchange rates against it and that the Bank of France is refusing to part with its gold as the only means of preventing an outflow to the United States. As matters stand in this market there is no present need of gold imports. Were it otherwise the natural working of the exchanges would soon bring gold to this market despite such obstacles as that which now prevents advantageous realization by our bankers against funds to their credit in Paris. As rates stood yesterday they were about one-eighth of 1 per cent. under the gold import point, which means, of course, that that percentage is being lost on all French exchange sold compared with the amount which would be realized were Paris a free gold market such as our own market is in normal times.

Very little interest was displayed in any quarter in yesterday's trading on the Stock Exchange, where the dealings were lighter and the tone generally reactionary. The Government's weekly weather report laid emphasis on the continued absence of rains in much of the cotton and Winter wheat belts, though conditions elsewhere were described as generally favorable. Crop reports from some of the Southwestern railroads which came to hand yesterday named Oklahoma as the only section in which impairment of crop conditions is causing serious complaint. Some private advices, however, referred in similar vein to conditions in Kansas. Wheat was lower yesterday, but cotton continued its advance.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Tuesday.

An upward movement in the copper and metal stocks was one of the features of the early dealings on the Consolidated Stock Exchange yesterday on reports that some development was pending which would affect this group of stocks favorably. So far as the general market was concerned dealings exhibited a tendency to contract. Prices softened, but it was the subject of comment that the decline appeared to bring out little stock.

New Philippine Issue.

The demand which recently developed for territorial bonds by banks seeking postal savings bank deposits, serves to increase the interest of Government bond dealers in the latest offering of Philippine bonds. The Bureau of Insular Affairs has just issued circulars asking bids on $125,000 4 per cent. bonds of the City of Cebu, which are placed in the same general class as the City of Manila bonds. These bonds will be accepted at par for Government deposits in case of further Government funds being placed with the National banks. In the deposit of Philippine funds preference is given to banks pledging Philippine issues, and these new Cebu bonds will share the same privilege. The proceeds are to be used for the city's primary schools and for the improvement of the drainage system.

Advance in Tobacco Issues.

American Tobacco 4s again reversed their position in the market yesterday, rising steadily from the opening sale at 86 to 89¼, and closing within a small fraction of the high price of the session. At the same time the stock, which recently showed an extreme loss of more than 120 points, improved rapidly in the day's trading on the Curb. Opening at 400, it sold up to 423, and ended with a net gain of 20 points. Despite the activity and strength of the 4 per cent. bonds, the 6 per cent. issue of the American Tobacco Company was scarcely noticed in yesterday's trading. Only twelve bonds of that issue were sold, and at a change of only ⅛. The recent violent movements in both the stock and the bonds of the Tobacco Company have been influenced by the uncertainty existing regarding the working out of the "disintegration" of the present company, which is to be undertaken in pursuance of the decree of the Supreme Court. As much uncertainty exists regarding the form of the rearrangement which is to follow, as surrounds the "disintegration" itself and as a result the company's securities since the decision have moved back and forward with unusual violence.

Freight Car Earnings.

As shown by the report of the American Railway Association, there were owned by the members, comprising practically all of the lines in this country and Canada, 2,197,830 revenue freight cars in February. These cars earned a total of $137,733,681 in that month, a daily average of $2.24 per car. The revenue received from each car rises and falls with the amount of tonnage offered, reaching its maximum usually in October, when the movement of crops is at its height, and its lowest point in May. In October of last year each car earned a daily average of $2.70, as compared with $1.70 in the preceding May. The amount of work performed by each car also reaches its highest point in October, when the great demand for equipment expedites loading and unloading. The average number of tons carried per car for each mile run was but 14.4 in February, or 21.4 if the empty cars be excluded from the reckoning. The average number of miles made by each car was 22.5 per day in February.

Canadian Pacific's Credit.

Few companies have as little worry over their financing as the Canadian Pacific. When that road wants money the English bankers supply it without any argument. Another instance of the ease with which its needs are supplied is furnished by the sale of $6,161,000 4 per cent. debenture stock in London at a price to net the company about 102. The Canadian Pacific is building upward of 600 miles of new road, and its construction plans call for a total expenditure of $40,000,000 this year. The company is raising this money as needed by means of debenture stock, which has an advantage over bonds in that it never matures and cannot be foreclosed. There is a total of $142,000,000 of debenture stock outstanding now, with only $40,000,000 of 5 per cent. bonds. The latter mature in 1931, and it is not expected that any more will be issued. Incidentally, the sale of this stock in London may mean the transfer of more gold from New York to Canada.

City Bonds in Demand.

New York City 4¼ per cent. bonds of 1960 reached a new high level on the Stock Exchange yesterday, when the receipts sold at 104⅞. The previous high price was 104½, made on May 10. The city sold $60,000,000 of this issue early in January at an average price of 100.904. They were quoted at 100⅞ before the awards were announced. The city received a total of $60,542,400 for the issue, so that at yesterday's high price the advance represented an aggregate profit of $2,382,600.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, June 6.—There was an abundant supply of money to-day. Discount rates were easy.

The Bank of England bought most of the $3,750,000 South African gold offered in the open market. The price paid was 77s 9d per ounce.

The attendance was light on the Stock Exchange and trading was limited. Consols declined on realizing, but home rails advanced in anticipation of good traffic returns. Foreign securities and mining shares were in fairly good request, and rubber and oil shares had a better tone.

American securities opened about steady, but later in the forenoon prices moved irregularly in sympathy with Wall Street. In the afternoon Canadian Pacific was in demand, and with Atchison, Southern Pacific, and Union Pacific advanced and closed firm. The rest of the list finished steady.

Money, 1@1¼ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2@2 1-16 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 2@2 1-16 per cent.

Bullion amounting to $325,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day.

Gold premium at Madrid, 7.95; at Lisbon, 9.

PARIS, June 6.—Prices were generally firm on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 96 francs 20 centimes for the account.

Exchange on London, 25 francs 29½ centimes for checks.

BERLIN, June 6.—Trading was dull and prices were irregular on the Börse to-day.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 44 pfennigs for checks.

Money, 3½ per cent.

Private discount rate, 3 per cent.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

CHICAGO ELEVATED MERGER

Certificates of Deposit Listed on the Exchange—Pennsylvania Active on Strike Settlement News.

There were few interesting features in the trading in other cities yesterday. In Baltimore the market was quiet and featureless. Seaboard Company shares were dull and fractionally easier. There were 670 shares dealt in and $88,000 in bonds.

Hancock was the feature on the Boston market, advancing nearly three points, to 30⅛, on reports from Houghton that mill rock is running better than twenty pounds, and that the barrel and Massachusetts rock is as good as the Quincy. The balance of the market was irregular and with but little change in prices.

Price changes were inconsiderable and trading rather moderate in Chicago. There were slight advances in Sears-Roebuck and Diamond Match among others, and the declines included Swift, Commonwealth Edison, People's Gas, and Illinois Brick, the last of which, after gaining a fraction, ran off more than a point. Booth Fisheries preferred was offered down to 66. The last sale of the shares occurred at 73. The common stock sold at 41, a loss of a point. Considerable disappointment is expressed at the failure of the Directors to issue a financial report when the annual meeting was held May 31. Deposits of stock of the various elevated railroad companies with the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank on the terms of purchase made by the Henry A. Blair merger syndicate to noon Monday were about 32,000 shares, or about 9 per cent. of the total. The certificates of deposit for the shares were listed for trading on the Exchange Tuesday, having been admitted Monday afternoon by the Governing Committee.

Except for the strength of the Lehigh Valley Transit issues, slight further advances in the traction stocks and Pennsylvania were about the only features of an otherwise quiet market in Philadelphia. Pennsylvania was stimulated by the report that the striking trainmen had returned to work. Incidentally, the first transaction in the full-paid receipts issued under the new Pennsylvania Railroad Company stock allotment took place on the floor to-day, odd lots selling at 61⅞.

COPPER AFFECTS SMELTING.

International Company Reports Increased Shipments from Utah Mines.

The annual report of the International Smelting and Refining Company shows that it suffered last year from the depression in the copper market. The plant at International, Utah, was completed in July, but was unable to run to its full capacity owing to shortage in ores from the mines of the Utah Consolidated Mining Company, its principal shipper. Since the first of the year shipments have increased, and by the end of 1911 it is expected that the plant will be operating to capacity. The construction of a lead smelting plant is well under way and a lead refinery is to be built at Perth Amboy, N. J. The Raritan Copper works also suffered from short shipments, but new contracts are expected to increase the tonnage.

The net income for 1910, after charging $226,359 to depreciation, was $1,002,191.

The report of the Butte Coalition Mining Company tells of the dissolution of the Red Metal Mining Company and the transfer of its assets, consisting of 500,000 shares of Anaconda Copper Mining Company stock, to the Butte Coalition. It also records the action of the stockholders of the Alice Gold and Silver Mining Company in voting to dissolve it and distribute its assets, consisting of 30,000 shares of Anaconda stock and $59,084 cash. Of this the Butte Coalition is to receive more than half through its ownership of 234,215 shares of the Alice Company out of 400,000 shares. Upon the completion of this transaction the Butte Coalition will have 517,566 shares of Anaconda stock, 3,000 shares of International Smelting, and about $3,840,000 cash. Its net income for 1910 was $938,257.

BIG NICKEL CO. EARNINGS.

Balance for Common Stock Equivalent to 28 Per Cent.

The International Nickel Company earned a surplus over all expenses and fixed charges of $3,775,600 in the year ended with March 31. After paying 6 per cent. on the preferred stock, the balance remaining was equivalent to 28 per cent. on the common stock. Last year the company earned 17 per cent. on its common stock.

Commenting on the earnings, President Monell said that the demand for the company's products last year was the largest in its history. The growth of the automobile business, with the increasing demand for a superior grade of steel, was said to be responsible for the increased demand for the Nickel Company's output.

Included in the deductions from net earnings before surplus was $1,253,273 charged off for depreciation, mineral exhaustion, sinking fund appropriations, and bond interest. After paying 7 per cent. on the common stock the company had a balance of $2,432,073 to carry forward to profit and loss surplus.

J. G. White & Co. Swell Surplus.

The annual report of J. G. White & Co., incorporated, showed an increase in the surplus on hand after paying the year's dividends from $391,394 to $485,529. President White says that nearly all of the company's properties enjoyed substantial increases in earnings in the year, and that while there is now less than the usual amount of activity in engineering and construction lines, the company has recently obtained considerable new work.

Fall in Rubber Affects Brazil Finances

The Brazilian Review says the heavy fall in rubber prices has reduced the security on which the Government bank advanced $12,000,000 to about $15,000,000. The action of a syndicate in locking up this rubber at Pará and Manaos, with about 2,000 tons more, has not resulted in keeping up prices, either because of arrivals of rubber from other countries or because manufacturers have found ways to do without it.

STIRRING THE PUBLIC ON RAILROAD RATES

Discrimination Against New York Costs the City Dear, ex-Mayor Schieren Says, ORGANIZATIONS FIGHTING IT

Business Men Said to be Indifferent, Not Knowing the Port Lost Exports by Differential in Force Since 1877.

Ex-Mayor Charles A. Schieren, Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Committee on Differentials, is endeavoring to arouse public attention to the discrimination practiced against this port by the differentials put into effect by the various trunk lines having terminals here. He says that the penalties imposed on export business coming to New York have resulted in driving a large percentage of the foreign tonnage to other cities.

"This discrimination has existed in one form or another since 1869," says Mr. Schieren. "The New York public has displayed a strange indifference over the situation, in marked contrast to the fighting energy shown at the other ports in their endeavors to perpetuate conditions which favor them at the expense of New York. How many are there among New York business men who know that since 1877 the railroads have arbitrarily fixed rates on all classes of freight for export via New York at three cents per hundred pounds greater than via Baltimore and two cents per hundred pounds greater than via Philadelphia?

"What has been the effect on New York's commerce? In 1878 this city exported more than 53,000,000 bushels of wheat, being more than 65 per cent. of the total exported through the four Atlantic ports of Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore. In 1904 the total from New York was less than 2,000,000 bushels, less than 37 per cent.

"One result of the discrimination against New York has been to benefit Montreal. The agreed differential against New York prevents rates to meet the active and growing competition of that Canadian port. Including Montreal and all Atlantic ports, New York's percentage of wheat exports fell from more than 65 per cent. in 1878 to less than 9 per cent. in 1904. The Constitution provides with reference to the Inter-State Commerce powers of Congress that no preference shall be given to a port of any State over a port of another, and the differential is an arbitrary additional rate imposed for the avowed purpose of giving a preference to Baltimore and to Philadelphia over the Port of New York.

"In the situation thus created by the amendments to the Inter-State Commerce law, the New York Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Association, the Produce Exchange, and the Board of Trade and Transportation have united in a petition filed with the Commerce Commission alleging that the differential rates are unlawful in that they are unjust and unreasonable, and in that they give a preference to other ports.

"The Dock Commissioner has been keenly alive to the needs of New York's commerce and has evolved plans that will measurably add to the advtanges of this port. In this work of improving facilities at this port and increasing its economies, he is confronted with a principle of railroad rate making that offsets every advantage and economy with a corresponding arbitrary additional rate."

Ex-Congressman Fairchild, who was counsel for the New York Commerce Commission in the investigation in 1899, and who wrote its final report, has been retained as counsel to the allied organizations in the present contest. Since the petition was filed, the Maritime Association has filed a petition to intervene in support of New York's contention, and the Corporation Counsel, in behalf of New York City, and the Attorney General, in behalf of New York State, have filed similar petitions. Separate orders have been issued by the commission granting these petitions.

PLANS OF WINDSOR TRUST.

Surplus to be Raised to $1,300,000 and Capital to Stay at $1,000,000.

Edward T. Perine, Vice President of the Windsor Trust Company, said yesterday that the plan to increase the surplus was progressing favorably. He was not sure whether it would be possible to take formal action on this and the proposed election of Clark Williams as President of the company at the next meeting of the Directors on June 15 or not.

The plan contemplates canceling half of the present $1,000,000 stock, which would increase the surplus from $130,000 to $630,000, and then issuing $500,000 new stock at 200, which would put the stock back to $1,000,000 and make the surplus $1,130,000. It is supposed that the new stock will be taken by the syndicate acting with Mr. Williams.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—There was a decided change in the wheat market, and prices declined with very little interruption, closing at about the low point, with prices 2 to 2½c under the high of Monday. The decline met with little resistance, and there was an absence of support by the Western long interests. Opening prices showed declines due to more favorable foreign crop advices, continued favorable Spring wheat news, and claims of improved condition in sections recently visited by the showers and cooler weather. The Argentine official report made an increase of 20 per cent. in the new crop of wheat area. Last year the area was 15,452,000 acres. Receipts were liberal West, cash demand was poor, and there was a large increase in the world's visible compared with a heavy decrease the previous week. The American visible gained 584,000 bushels, and the world's visible gained 3,184,000 bushels, compared with a decrease of 5,614,000 bushels the previous week, a net change of nearly 9,000,000 bushels. The Chicago contract stocks showed an increase of 1,381,000 bushels, and are now 8,233,000 bushels, representing the accumulation due to the May squeeze. The hot, dry weather in the Southwest, while causing some deterioration in condition, is advancing the wheat crop rapidly toward maturity. While the trade looks for some loss in crop condition from the Government figures on Winter wheat of 86.1 last month, they also expect a very high report on Spring wheat, with a considerable increase in acreage. The Government report will be issued on Thursday after the close of the market. Cash wheat was inactive; with No. 2 red nominal, 99c free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.06¾; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.07.

CORN was also weak, and closed at a net decline of ½ to ¾c, and at about the low point of the day. The decline was on reports of more favorable conditions in the Ohio Valley, and of good stands of corn west of the Mississippi, although rain is needed very generally in the Southwest and South. The receipts were heavy at the West, amounting to 2,328,000 bushels in two days, while the visible increased 1,831,000 bushels, compared with a decrease of 245,000 bushels the previous week. Cash markets were reported ¾ to 1c lower at the West. On the break there were reports of three loads for export at outports. No. 2 corn was quoted at 61c free on board.

OATS.—Selling pressure was active, with prices closing at nearly 1c a bushel decline. Crop news was less unfavorable, and there was a disposition to take a more hopeful view not only of the oats crop situation, but of the hay and pasturage condition. The rains and cooler weather have been very beneficial. The country is selling oats freely. The receipts West in two days have been 1,865,000 bushels, nearly double last year, and the visible supply for the week showed a gain of 669,000 bushels, against 723,000 bushels decrease the previous week. Cash oats were quoted: Standards, 43½c; No. 2 white, 44c; No. 3 white, 43c.

PROVISIONS.—Trade in hog products was very small, but prices were somewhat firmer, possibly influenced by the more moderate movement of hogs at Western points and a little smaller volume of receipts than estimated.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The gradual upward trend of values continued unabated during yesterday's session, and although offerings were inclined to become heavier as prices advanced, there is still an absence of important pressure noted. The steady undertone to pure lard and a little support from refining interests were features against bearish enthusiasm. The strength of the cotton market reflecting apprehension over dry weather prevailing west of the Mississippi, served to offset the beneficial crop advices resulting from rains in some of the Eastern States. COTTON.

The apprehension prevailing at present relative to the dry weather conditions west of the Mississippi and in some sections in the East is great enough apparently to offset the beneficial effects derived from the moisture officially reported in the Carolinas and private advices of rain in sections of Alabama and Georgia. Many drought complaints were received from the Western States, and while there is a difference of opinion as to the urgency of the need of this rain, bulls continue confident, probably expecting a protracted dry period with pressure meanwhile light.

The morning weather map disclosing rains in the Carolinas, in conjunction with disappointing Liverpool advices over the holidays, brought about an opening of 3 to 6 points decline, but from these levels the undertone hardened and a gradual advance ensued with new crop months leading the upward movement. Bulls were aggressive, with some short covering, and there was some outside buying induced by the weekly Government weather report. This showed that while parts of Texas, Georgia, Alabama, and the Carolinas received some moisture, drought generally prevailed, and rain is much needed. Temperatures were said to be above the normal and sunshine abundant. Another Government record shows that the average rainfall from April 16 to June 2 in the Atlanta districts was 3.08 inches, against 8.82 inches last year; in Wilmington, 2.15 inches, against 7.36; Charleston, .91 inches, against 5.40; Augusta, 1.61 inches, against 5.93, and in the Savannah districts, 3.40 inches, comparing with 8.23 last year.

Some interests were pointing out that a year ago October sold at 12.38, or over 100 points below existing levels, even though at that time there was also a scarcity of cotton. It is further shown that the June condition then was 82, or nearly 6 points below the recent Government report, while the acreage increase was comparatively small. It is thought, however, that last October foreign trade conditions were not so bright as at present, while the belief is also generally expressed that the American trade situation is on the mend.

To Investors

A manufacturing corporation having control here and abroad of a new mechanical-electrical device, entered the market for orders on April 24th of this year. During the thirty days following that date the company received bona fide orders and contracts that will net over $900,000 per annum, or nearly 100% on its entire capitalization for a number of years, the machines being put out on term leases, and not sold. The condition is unprecedented—as yet it is only a start, orders are still coming in.

To meet the extensions of its business required in filling these orders the company desires to place a certain allotment of its 7% Preferred Stock with responsible parties. This stock is unusual as—while a short term stock—after drawing its 7% it shares as common stock in further dividends, and at the end of its preferred term does not lapse, but becomes common stock, and as such shares in all further earnings of the company.

Everything is open to a thorough investigation. Communication solicited from interested parties only.

Jacquard Figured Silk Fabrics Pay Highest Duty Under New Tariff.

It was decided yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers that under the tariff act of 1909 Jacquard figured silk fabrics will have to stand the appropriate compound rates under Paragraph 399 of the present tariff act. M. H. Rogers, the importer, set up the contention that the merchandise should be allowed to enter at 50 per cent. on the value of the goods as manufactures in chief value of silk, under Paragraph 403 of the same law. General Appraiser Howell, who writes the decision for the board, dissents.

The decision states that the accuracy of the goods as described is not disputed, but that counsel for the importers contend that as the fabrics are composed wholly of silk, and are Jacquard figured goods containing two or more colors in the filling, they are dutiable as claimed.

The decision goes into details regarding the customs interpretation to be placed on the provisions of the law as at present constituted, and then says:

"The goods before us are commonly considered as 'woven fabrics of silk,' and as such they are specially provided for in Paragraph 399. The provision on which the importer relies is the 'catch-all' provision of the silk schedule, and is obviously less specific than the provision for woven silk fabrics. The protests are overruled and the decision of the Collector in each case is affirmed."

MRS. HEINZE CONTESTS NOTE

Pleads Harriman & Co., Brokers, Broke Agreement.

Ruth Noyes Heinze, who indorsed in 1907 a $5,000 note made out by Calvin W. Geer to Harriman & Co., is contesting the firm's suit to collect the note and obtained recently from Supreme Court Justice Amend an order to examine the members of the firm before trial to sustain her contention that the note was without consideration.

Justice Giegerich signed an order yesterday limiting the scope of the examination strictly to Mrs. Heinze's pleadings. Mrs. Heinze is the wife of Arthur P. Heinze and has filed a counter claim, in which she charges that the note and another one of the same amount were given to the firm for agreeing to carry copper stock when her husband was bulling the market just before the panic. She says the firm failed to carry out the agreement and sold her husband out. She paid one of the notes and is now seeking not only to avoid paying the second, but to get her money back for the first one.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to.

6,825. AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS AND MACHINERY.—A business man in a European country writes that he would like to introduce American agricultural implements and machinery into the district in which he does business. He states that he has good connections with people interested in this line and feels sure a good business can be built up, if he can form the proper connections.

6,826. BUILDING MATERIALS AND OFFICE FITTINGS.—An American Consul of an island in the Indian Ocean reports that a company in his district is about to begin the construction of a six-story office building for an insurance company, and invites correspondence with firms in the United States furnishing materials used for this purpose. It will require materials and fittings of all kinds, including elevators, &c. Interested American firms should lose no time in communicating with the builders.

6,827. CATALOGUES AND TRADE JOURNALS.—The American Consul General at Singapore, Straits Settlements, reports that he has on file a large number of catalogues and trade journals in a commercial reading room. It is proposed in a short time to print a list of such publications for distribution among the local merchants. This will undoubtedly stimulate interest in American manufactures and will increase the number of persons who consult the catalogues. It is requested that American manufacturers take note of this fact and supply catalogues of different products to the consulate general.

6,828. WIRE ROPE.—A report from an American Consul states that two firms in his district which supply local estates with aerial tramways for the transportation of certain products have requested to be placed in communication with American manufacturers of wire rope.

6,829. CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN GOODS.—The Bureau of Manufactures is in receipt of a communication from a consular officer of a foreign Government stating that his Government is desirous of receiving catalogues with price lists and discounts of certain classes of American articles, to be placed on file in the office of commercial information in the home country. These catalogues are to serve the purpose of more readily making out orders for such articles needed by the Government. Catalogues and correspondence, preferably in Spanish, should be addressed to an official whose name is given in the letter. The articles in which a special interest is shown are as follows: Rifles, telephones, school books and outfits, books, carpenters' outfits, uniforms, powder, dynamite, iron, cement, paints, cotton drills, cotton print cloths, canned goods, furniture, telegraph instruments and material, papers, and all other kinds of merchandise used by Governments.

6,830. STEAM TRAMWAY FOR SOUTH AMERICAN CITY.—An American Consul in South America reports that an association is being organized in his district to operate a steam tramway between two points, the object of which is to take passengers and freight from the wharf to interior points. The road will run through one of the best farming sections of the consular district, which produces various kinds of fruits, &c. The estimated cost of its construction will be about $30,880. The President of the association desires to be put in communication with American manufacturers of engines, cars, and rails, to give him details and prices.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Company Formed to Take Over Madison Square Garden—Another Pinkney Estate Parcel Resold at a Handsome Profit—Deal in Fourth Avenue Loft Zone.

In the opinion of realty men all doubt was set at rest yesterday regarding the prospective purchase of Madison Square Garden by the announcement of the incorporation of a company known as the F. & D. Company for the purpose of acquiring and developing the property. Although Alwyn Ball, Jr., who obtained a sixty days' option on the property over a month ago, paying, it is said, somewhat over $25,000 for the option, does not appear among the Directors, it is understood that the company represents the conclusion of the efforts to finance the deal, and that all preliminaries are virtually concluded to take up the option. In fact, a meeting of the interested parties will be held this week, when the contract is likely to be signed for the sale of the Garden. The price put upon the property by the Directors some time ago was $3,500,000.

The object of the new company as expressed in the incorporation papers is "to acquire by purchase, lease, or otherwise, the real estate, together with the improvements thereon, situated in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, bounded by Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh Streets, Fourth and Madison Avenues, and commonly known as Madison Square Garden, as well as other real estate adjacent thereto requisite for the purpose of this company; also, to improve the same either by building or otherwise."

The capitalization of the company is placed at $200,000, and the Directors named are William H. Randel, Henry Caplan, and Frederick H. Van Houten, all of 68 William Street. The attorneys for the concern are Olney & Comstock of 68 William Street. No further information was vouchsafed at the offices of the F. & D. Company, although it was admitted that a meeting would be held this week, and at this meeting some important action is expected regarding the final sale of the Garden.

An element of interest in the incorporation was the clause implying that the company was likely to acquire other real estate in the immediate vicinity of the Garden. When the option was given last month it was stated that the sale of the Garden would be made subject to the leases which have already been made for the big shows in the Fall and Winter, among them being the horse show and the automobile show, so that whatever plans the new owners may have for developing the property the building itself will not be disturbed until late in the Winter or early in the Spring of 1912. Henry Corn has been actively associated with Alwyn Ball, Jr., in the present negotiatons.

Resale of Pinkney Property.

The resale of another parcel of the Pinkney estate realty was announced yesterday by Heilner & Wolf and S. H. Stone, who sold 605 Fifth Avenue, a four-story dwelling, on a lot 25 by 100.

The sellers purchased the property at the sale of the Pinkney estate held by Auctioneer Joseph P. Day on May 15 for $325,000.

They were asking $400,000, but it is understood that the buyers, a building syndicate, paid somewhat less. A fireproof loft will be erected on the site.

At the Pinkney sale, 605 Fifth Avenue and the stable property, comprising an "L" to 2 East Forty-ninth Street, were offered as one parcel, bringing $499,000, and were then put up separately. Heilner & Wolf bid $325,000 for No. 605. As the Forty-ninth Street parcel was in the middle of a plot owned by Eliza W. White, her representatives, who were there to secure it, were obliged to pay $175,000 for it to prevent the entire plot going to the original bidder at $499,000.

This is the third resale of Fifth Avenue property originally sold and advertised for public auction by Joseph P. Day during the past month, and aggregating in sales and resales over $2,000,000; 548 Fifth Avenue, a parcel 25 feet north of Forty-fifth Street, on the westerly side of the avenue, advertised to be sold on May 11 at public auction, was sold at private sale and since resold for a figure approximating nearly $900,000; 1,045 Fifth Avenue, which was advertised to be sold at public auction on May 25 is another parcel which has figured in the realty market of late, having been acquired by Russell Hopkins, Consul General of Panama.

The Charles F. Morse house, 728 Fifth Avenue, which was sold about two months ago at the stand of Joseph P. Day, was reported resold within the past week to Harry Payne Whitney. This parcel, figuring the auction sale and the resale, approximates over $800,000.

Fourth Avenue Loft Zone Deal.

An important sale in the lower Fourth Avenue loft zone was announced yesterday by Webster B. Mabie & Co., who sold for Florence McKeever and Andrew J. Bastine the property at 59 Fourth Avenue, and two stables abutting on Lafayette Court on Ninth Street, just east of Fourth Avenue. The Fourth Avenue property is an eight-story loft building on a lot 25 by 175 by irregular, comprising a plot of about 4,800 feet, and having a right of way over Lafayette Court to Ninth Street.

The two stables adjoin this property on Lafayette Court and are each built on a plot 30 by 46, but the fee includes 37½ by 46, the 7½ feet being half of the court, in which the abutting owners have common right of way.

The Andros Realty Company, of which William M. Benjamin is President, is reported to be the buyer.

The Private Dwelling Market.

Van Vliet & Place have sold for D. Rosenbaum the four-story brownstone dwelling on a lot 25 by 98.9, 352 West Twenty-third Street.

The same brokers have also sold the three and four story buildings 283 West Twelfth Street and 322 West Fourth Street, being the northwest corner, on a lot 24 by 65, to Henry W. Schwartz.

The four-story store front dwelling 44 East Sixty-fourth Street, on a lot 12.5 by 100.5, has been sold by Melvina S. Dodd to an investor.

Resale in Manhattanville.

Bing & Bing have resold the six-story flat at the northeast corner of 135th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, occupying a plot 56 by 100.

The property was acquired a couple of weeks ago by the sellers, who took it in a trade for a plot on the south side of 120th Street, 150 feet east of Amsterdam Avenue. Arnold, Byrne & Baumann negotiated the sale.

Harlem Tenements in Trade.

E. Sharum sold to a client 62 and 64 East 107th Street, two five-story tenements, 25 by 100. Seven lots at Springfield Gardens, Jamaica, N. Y., were given as part payment.

Brooklyn.

E. Sharum has sold to a client 8,646 Eighteenth Avenue, a three-story three-family frame house and barn, on a plot 22.9½ by 96.8.

The Scarsdale Estates report the following sales: In the Greenacres tract, a plot to Dr. Shepard of New York City, for immediate improvement; in the Murray Hill tract, two plots consisting of about three acres, to Arthur Stewart, upon which the buyer will begin at once the erection of a residence.

Ellen E. Beare has sold to Henry Ludlow of Manhattan a parcel, 119 by 272 on the north side of Bay Avenue, 108 feet east of Beach Place and running to and along Little Neck Bay 34 feet, at Douglaston.

E. Sharum has sold to a client two lots at Keyport, N. J.; fourteen lots at Egg Harbor City, N. J., and two lots at Bellport, L. I.

Increases Capital Stock.

The corporation styled the Estates of Long Beach has filed a certificate with the Secretary of State announcing that the amount of the capital stock has been increased from $5,000,000 to $5,650,000.

New Lofts for East 19th Street.

The property at 106 East Nineteenth Street, recently reported sold, was purchased by clients of Webster B. Mabie & Co., who announce that plans have just been completed for the erection of a twelve-story building for offices and salesrooms. This property is 25 by 92, and is uniquely situated in that on the east there is a two-story power house of the Interborough Subway, occupying a lot 50 by 92, and on the west is a one-story extension of the American Woolen Company's building, extending through from Eighteenth Street, also occupying a lot 50 by 92. This gives the new building light on all four sides, and it is intended to plan it for occupancy for concerns requiring small space and which wish to be in close proximity to the very large silk and woolen houses which are now occupying the large structures on Fourth Avenue. The building will be ready in December, 1911. Webster B. Mabie & Co. have been appointed as agents.

Big Loft for 37th Street.

Plans have been filed for the construction of a twelve-story loft building on the south side of Thirty-seventh Street, 308.2 feet west of Fifth Avenue, for light manufacturing purposes. It will be 63.11 feet front by 88.9 feet deep, with a façade of brick, with terra cotta trimmings. Julius Sternfeld is the owner. George and Edward Blum, architects, estimate the cost at $250,000.

Addition to "Ehrichs's."

Plans have been filed for building an extension on the northwest corner of Sixth Avenue and Twenty-second Street, thereby enlarging the five-story department store adjoining, formerly Ehrics's, and recently leased by the Jacob L. Kesner Company. It will cost $25,000, according to the estimates of the architects, Taylor & Levi.

Notes.

The Harlem Property Owners' Association will hold a meeting at 147 East 125th Street Thursday evening.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company has loaned on first mortgage to the Callahan Estate, Incorporated, $50,000 on the two four-story dwellings at 152 and 154 West Fifty-eighth Street.

Frederick Zittel & Son were the brokers in the sale of 19 West Eighty-sixth Street.

S. Osgood Pell & Co. have leased for the Narada Realty Company to Kano Oshima the top floor at 27 West Thirty-eighth Street and the first loft to Frank Blasi.

Pease & Elliman have leased stores at 313 Broadway for Harry S. Kelsey to H. B. Kaiser, 87 Beaver Street for the United States Realty and Improvement Company to the Coleman Liquid Copper Company, and 24 Albany Street for Sahadi Brothers to the Standard Lubricant Company.

LONG ISLAND—FOR SALE OR TO LET.

18 Minutes From Herald Square

You New Yorkers who dream of a home in the country—but have no eye or mind for the average "life-in-the-country" proposition, with its checkerboard layout of skimpy lots, sunbaked roads, wilting saplings and its time-consuming distance from the city— —will be glad to hear of Oakland, the highly restricted Tuxedo of Long Island, and its little country estates in New York City.

Oakland

is situated at Bayside, L. I., Borough of Queens, New York City—a cool, comfortable 18 minute trip from Herald Square on the new Penn. R.R. Just long enough for running through the morning paper.
It was the fine old country estate of Effingham Lawrence—a Country Gentleman, who used his wealth and cultured taste to beautify its landscape.
Oakland is a beautiful rolling park, shaded with grand old trees, that have a settled, glad-we're-here look. Cool, wide roads and quiet shaded paths rove and curve around the park as if they loved it.
A landscape architect has divided Oakland into small country estates from one-fourth to one acre, according to the demands of the landscape. Each plot is an ideal setting for a homestead, and is priced from $3,000 up.
Oakland has an elevation of nearly 200 feet, and commands a fine view of The Sound. It is very healthy and offers unlimited opportunity for outdoor pastimes such as golf, tennis, water sports, etc. And withal it includes every city improvement, electricity, gas, water and sewers.

ENGINE PICKS UP BUGGY.

Farmer Carried Two Miles Before Engineer Knew of Accident.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., June 6.—While Ray Van Meter, a Berkeley County farmer, was driving across the Baltimore & Ohio tracks last night his buggy was hit by a train and the horse killed. The buggy, with Van Meter in it, was picked up on the pilot and carried two miles.

Van Meter in the meantime crawled along the footboard into the cab and informed Engineer Keyser of the accident, demanding that the train be stopped and the splinters of his buggy be removed from the pilot.

When this had been accomplished Van Meter sarcastically asked whether he would be arrested for stealing a ride. He was only slightly injured.

INSPECTOR DILLON IS MADE A DEPUTY

First Member of the Present-Day Uniformed Force to Hold a Commissionership.

NEW BUREAU CREATED

Capt. Hughes Put in Command of a Merged Plain Clothes Squad—Five Captains Shifted.

James E. Dillon, Borough Inspector of Brooklyn since Jan. 1, with a long record in the Police Department, was picked yesterday to be the first member of the uniformed police ever removed directly from the force to occupy a desk in Headquarters as Deputy Commissioner. There is no more popular man in the department than Dillon. As Fourth Deputy Commissioner he will have charge of the discipline of the force, and hold the police trials for Manhattan, Bronx, and Richmond. He has the reputation of being fair and capable.

The new Deputy will hold rank as such under a leave of absence from the Police Department, at present granted to next Jan. 1, with the understanding that it may be extended until such time as a change of administration or other event causes his retirement as Deputy Commissioner. He will then resume his Inspector's rank, and the absence will have no effect in the reckoning of term of service in considering his pension or seniority rank.

Dillon is 48 years old and lives at 510 East Eighty-seventh Street. He joined the old Central Park force on March 18, 1885. After this force was merged into the City Police Department he became a roundsman, in 1887. Twenty years later he was made an Inspector, and this year, after a temporary eclipse, he was made Borough Inspector of Brooklyn. His salary as an Inspector was $3,500, and as Fourth Deputy he will receive $6,000.

The present system in the Detective Bureau is to be considerably altered. Commissioner Waldo has made a shift among the bureaus with a view to leaving department heads freer to do the work for which they are primarily responsible. A great many separate branches of police work have been scattered around among the various departments, "cluttering up the office," as one official expressed it, and interfering with the activities of department heads.

Most of these bureaus have now been lumped under one department and placed under the command of Capt. Edward P. Hughes, formerly of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station. He now controls the movements of the largest plain clothes body in the city, having 400 men and fifteen Lieutenants under him. He has the vice, social evil, school census, boiler, "strong arm," and motorcycle squads. This will relieve Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and Inspector Russell of the necessity of making raids.

In the future the initiative for this sort of work will come from the Inspector of a district, whose Captains will report to him. Places suspected of violating the law will be reported by the Inspectors and Captains directly to Capt. Hughes. The former officials in future will have nothing more to do with the matter after they have reported it to Police Headquarters.

Capt. Hughes will investigate the places suspected and will send his men there after evidence. In the event of their getting it, the raids will be made by Capt. Hughes and the men under his command. It is said that in the new force detectives assigned for raiding will be sure of not keeping the assignment long. It is proposed to keep these men only until they become known to the gambling fraternity or others against whom their efforts are directed.

Five transfers of Captains were announced yesterday: Capt. Henry Burfeind, from East Twenty-second Street to West Forty-seventh Street; Capt. John J. McNally, from West Forty-seventh Street to East Sixty-seventh Street; Capt. Frank J. Morris, from Highbridge to East Twenty-second Street; Capt. Charles E. Wendell, from Hamburg Avenue, Brooklyn, to Highbridge, and Capt. Patrick Tracy, from Williamsburg Bridge to Hamburg Avenue. It was also rumored around headquarters that another Borough Inspector of Brooklyn, in Dillon's place, as well as some new Inspectors, will be appointed to-day.

As a result of the creation of Capt. Hughes's bureau, as yet unnamed, it was rumored that Chief Inspector Schmittberger was about to retire. There seems to be little basis for this belief, however. The general opinion is that Schmittberger advised the change, as relieving him of work that interfered with his regular duty, that of direct head of the uniformed men of the department. When the rumor of Schmittberger's retirement reached Headquarters an official denial was made.

To carry on the work of the regular detective Bureau, it is said that new blood will be added immediately by the designation of fifty young patrolmen. The work of examining possibilities for this list went on yesterday, Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and Inspector Russell personally superintending.

The Bureau of Repairs and Supplies has been assigned to First Deputy Commissioner McKay, originally slated for the place Dillon now holds. Deputy Commissioner Walsh will have his headquarters in Brooklyn and will have charge of the police trials in that borough and Queens, while Dougherty will have full charge of the Detective Bureau, and nothing more.

O'KEEFFE HEAD OF BRIDGES.

His Place in Fire Department Goes to Archbishop Farley's Nephew.

Arthur J. O'Keeffe, Deputy Fire Commissioner, was appointed Bridge Commissioner to succeed Kingsley Martin by Mayor Gaynor yesterday. Mr. Martin resigned Saturday. Philip P. Farley, a civil engineer and nephew of Archbishop Farley, was appointed Deputy Fire Commissioner to take the place of Mr. O'Keeffe. It is understood that Mr. Farley, who is a Brooklynite, will be at the head of the Fire Department in Brooklyn, as was Mr. O'Keeffe.

It was also made known that the Mayor is anxious to appoint Thomas W. Churchill, a lawyer, with offices at 68 Wall Street, to be Deputy Fire Commissioner in place of Joseph Johnson, Jr., who was recently made Commissioner.

Mr. Farley was graduated from Cooper Union in 1893. Previous to that he attended St. John's College, Brooklyn. He holds the degree of Ph. D. from St. Francis Xavier College. He practiced engineering for three years in this city, and then went to Atlantic City, where he was Chief Assistant to the City Engineer. He was the Democratic candidate for State Engineer and Surveyor in 1908, but declined to allow his name to be presented for nomination last year.

While members of the Mayor's staff was searching for Mr. Farley to tell him of his appointment he was at the Marriage License Bureau getting a lincense to marry Alice Donohue, daughter of Owen Donohue of Prospect Avenue, Bronx. He is to be married on Thursday.

A BANKRUPT OF LEISURE.

George L. Davidson, Who Has Inherited Fortunes, Again Seeks Relief.

George L. Davidson, who lives at Le Marquis Hotel, 12 East Thirty-first Street, filed yesterday a petition in bankruptcy, showing liabilities of $16,935, and no assets available for his creditors. Mr. Davidson comes from an old New York family, and has lived all his life on his private income. From time to time he has inherited fortunes, which it is said have amounted to more than $500,000, but he has spent a large part of these, and now for the second time, is obliged to go through the bankruptcy court.

He filed his first petition on Feb. 1, 1901, and got his discharge on Oct. 28, in the same year, in this way, settling debts amounting to $29,233. At that time he said that he was living at the rate of from $20,000 to $25,000 a year, and some time before had come in for $200,000 from the Laytin estate. Of this money he declared that he gave $45,000 to his first wife, and most of the rest he spent in traveling. Speculation in Wall Street also took another portion.

Mr. Davidson at present owns a life interest in one-third of the residuary estate of Ellen L. Davidson, a life interest in one-fifth of the residuary estate of Abby E. Laytin, and also a life interest of $1,000 under the latter's will. None of this, however, can be touched by the creditors. His friends described him yesterday as a man, whose knowledge of business is small, who has lived too comfortably for his means without being spectacularly extravagant. He is married and has three children.

The present petition in bankruptcy was filed in order to put an end to an examination in supplementary proceedings at the instance of Joseph, Incorporated, milliners of 3 West Thirtieth Street. This firm obtained a judgment against Mr. Davidson on March 17, for $1,106 for millinery, which the Sheriff returned as unsatisfied. Saul S. Myers, attorney for Mr. Davidson, applied yesterday to Judge Hand in the United States District Court for an order restraining any further action for a year on this judgment, and the order was granted.

Joseph, Incorporated, is the only creditor to bring action against Mr. Davidson. From his schedules it appears that he also owes his house servant for wages, $276; Lillian L. Davidson, $10,000, for money loaned four years ago, Charles M. Davidson, $200; W. E. Paynter of Long Island City, $800, both for loans; the Le Marquis Hotel Company, $938, and E. H. Chatillon, $938; both for rent; Wm. Reiman, for jewelry, $500; Smith, Gray & Co., for clothing, $610; Lee Levey, for clothing, $225; Bergdorf & Goodman Co., for clothing, $319; Maison Violette, $225; D. E. Duclos, for men's furnishings, $28; Dr. H. L. Purdy, for professional services, $100; Miss Dana's School, Morristown, N. J., for tuition for his daughter, $541.

SAYS ELLISON FIRED.

Witness Describes the Killing of Harrington in Paul Kelly's Resort.

Two witnesses were examined yesterday in the trial of Joseph Ellison, who is on trial for murder in the first degree before Justice Davis in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, charged with shooting and killing William J. Harrington in Paul Kelly's place at 57 Great Jones Street in November, 1905. He was arrested for the murder a month ago.

The principal witness was John Hogan, a reformed gang member, who is better known as "Rough House" Hogan. He testified that he was in Kelly's place on the night of the shooting and that he was standing near a stove when Kelly, Harrington, and a man named George Wetzel entered and walked to the bar. Soon three men entered wearing big overcoats. One of them called Kelly over to where he was standing and asked:

"Have you got any friends in this place?"

"They are all my friends," Kelly answered, according to the witness.

Hogan testified that at that instant Ellison drew a revolver and held it close to Kelly's body. The two struggled for a few minutes, and a shot was fired. Kelly ran from the place, and two more shots were fired, and Harrington fell to the floor.

The second witness, Wetzel, corroborated most of Hogan's account, but was unable to identify Ellison positively as the man who did the shooting.

The trial will continue to-day.

JEWELS GONE AFTER SUPPER.

Taxicab Driver Arrested, Charged with Robbing a Woman Passenger.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith of 253 Edgecombe Avenue recently appealed to the police to find her two diamond rings, a diamond pin, a diamond horshoe, a diamond-studded watch, and a fob set with two diamonds, which, she said, were lost on the night of last May 17, by a friend, Mrs. Marian McNulty of Sound Beach, Conn. Mrs. Smith told the police she suspected a taxicab driver of the theft, and last night Detectives Brown, Griffin, and Browne, arrested Robert J. Doyle of 126 Bradhurst Avenue. He admitted that he drove Mrs. Smith and Mrs. McNulty to their homes on the night of May 17.

Mrs. Smith said that Mrs. McNulty was visiting friends in this city, and on the evening of May 17 had accompanied her to the theatre. After supper they had ridden home in Doyle's taxicab, Mrs. McNulty continuing to the home of her friends after Mrs. Smith had alighted at her own door.

Early next morning Mrs. McNulty was found helpless outside the home of her friends. The jewelry which Mrs. Smith says she had lent to the visitor from Connecticut was missing.

Doyle, who was found by the detectives at Sixty-sixth Street and Broadway last night, declared that he had not taken the jewelry. He insisted that he had driven Mrs. McNulty to the address she gave and had left her there.

These bodies, it is stated, represent the almost unanimous sentiment of the leading busines men of their repective cities, which have a combined population of 19,000,000. To Erect Memorial to "Little Tim."

Alderman John J. White, who succeeded "Little Tim" Sullivan in the board, asked the board yesterday for permission to erect a granite memorial to "Little Tim" in the shape of a water fountain to stand at Delancey Street and the Bowery. He explained that the fountain is to become the property of the city, and his request was granted.

HOUSING CONFERREES INSPECT TENEMENTS

Impressed by Model Dwellings Here, but They Esteem Separative System More Highly.

RAPID INCREASE OF THE FLY

Screens Upon Garbage Receptacles, It Is Suggested, Would Greatly Lessen Grave Sanitary Danger.

After spending yesterday morning visiting the best New York can show them in improved tenement houses, the delegates to the Housing Conference settled down in the afternoon to consider how much better off other cities are, with small separate houses for working men. The places they visited were the Riverside Buildings in Brooklyn, and the Phipps Tenements in Manhattan, and they also spent half an hour seeing the Tenement House Department at actual work. But gratified as the delegates were at the difference between these improved structures and those they had seen on Monday, the opinion was freely expressed that the systems of small houses, described in Philadelphia and Youngstown, Ohio, were far superior.

Miss Helen L. Parrish, Director of the Octavia Hill Association, Philadelphia, was the first to sing the praises of the small house. In her city, she said, there are 185,000 two-story houses, and of these, 8,034 were built last year. Most of them are of the six-room variety, and have no rooms that have not direct access by windows to the outer air. The more modern are provided with bathroom, furnace, kitchen sink, range, and stationary washtubs, and have often a small extension beside a porch and yard. Many of them can be bought for from $2,000 to $2,500 each, and rent for as little as $15 or $20 a month.

J. M. Hanson of Youngstown, Ohio, told what a company with which he is connected had done in the way of providing small houses in the last year. Since May of last year ten three-room houses, each with its own bath and laundry, and forty-nine detached single-family houses, containing four or five rooms each, besides a bath and laundry, have been erected. Though the land cost as much as $3,000 an acre, and each house has a 70-foot yard at its rear, the investment has proved a profitable one.

Others bore testimony to the advantage of the small family house, and then the convention turned its attention to garbage and rubbish. Luther E. Lovejoy, Secretary of the Housing Commission of Detroit, presented a paper in which special stress was laid on the fecundity of the housefly.

"Between Spring and Fall," he declared, "two industrious houseflies can become the proud progenitors of at least nineteen quintillions, (19,000,000,000,000,000,000) of lusty maggots."

This brought forth from Virgil G. Marani of Cleveland, Ohio, the suggestion that garbage pails should be screened. "It is the fragments of the refuse that cling to the pails," he said, "which are dangerous. I do not see why cities should not provide paper receptacles for garbage, which should be removed and destroyed with the waste every day or two. They would cost very little and then there would be no more dirty cans, from which at present it is practically impossible to remove every trace of garbage."

The necessity for proper supervision of housing in the smaller cities as well as in the larger ones was brought out at the evening session by Elmer S. Forbes, Chairman of the State Housing Committee of the Massachusetts Civic League of Boston. In the towns of from 2,500 to 25,000 people, he declared, might be discovered if not slum districts, slum spots, which may easily spread. Among the remedies Mr. Forbes proposed was the education of the community to the danger, and the adoption by the smaller towns of a simple tenement house law adapted to their conditions. He was supported by Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon of Evansville, Ind., who spoke from experience of the conditions prevailing in the shacks on the outskirts of such towns as Terre Haute. Of one village which she knew it was said that no girl was safe five minutes after she entered it.

Capt. Charles J. Allen, Secretary of the Board of Tenement House Supervision of New Jersey, told something of the difficulties with which he has to cope.

"I told one man who wanted to erect a tenement house," he said, "that his plan of plumbing was a sure way to distribute sewer gas through the house. He replied that it didn't matter, as all the twelve apartments were to be occupied by Italians."

Capt. Allen declared that nearly all the bills in the New Jersey Legislature which crippled the tenement house work came from Jersey City.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your issue of to-day, gives a report of the investigations, conditions found, and recommendations, of the Housing Delegates of the National Conference on Housing, held in New York yesterday. Everything was considered in the way of open spaces, alleys, cleaning up and enlarging back yards, cleaning out damp and dark cellars and filthy hallways, cutting windows into dark hallways, renovating houses that could not be rebuilt, &c., but not a word was said about using the roofs of houses for the children. What an opportunity this committee has overlooked, when one considers the large floor space covered by the roofs of tenement houses, where air and sunshine exist, and where, if arranged for, children can be saved from the streets, with their dangers to life and limb and demoralizing influences!

The parks and playgrounds offer much in the way of outdoor recreation, but there are many children who never can get to them, for various reasons. The roof, as a valuable economic means of saving lives and reducing mortality, is recognized and taken advantage of at our hospitals. Hotels and theatres increase their attractiveness by having roof gardens. Why, then, should not the large space of tenement roofs be arranged for the children of the tenement districts, where fresh air is at a premium?

O'GORMAN COUNSEL IN COURT

Ex-Justice Argues for Post to Set Collier's Libel Verdict.

United States Senator James A. O'Gorman, who left the Supreme Court Bench after his election by the Legislature, made his first appearance as a practising attorney for many years yesterday in one of the court rooms where he sat frequently as a jurist.

Senator O'Gorman appeared as counsel for C. W. Post, the manufacturer of substitute coffee. He argued that a $50,000 verdict for libel against Post obtained by Collier's Weekly be set aside. Justice Brady reserved decision.

PLEADS FOR WIRELESS MEN.

Lawyer Makes Technical Argument for Their Release on Bail.

John B. Stanchfield, counsel for Col. C. C. Wilson, the President of the United Wireless Company, who was convicted with four of his associates in the United States Circuit Court last week of swindling investors in the stock of that corporation by the fraudulent use of the mails, applied yesterday before Judges Lacombe, Noyes, and Ward of the United States Circuit Court to have his client admitted to bail pending an appeal. Mr. Stanchfield was accompanied by counsel for the other convicted men—F. X. Butler, W. W. Tompkins, G. H. Parker, and W. A. Dibboll—but by agreement he spoke for all the defendants.

Technical points were raised by the lawyer against the admission of evidence on the trial and against the indictment. Among other things less technical Mr. Stanchfield declared that Judge Martin, who presided at the trial, had committed an error in not telling the defense that the United States Attorney had informed the court that one of the jurors had been approached with a proposal to hang the case.

United States Attorney Wise replied with a spirited review of the evidence, and then Judge Noyes asked him if the offense of which the men had been convicted was an extraditable one.

"No, your Honor," replied Mr. Wise, "and there are a number of men who have fled this country after being admitted to bail following their convinction and sentence. There is Charles C. Brown, convicted of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. He is now in Canada. There are Jules and Hugo Rosenberg, who forfeited $20,000 bail. There is Ergott, who jumped $15,000 bail, and there are others who have been released by this court under similar circumstances.

COTTONSEED OIL MEN HERE.

Mayor Gaynor Is to Open Their Convention and There'll Be Much Ado.

Mayor Gaynor will make the welcoming speech that opens the fifteenth annual convention of the Inter-State Cottonseed Crushers' Association to-day. The sessions will extend through Thursday and Friday. The convention is to have entertainment in full share. This includes an automobile trip, winding up with a shore dinner at Coney Island; an organ recital concert, luncheon, and tea party. The delegates are to take tea aboard the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II. to-morrow.

The dinner at the Hotel Astor will be held Thursday evening and President Taft has been invited as the guest of honor. The list of speakers includes Chauncey M. Depew, President Finley of City College, President Hepburn of the Chamber of Commerce, and President Taylor of the Crushers' Association. President E. R. Carhart of the New York Produce Exchange will be the toastmaster.

The Produce Exchange Friday night is to be the scene of such doing as it has not seen since its opening in 1884, for the delegates will take possession for a concert with music by the Seventh Regiment Band. The cottonseed oil market will close at noon during the three days of the convention.

On the steamship City of Montgomery, from Savannah, Ga., last evening, came a party of members of the association numbering with their wives and daughters 152.

AVIATION BAD FOR COWS.

Objections at Annapolis to Farm Being Used for Aeroplane Flights.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 6.—Because the officers who made the preliminary examination of the ground around Annapolis belonging to the navy, and available for the aviation work to start early in July, have chosen as a starting place the field set aside for the herd of cows which is to supply the midshipmen with pure milk, a conflict is threatened between those who are to conduct the experimental work in aviation and those who are interested in the equipment of the model dairy for the midshipmen.

The ground in question is the Greenberry Point farm recently purchased by the Government for $80,000. Those who have had charge of the arrangements for the dairy fear that the flights of the aeroplanes and their quick descents will frighten the valuable animals which have been purchased and interfere with the quality of the milk.

The experiments are the first in aviation to be conducted by the Navy Department. Three aeroplanes are promised by July 1, and experiments in flying over land and water will be conducted. Capt. W. I. Chambers will be the representative of the Department here, and the aeroplanes will be handled by Lieuts. Theodore G. Ellison and John Rodgers.

BURGLARY IN DAYLIGHT.

Flatbush Again the Scene of a Bold and Successful Robbery.

Another daylight robbery in Flatbush was reported yesterday by Henry C. Von Elm, an officer of the Manufacturers' National Bank, who lives at 342 East Twenty-fifth Street, in that section. While his wife was rehearsing for the marriage of her brother, Charles W. Meyer, who is to be married early next week to Anna Martha Meyer, the daughter of Henry A. Meyer, a builder, burglars, after carefully removing the burglar alarm, entered the house and carried away jewelry and silverware valued at $2,000. The Von Elms have been married about a year and their many wedding gifts were stolen.

Mrs. Von Elm left her home at 1:30 in the afternoon and went to the home of Henry A. Meyer at Newkirk Avenue and East Twenty-fifth Street, one block away. She returned at 5 o'clock and found that the house had been ransacked. Almost everything of value had been carried away. The floors were strewn with articles which the thieves had not thought good enough to take with them. They showed that they were judges of jewelry by leaving behind them all the plated articles.

A watch must have been kept on the house and the burglars probably entered it soon after Mrs. Von Elm left. The police believe that the work was done by old and experienced criminals.

USED HER UMBRELLA ON HIM.

Man Who Followed Mrs. Fuller Beaten and Sent to Workhouse.

Another Broadway annoyer was sent to the Workhouse yesterday, thereby causing much joy to several policemen and others who look upon the flirtatious young men of the Tenderloin with disfavor. The trip to the Workhouse was a sequel to an encounter between Mrs. Grace Fuller of 1,302 Park Place, Brooklyn, and Morris Day of 17 West 125th Street.

Mrs. Fuller went to a music publisher's place in Thirty-fourth Street yesterday afternoon, and was on her way to a Subway station when Day began following her. Up Broadway to Thirty-ninth Street he kept close to her, and there he accosted her.

Day only spoke once. The next instant Mrs. Fuller was swinging her umbrella with force and precision on his head. The umbrella soon broke. Tossing it aside, Mrs. Fuller went at Day with her fists and feet. He was soon lying on the sidewalk, pleading for mercy. Just then two policemen came up on the run. They took Day to the Tenderloin Station, in West Thirtieth Street, and thence to Jefferson Market Court. Mrs. Fuller went along to appear against him.

ARMSTRONG'S CROOK SENT TO SING SING

Judge Rosalsky Gives the Playwright's Stage Burglar a Two-and-a-Half-Year Sentence.

HE JUST COULDN'T BE GOOD

Fell from Grace When He Began to Drink—34 Years of His Life Spent in Prison.

James Brown, alias Daniel Mason, the aged and feeble criminal, whom Judge Rosalsky paroled in the custody of Paul Armstrong, the playwright, at the latter's request, and who subsequently fell from grace, was sentenced to two years and six months in Sing Sing yesterday, and adjudged an habitual criminal. This means that he can be arrested at any time after his release as a suspicious person.

Brown is 57 years old, and has a criminal record extending back to 1873. He has spent thirty-four years of his life behind prison bars for crimes not one of which ever netted him more than 15 cents. He was arraigned before Judge Rosalsky in April, charged with burglary in the third degree as a fourth offender, for which he might have got a life sentence. He was charged with breaking a window at 309 Broadway on March 29, and attempting to steal some cheap jewelry. He pleaded guilty and sent a pathetic letter to Judge Rosalsky asking for clemency. This so affected the Judge that he decided to give Brown another chance, and paroled him in the custody of Mr. Armstrong, who had asked the court to parole a burglar in his custody so that he might study him and obtain material for a play.

Brown promised to reform, and Mr. Armstrong gave him employment at $14 a week in a one-act play of his called "A Romance of the Underworld," in which a courtroom is shown on the stage, and in which criminals are arraigned for sentence. Brown had to appear on the stage daily, and be sentenced for burglary.

For some time all went well with him, and then he began to drink, and last Friday he broke another window and attempted to steal a suitcase valued at 96 cents. He was arrested while making away with his plunder. It was on his first indictment, that of attempted burglary, that Judge Rosalsky sentenced him yesterday.

Brown was arraigned in the very courtroom which is pictured on the stage, and when Judge Rosalsky asked him if he had anything to say the old criminal raised his right hand solemnly and said:

"Your Honor, I tried to do my very best. I reported to you, as I promised, and I worked for Mr. Armstrong. I wanted to be square and honest, but, your Honor, I met some friends and began to drink. I got drunk, and I am crazy when I get drunk."

Here the gray-haired criminal began to sob. Judge Rosalsky then said:

"When I paroled you in the custody of Mr. Armstrong you promised me that I would never have cause to regret my act. I did not think I would. In fact, only quite recently I cited your case from a public platform as an instance where a man, after spending almost thirty-four years in prison, had made good when he had the opportunity given to him by a merciful Judge.

"Not only did I parole you, but I obtained employment for you with Mr. Armstrong. It was better work than you ever had before, and you received more money than you had ever earned before, even more than you ever realized from the many burglaries you have pleaded guilty to time and time again.

"I agree with Mr. Armstrong that your case is hopeless. You had your opportunity which you claimed had been denied you, but you failed to make good. I am going to revoke your parole on the indictment to which you pleaded guilty and impose the maximum sentence for that crime, namely, two years and six months in Sing Sing. I am also going to adjudge you a habitual criminal, so that hereafter you will be under the constant surveillance of the police, and if the District Attorney deems it advisable to find an indictment against you for your last offense you will be a fourth offender and will have to spend the rest of your life behind prison bars."

Judge Rosalsky then read to Brown a letter he had received from Mr. Armstrong, dated June 2. It read:

> I regret to say that my charge, James Brown, is impossible. After the first talk with him I feared that he was nothing but a bum—not a criminal, but a bum. He is likely accorded better treatment by me than he has ever known in his life, but he simply must get drunk. As you perhaps know, he was given employment as a supernumerary in my play, "A Romance of the Underworld," and his salary was $14 a week. He was treated with every consideration. Then he began to drink.
>
> Those with the play concealed the fact for nearly a week, trying to get him straight, but finally he was reported. I went to the theatre and found him drunk. I tried to talk with him, but he insisted that I was wrong in the first premise—he was not drunk. I told the stage manager not to let him go on that night, and asked Brown to report sober the next day. He did not return to the theatre until several days later, and I am now informed that he was seen somewhere drunk by a mehmber of the company. He will doubtless do some petty larceny thing soon. I regret that I failed, but there was nothing to work on.
> P. S.—This lay on my desk to mail this morning when a newspaper informed me of his fall. However, I send it.

Brown apparently took his downfall greatly to heart. To those about him he vowed he would never take another drink and would redeem himself once he is free again.

FIGHT IN A TAMMANY CLUB.

Julius Harburger, Who Has Just Resigned as Leader, Stopped It.

Julius Harburger, Deputy State Controller, resigned as leader of the Tenth Assembly District last night and incidentally acted as a peacemaker in quelling what had all the signs of a free-for-all fight in the Tammany Club at 42 Second Avenue. The row started over the choice of Mr. Harburger's successor. Two factions were at odds—the regular clubs of the Tenth Assembly District and the Citizens' Association, headed by Dr. Sol Goldenkranz.

Early in the evening several of the younger members of the club began to quarrel and a fist fight started near the door, each contestant cheered on by his following. Springing upon the top of the speaker's table, Mr. Harburger waved his arms above the heads of the excited men and called on the 500 or more men to sit down.

Then the Deputy Controller reached over to the fighting men and pulled them apart. After that there was order.

The selection of Mr. Harburger's successor was referred to a committee.

MRS. SCHEIB NOT POISONED.

Partial Report from Prof. Larkin Doesn't Aid Case Against Husband.

The report of Prof. John Larkin of Columbia University, on which the police counted to prove that Lillian Scheib, whose husband, Harry, is held on a charge of homicide, was murdered, was sent to the District Attorney and the police yesterday.

It concerned only the contents of the victim's stomach, and held that the stomach was entirely free from traces of poison, and that there was nothing to indicate that Mrs. Scheib came to her death through the administration of drugs.

Assistant District Attorney Rubin had the report in his possession while conducting the prosecution's case in a special hearing before Magistrate Corrigan in the Tombs Court, but he did not enter the document in evidence. It will be held until Prof. Larkin reports on his analysis of the fluid in the bathtub in which Mrs. Scheib's bory was found.

In their efforts to gain more time in which to continue their investigations, the police and Assistant District Attorney Rubin had twenty witnesses before Magistrate Corrigan, none of whom had anything vital to do with the case as the police have worked it up. There was a woman who had noticed an odor in the Seventy-eighth Street house, another woman to whom she had commented about this, a janitor to whom she had complained, a superintendent who had disinfected her bathroom, and a neighbor who had seen her moving away on account of the odor.

The prosecution, through presenting these witnesses, managed to consume a court day, and at its close to obtain another adjournment. The next session was sceduled for Friday morning, when the full report from Prof. Larkin should be on hand. In the meantime Scheib will be kept in the Tombs without bail.

Coroner's Physician Lehane, the first witness heard yesterday, reiterated so positively his belief that Mrs. Scheib had been dead for at least four months that the lawyers for Scheib consumed much time in trying to shake his testimony. It is the programme of the defense to demonstrate, if possible, that Scheib lived in the Seventy-eighth Street apartment through February and most of March and that his wife's body was not then in the flat, she having deserted him and disappeared, only to come back after he had obtained another dwelling place and end her life.

Lawyer Karlin produced a stack of medical text books, which he said did not corroborate Dr. Lehane's assertion that he could accurately determine the length of time since death from the condition of a body.

"But Tidy's 'Legal Medicine' corroborates me," insisted Dr. Lehane.

"Is that a recognized authority?" Karlin asked.

"I should say it is," was the doctor's reply. "It is the bible of the profession."

Dr. Lehane and Scheib's lawyer argued at length on the possible effect of steam pipes in the bathroom as an aid to decomposition.

"I am just as positive that the body was in the bathtub for four months as I am that it has been dead for four months," was the final assertion of Dr. Lehane at the end of the cross-examination.

Second Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty intimated that his investigators would have surprises to spring when the case is reopened on Friday. He has been tracing Scheib's career and has found that the young chauffeur has been involved in many transactions which he may have an opportunity to explain.

There was talk yesterday of filing another charge not connected with the death of Mrs. Scheib against the chauffeur in case Magistrate Corrigan decides not to hold him for the Grand Jury. A rumor that the Grand Jury was likely to begin an investigation without waiting for a formal commitment caused Magistrate Corrigan to express the hope that it would do so and thus relieve him of the necessity of passing judgment on a case in which the evidence turns on such fine points.

Assistant District Attorney Rubin, however, said there was nothing in sight yet in the way of definite evidence that would warrant him in carrying the case to the Grand Jury.

JACK JOHNSON LEAVES US.

Sails First Class, with a Diamond Flashlight, in Kronprinz Wilhelm.

Out of the 200 first-cabin passengers who sailed yesterday for Europe on the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinz Wilhelm from Hoboken the chief figure on the promenade deck was Jack Johnson, the champion heavy weight pugilist, who was accompanied by his wife, a colored chauffeur, two sparring partners, one white, on black; twenty trunks, two automobiles, and a small safe containing his money and his wife's jewels. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson had reserved the chief engineer's cabin, as all the other accommodation was taken, and owing to this very few of the passengers were aware they were to have his company on board.

In the hour previous to sailing the deck and dock were thronged with the admirers of the pugilist, and his fellow-passengers managed to repress any expressions of delight at having him among them. It was a surprise also for the North German Lloyd officials at 5 Broadway, as the fighter had booked through Tausig's uptown agency.

The delicate question as to what part of the liner Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were to dine in was decided by Chief Steward Tragee, who had a small table set up for them in the dining saloon at the foot of the companion way leading from the promenade deck.

The cabin occupied by the champion and his wife was filled with baskets of flowers and fruit. He wore a fashionable brown suit with tie to match, brown shoes, and morning jewelry, consisting of an eight-karat diamond stud that flashed like a searchlight, and an enormous diamond cluster ring on the middle finger of his right hand, which nearly blinded the Steward when Johnson held his hand up.

Mrs. Johnson, dressed in white, with a picture hat and a towering ostrich plume, wore nearly half her diamonds, it was said. She is known to have what might be called a collection.

Johnson said that he was going to open at the Oxford Music Hall on June 19, and after the coronation festivities he intended to go across to Paris and possibly take a run to Monte Carlo in his car. He would return to New York by Aug. 15 to keep an engagement at Hammerstein's Victoria Music Hall. When asked if he intended to fight he replied that he would fight any one for $30,000, even a bear if the money was put up.

"I'd rather fight Langford," Johnson said, "because he's the next best man in the game, but I'll meet 'Bombardier' Wells or any one they put up. I am not going to meet King George so far as I know, but should be happy to shake hands with him if he asked me. I shan't meet Jeffries there, as he is coming back."

The Washburn-Crosby Company's famous Gold Medal Flour has all the bread, biscuit, cake, and pastry-making qualities of the finest wheat concentrated in it. It bakes more to the pound than other flour, saves money as well as the extra work and worry occasioned by the use of flour of less uniform quality. That is why knowing housewives always demand it.
